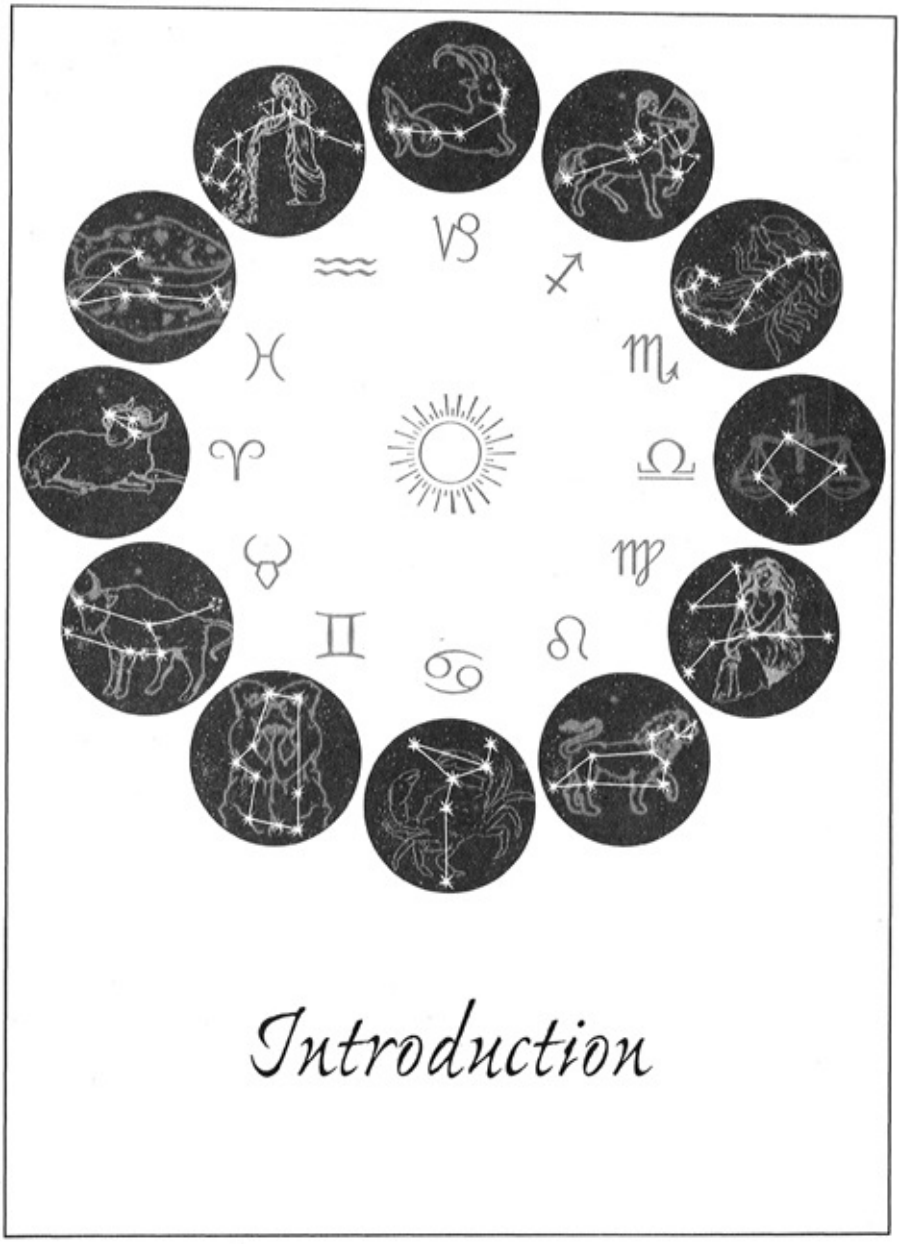
Appendix of Fixed Stars



Introduction

In the pages of this book, you will find a complete personality profile for people born on each of the 366 days of the year. This book goes far beyond simple Sun sign astrology to provide insight into the unique characteristics of each day. We have drawn on our knowledge of astrology, psychology, numerology, and fixed stars, and only after synthesizing all these disciplines have we created these comprehensive daily profiles. No two days share identical cosmic forces; therefore, each day is uniquely special. Every daily profile provides intriguing information about yourself and your future and will also prove irresistible in checking up on birthdays of friends, lovers, family, and colleagues. You will gain a greater depth of understanding of your own capabilities and potential as well as insight into the character and motivation of the people around you.

