CANADIAN SMALL BUSINESS TAX CHECKLIST

We want business owners to get every tax credit and deduction they're entitled to.

The two business structures H&R Block Canada services are:

Sole-proprietorships

If you are a sole proprietor you do not need to file a separate tax return for your business income, you report your business income on your personal tax return (T1).

Small corporations

If you run your business through a corporation, you have to file a separate return (T2) for your business income because your corporation is a separate legal entity under the Canadian Income Tax law.

What you need when filing:

Sole proprietor: □ All your T-slips for the year	Expenses  Advertising
<ul> <li>□ Information of any other income</li> <li>□ Business income and expenses compilation for the year to be filed – if bookkeeping is completed</li> <li>□ Invoices and receipt, payroll information and GST/HST returns – if bookkeeping is completed</li> <li>Corporation:</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>□ Business insurance – for business assets, liability</li> <li>□ Vehicle expenses – fuel, insurance, lease/bill of sale, payments with interest, repairs, maintenance, parking, car washes</li> <li>□ Mileage log or kilometers driven for business purposes</li> <li>□ Payroll data for employees; PD7A; statement of account for current source deductions</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>□ All T-slips the corporation received</li> <li>□ GST/HST return(s) for the tax year</li> <li>□ Financial statements and trial balance – if already prepared</li> <li>□ Invoices and receipts, payroll information, bank statements – if bookkeeping services are provided</li> <li>□ Last year's return</li> <li>□ Copy of incorporation papers</li> <li>□ Latest Notice of Assessment</li> <li>□ Accounts receivable at end of fiscal year</li> <li>□ Amounts payable at end of fiscal year</li> <li>□ Employee deductions payable at end of fiscal year</li> <li>□ Copy of minute book/director's resolutions</li> <li>□ Fixed Asset Continuity Schedule</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Other employee expenses</li> <li>□ Professional fees – lawyers, accountants, and consultants</li> <li>□ Office supplies</li> <li>□ Interest expense – business loans, investments expenses and interest</li> <li>□ Travel</li> <li>□ Rent/Property tax</li> <li>□ Utilities</li> <li>□ Accounts payable at end of fiscal year (cash basis)</li> <li>□ Meals and entertainment: receipts should have a list of who attended and the purpose of the meeting/event</li> </ul> Home Office Expenses
Business Income  ☐ Gross receipts from sales or services ☐ Sales records ☐ Returns and allowances ☐ Business chequing/savings account interest ☐ Other income ☐ Accounts receivable at end of fiscal year (cash basis)	If you work out of your home, you may be able to deduct a portion of your home offices expenses. The tax rules differ, depending on whether you file as a sole proprietor or for a corporation. These expenses include:    Mortgage interest (not principal) or rent   Property tax payments   Utilities   Home insurance payments   Home maintenance and repair costs   Cable/Internet
<ul> <li>□ Beginning inventory total dollar amount</li> <li>□ Inventory purchases</li> <li>□ Ending inventory total dollar amount</li> <li>□ Items removed for personal purposes</li> <li>□ Materials and supplies</li> </ul>	Capital Assets Capital assets cannot be expensed in the year acquired but must be depreciated over the period of ownership. A separate record should therefore be kept of the purchase and sale of capital assets. Typical examples would include:  Vehicles used for business  Machinery and equipment  Tools

□ Buildings

