ABOUT CITY OF AGARTALA

Agartala, Capital of Tripura, is situated on the banks of river Haora. It was the capital of the former princely state of Tripura. It shot into prominence when Maharaja Krishna Manikya shifted his capital to the city. Agartala offers some outstandingly beautiful palaces, gardens, hills, temples and lakes. Perfection is the word for the architectural monuments of the city. The red government buildings are in contrast against the remarkably usually white old British buildings that are still in existence and in use. Some of the monuments have been selected as UNESCO world heritage sites.

Agartala has a good sporting tradition, with many sports and games being played. Especially favourite is football (soccer) with its own city football league. Agartala is famous for its seasonal fruits. The Queen and Kew varieties of pineapple are popular. Tripura Orange is well known for its high juice content and special sweetness. Tripura oranges have secured highest honour several times in the all India "Citrus Show". Do not forget to visit the pineapple gardens, litchi orchards, cashew orchards and orange gardens.

It is among the smallest of India's states and is located in an isolated hilly region of the country, with various indigenous peoples or tribes accounting for a significant portion of the population. Agartala is home to 19 indigenous tribal groups and Bengali