Astrology and numerology are languages of symbols that explore the relationship between humankind and the universe. They give us an indication of our place in the greater plan of the cosmos.

Since the earliest days of its history, humankind has always been aware of the forces and cycles of nature. These natural cycles and cosmic rhythms exert an influence on every living organism. Although the fixed stars are situated outside our own solar system, they too have a pull upon us. They have been incorporated into astrology since ancient times. In this book, we introduce modern interpretations of the influence of fixed stars for each day of the Sun's yearly cycle.

Astrology and numerology are ways to interpret these influences, to show how these cycles affect our lives. The many facets of astrological study include astronomy, symbolism, psychology, physics, and geometry, while numerology embodies the theory that numbers possess a duality of quality and quantity. All the powerful interpretive methods have been brought together in this book to give a unique, daily, in-depth profile.

The Power of Birthdays, Stars, and Numbers integrates two different ways of calculating the Sun's yearly cycle. The astrological year begins on March 21, at 0 degrees of Aries, whereas the numerological year based on the Western calendar begins each year on January 1. These two solar year systems, when combined, reveal the holistic vision of astronumerology that can provide deep psychological insight for each birthdate.

Cogent astrological practices are based on a single moment in space and time, making each astrology chart symbolically unique. Although astrologers require the exact year, date, time, and place of birth in order to construct a horoscopic wheel, popular astrology refers only to the twelve basic signs of the zodiac. This division of the year into twelve monthly categories, along with the planets, can be viewed as the ABC of astrological studies.

The Sun is in the center of our solar system, and the planets, including the Earth, orbit around it. The Earth makes two important cycles as it revolves both on its axis and around the Sun in a counterclockwise direction. It is the Earth's rotation on its axis that brings about the cycle of day and night. From the geocentric view (from Earth), the Sun appears to cross the sky from the eastern horizon to the western horizon. The Sun's apparent journey against the backdrop of the fixed stars in the twelve constellations marks a path called the ecliptic around the Earth. The Earth's axis is not only rotating but tilting, with the North Pole facing the Sun and away from the Sun at different times of the year to produce four climate variations called the four seasons. These points are more commonly called spring and autumnal equinoxes and summer and winter solstices. In astrology these four divisions of the year are called the four cardinal points of the 360-degree zodiacal wheel. The astrological year begins in the spring at 0 degrees of Aries; the summer solstice is marked as 0 degrees Cancer; the autumn is at 0 degrees Libra; and the winter solstice is at 0 degrees Capricorn. Since the zodiac wheel is divided into twelve equal parts of 30 degrees arc each, the four cardinal signs of the zodiac wheel are followed by four fixed signs of Taurus, Leo, Scorpio, and Aquarius. The four mutable signs of Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius, and Pisces complete the twelve signs of the zodiac wheel.

The zodiac is divided into twelve distinct signs. But in advanced astrological practice, those signs are divided further, each division associated with yet other forces. The twelve signs divide into thirds, called decanates. Each decanate describes 10 degrees of the circle of the zodiac, with the three decanates of that sign acting as a subinfluence and complement to the qualities of the sign itself. Each decanate is associated with an additional sign and planet. In this book, you will find not only the sign under which you were born, but also your significant decanate.

As the Sun returns to approximately the same degree every year, astrologers refer to a person's birthday as a solar return. By dividing each of the twelve zodiac signs into thirty individual degrees, and including numerology and fixed stars, The Power of Birthdays, Stars, and Numbers creates a link between the twelve zodiac signs and the comprehensive art of astrology.

We also provide a special section that allow readers to further investigate their character and future through the use of numerology. This includes calculating holistic numbers and making predictions through personal year numbers.

The Birthday Profiles

Each birthday profile contains specific insight into the characteristics of each day. The profile provides general knowledge of planetary and numerological configurations along with the Sun sign, degree, and decanate that further individualize the Sun sign by adding the subinfluences of another sign and planet.

We have also included the astrological technique for prediction known as progression.

Astrologers regularly use Sun progressions to indicate important years in an individual's life. These turning points for personal development occur approximately three times in a person's life, when the progressed Sun changes signs.

The strengths and weaknesses hidden within each person are revealed in the Secret Self. Suitable career options are featured for each entry, along with a list of the famous personalities born on that day.

In each profile we provide you some insight into the numerology of your birthday. Each day describes the qualities of the numbers, and these numbers are further described through the qualities of the month's numerology. Although your day and month numerology play a significant part in understanding your character, they are secondary to your personal holistic number, which influences your entire life and every aspect of your character. So in order to understand your character you need to read not only your day and month numerology but also your holistic number which is clearly defined in the introduction to this book. If you would like to discover the numerology of how each year applies to you, you may want to calculate your personal year number, which is also provided in the introductory section.

In each daily entry, love and relationships are featured and include specific dates and categories of people with whom the reader is likely to find karmic links, ideal love relationships, friendships, and partners. Although we have included many suitable dates, these lists are not conclusive; therefore, you may have important relationships with people not listed in this book.

Each birthday profile also provides information regarding the special and powerful influence on each birthday of the fixed stars scattered along the path of the Sun's yearly cycle. Several stars may affect your birthday, or there may be no stars bright and close enough to the Sun's location in the galactic sky that day to exert any Sun-related influence. All the stars that have Sun-related influence for the birthday are listed. And you will also find your primary star's influence. Beginning on p. 795, there is an appendix of all the important fixed stars, so you can look up the influences of all the stars on your list—and if you choose to delve even further into astrological practice, you may find that even if a fixed star is not related to the position of your day's Sun, some stars will nevertheless be linked to the positions of the planets on that day. It is our hope that each of you will want to learn more and delve yet deeper into the rich intricacies of the fixed stars.

Special insights into the characteristics of each day are further described through the qualities of the day's numerology. These are supplemented by interpretations of the month's number. Finally, in each daily entry, love and relationships are featured and include specific dates and categories of people with whom the reader is likely to find karmic links, ideal love relationships, friendships, and partners.

In bringing together in one volume our ranges of expertise, we hope to provide you with the most comprehensive reference tool available in the field of personology. We have worked to synthesize many years of research, complex astrological and chart experience, and thousands of case studies into personology profiles that will give you a greater depth of understanding of your own and others' character, capabilities, and potential. Come with us now into the days of the year. Each day begins as each person begins, unique and full of promise.

Introduction to Astrology

Since the earliest days of our civilizations we have observed the heavens to gain a greater understanding of the relationship between humanity and the universe. To early humans, the impermanence of existence on Earth brought uncertainty. The recurrence of celestial phenomena, however, such as the rising and setting Sun, in contrast brought reassurance. Our ancestors perceived this contrast as the fundamental distinction between celestial and terrestrial domains. Astrology is, therefore, a study of the meaningful interaction between the stars, planetary cycles, and events on Earth.

One of the few remaining philosophies to maintain a holistic perspective, astrology teaches us that everything is interconnected. Nothing stands as a law by itself. Everything is part of a constantly shifting and dynamic relationship with the cycles of the cosmos. We do not stand outside this living system. We affect it, and we are profoundly affected by it. All people are part of a changing and dynamic relationship with other people. The universe is a complex interplay of cycles and forces, as opposite polarities set each other in motion, themselves part of greater systems. Astrologers acknowledge this interplay and try to comprehend it through symbolism.

No person stands alone, for all people are part of shifting and dynamic relationships with other people, and each of these people is involved in shifting and dynamic relationships with the cycles of the cosmos.

All that is organic pulses, is distinguished by periodicity. This cyclic, rhythmic existence is captured by the astrological hypothesis. Astrology embraces complexity, the simultaneity of subjectivity and objectivity. Objectively, astrology measures time by the cycles of the planets, giving a unique perspective on the meaning of duration. Subjectively, astrology operates through deep symbolism and finds knowledge through the study of context.

Astrology maintains that the course of nature is a circle or mandala. In the 360 degrees of the circle we experience each moment of being individually and collectively. Each degree is a separate fragment of the circle, but only with each degree present does the circle exist. The mandala is a symbol of all creation, a self-contained and perfect form with no beginning, no end. The circle stands for both the universe and all human individuals, for the universe within. All of life's activities relate to this circle. Its structure also conveys the cycles of time. By exploring astrology, one can reveal the connections between the external and internal universes, gaining greater psychological and spiritual awareness.

The two major lights in astrology are the Sun and Moon, which correspond to the cycle of day and night. On the basis of this rhythm, solar and lunar calendars were established by early cultures and interpreted as hours, days, months, and years. In psychological terms, the symbolic union of the Sun and Moon is perceived as "the mystical marriage," representing the union of opposites within the individual. In Eastern philosophical terms this union is characterized by the yin/yang, or masculine and feminine, principles.

A personal horoscope is a "map" showing the precise position of the planets in our solar system in relation to Earth at the moment of an individual's birth. In its basic form the astrological birth chart consists of ten planets and twelve zodiac signs.

The Twelve Astrological Roles of the Sun

Common to all of humankind are well-known universal themes such as love, hate, birth, death, childhood, parenthood, and old age. The complete range of these human experiences is symbolized by the astrological wheel as the Sun makes its symbolic journey through the twelve zodiac signs. Astrology maintains that we are all born into life to join this great cycle of existence in order to take on a role within the divine drama. In the words of Shakespeare: "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players."

In the model of wholeness, everything is in relationship with everything else and therefore interconnected. Similarly, in astrology all twelve signs are imbedded in the psyches of individuals and humankind alike, and although a person is born in one particular sign, in order to integrate with the whole, he or she must relate to the other eleven signs. In our daily lives we come to experience all facets of the twelve signs, but our Sun sign can be interpreted as the major role we have come here to learn to play. In psychological terms, Carl Gustav Jung interpreted these universal roles as archetypes.

People often think they are acting out their own role, but through self-realization they come to recognize that individuals are only conduits or channels of the divine and that through them the universe is focused according to the time and place of their performance. The astrologer Dane Rudhyar said in his book An Astrological Mandala:

"The ego in [an individual] becomes a crystalline lens through which the will of God is concentrated in the individualized act. He does nothing but the One Mind thinks him. His life has become sacred because it is no longer his life but the whole performing with and through the space of his total organism."

The Twelve Astrological Signs

ARIES

FIRST SIGN

RULING PLANET: MARS

BODY PART: HEAD

KEYWORDS:

ENERGY, ACTIVITY, LEADERSHIP

Bursting with energy and creative ideas, Arians belong to the first sign of the zodiac. Aries is a fire sign, and Aries people are high-spirited and enthusiastic; they genuinely believe the world is theirs to explore and conquer. Ardent and assertive by nature, these individuals forge ahead with endless projects and activities, which they love to initiate. Arians are the pioneers and leaders of the zodiac, and even the quieter among them secretly want to be number one or first at something. Ruled by the planet Mars, Arians are doers and very rarely sit around twiddling their thumbs. Combining an active body with a daring and enterprising spirit, these personalities eagerly seek to be in the forefront of any activity. Frequently bold and passionate, they can be highly idealistic and fiercely loyal to the people they love. Arians like to talk at length to their partners about their own favorite projects but can be equally supportive of their partners.

As patience is not their strongest point, often you can recognize Aries people by their direct approach, decisive action, and lack of subtlety and tact. This same impatience can also make them intolerant, impulsive, and highly likely to do something rash on a moment's notice. Arians, however, respond well to crises, as they have the ability to meet challenges head-on and to face difficult situations courageously.

Despite opposing public opinion, Arians will usually refuse to compromise their ideals, even if it gets them into trouble. As they get older, however, most will learn humility, but not without first encountering many confrontations. The men of this sign love to play knight-errant and the women may appear forceful and assertive.

Often Arians are quick to anger and eager to express their opinions, but they are just as quick to forgive and forget. Fired by adrenaline and impatient with detail, these individuals are usually in a hurry and work better when launching projects. Nevertheless, Arian personalities may need to guard against a naive, self-centered nature or a tendency to bully others.

Generally, Arians are full of creative energy and inspiration and have great faith in themselves. This often shows in natural leadership ability. It is therefore hardly surprising that they can influence others to follow in their footsteps. Refusing to be put down, dynamic and generous, the Aries spirit lives to fight another day.

TAURUS

FIXED EARTH

RULING PLANET: VENUS

BODY PART: THROAT AND NECK

KEYWORDS:

ENDURANCE, PERSISTENCE, SENSUALITY

Sensible Taureans are quietly determined and very sensible individuals who never give up. Patient and persistent, they will continue when all others have fallen by the wayside. Their warm, seemingly calm and easygoing manner reflects an enjoyment of simplicity in life.

Taureans do not like to rush into things; they make decisions carefully and deliberately, with security and financial issues very much to the fore. With Venus as their ruling planet, Taureans are often magnetic, sensual, and very attractive to the opposite sex. The Venus influence also bestows an enhanced love of beauty, an interest in the arts, and a highly refined sense of touch.

Taurus is a practical Earth sign, and so the basic comforts of life, such as food and home, are very important to these individuals. They often become experts at culinary skills and connoisseurs of wine, and they love entertaining. Taureans are also the symbolic bankers of the zodiac, with the majority of them making careful lists of all their money dealings. Charged with being materialistic, Taureans would reply that they are merely being sensible and looking for value for money. They can be experts at evaluating everything, from money matters to themselves.

Taureans are often generous with their loved ones but may have to avoid being overpossessive. Loyal and devoted friends, they often suffer in silence in order to keep the peace, but if pushed too far, they are notorious for being obstinate and stubborn. Taurean personalities need to feel grounded and stable, and therefore prefer keeping things the way they are. In times of change and instability these individuals may have difficulty adapting to new situations. Happily, they can always find comfort through love of art and creativity, the joys of nature, or music.

Taureans usually have an attractive, calm, and even voice and are often good singers. If stressed, however, illness may affect the throat, although Taureans as a rule tend to be strong and healthy. Taurean personalities love pleasure and comfort but may need to guard against a tendency to overindulge in the good things of life.

Often these individuals are pragmatic and persevering and strive diligently toward their goals. Firm in their desires to build a solid foundation, Taureans can attract and achieve success.

Gemini

THIRD SIGN

MUTABLE AIR

RULING PLANET: MERCURY

BODY PART: LUNGS, ARMS, HANDS

KEYWORDS:

VERSATILITY, TALKATIVENESS, INGENUITY

Natural communicators with a never-ending thirst for knowledge, Geminis are eternal students. Being an Air sign and very intelligent, Geminis are always on the move, always trying to satisfy their mental curiosity. Extremely quick at picking out the salient points of any subject, they acquire a wide general knowledge, which they love to share with others. Geminis can be bright, multitalented, and enthusiastic but must guard against scattering their energies in too many directions. Through mental discipline and education, Geminis may learn to develop a greater depth of thought.

Linked to Mercury, people of this sign often have an androgynous quality, with a slim and youthful body. Geminis usually have bright, expressive faces and enjoy using their hands when conveying their ideas. Loving to talk, Geminis can chatter on for hours, which often results in extra-large telephone bills. Young in outlook, Geminis are often compared to the eternal child, always in a state of wonder.

Having sensitive nervous systems, Geminis may find it hard to concentrate their full attention on anything or anyone. Like their symbol, the twins, they are renowned for being able to do at least two things at once, as well as being flexible, versatile, and adaptable. Airy, sophisticated Geminis do not like to be pinned down and are determined never to be bored or boring. Not known for their consistency, Geminis appear to have many personalities and changing moods. Gemini individuals are generally intellectual and usually more interested in a stimulating mental challenge than earthly passion.

Light and friendly, Geminis have an easy rapport with others and are often more than willing to share the veritable mine of information they have at their fingertips. With their youthful charm and natural quick wit, is it any wonder that they can be the most delightful friends and companions? Entertaining, with a wealth of ideas, Geminis are highly expressive when they let their mercurial spirits soar.

Cancer

FOURTH SIGN

CARDINAL WATER

RULING PLANET: MOON

BODY PART: BREASTS AND STOMACH

KEYWORDS:

SENSITIVITY, SYMPATHY, AFFECTION

Emotional and sensitive Cancerians are ruled by their feelings. Like their guiding planet, the Moon, they run through the whole gamut of emotions that come with the changing tides. Cancerians have the power of the deepest ocean and the vulnerability of a solitary crab on a lonely beach. Like that crab, they have a protective shell of shyness or reserve to hide their great sensitivity and caution. This should not be interpreted as a weakness, however, as they sometimes withdraw to gather strength.

Sympathetic and kind, Cancerians have a strong need to nurture, so they often take the role of parent, caregiver, or therapist. They can have an extremely strong protective streak and will defend their loved ones against all odds. It is hardly surprising that home and family play a highly important role in their need for security. Generally domestic-oriented, Cancerians are usually connoisseurs of food and good cooks. Many Cancerians go as far as to feel insecure without a full freezer.

Despite their many and changing moods, these personalities are naturally affectionate and may need to avoid smothering others with their protective love and devotion. Cancer is a Water sign, and Cancerians are often shy, with sentimental tendencies, tending to hang on to the past and become avid collectors or hoarders. The objects of this collecting or accumulating can range from family heirlooms and antiques to the memories contained in photos and letters. Cancerians can also have a talent for hanging on to money, which they are likely to store in savings accounts for a rainy day.

Cancerians often have complex personalities. On one hand, they may appear to be a tower of strength, but on the other, they seem to have the vulnerability of a child. Cancerians are masters of the art of passive resistance.

With the Moon coloring their responses, Cancerians are naturally intuitive or mediumistic and can be easily hurt. Their powerful imagination and sensitive understanding may find an avenue of expression through the creative and artistic worlds. Yet above all, once they trust someone enough to show their feelings, they can be strong, loyal, and protective.

Leo

FIFTH SIGN

RULING PLANET: SUN

BODY PART: HEART

KEYWORDS:

VITALITY, CONFIDENCE, SELF-EXPRESSION

Warm, loving, and generous, Leos have big hearts. Their kind and magnanimous gestures come from a love of the dramatic, as Leos play to the crowd and feel happiest with an appreciative audience. Luckily, to compensate for the likelihood of grabbing center stage, Leos can also be attentive to others. They can express bountiful approval for others' projects and shower them with compliments.

Ruled by the Sun, Leos possess a lovable, childlike playfulness and a strong need for creative self-expression. Seeing themselves in leading roles rather than the chorus line, Leos often have trouble with vanity and pride. They find it hard to admit that they are wrong, and flattery leaves them open to manipulation. However, Leos can easily compensate for any failings by their sunny personality, sense of fun, and generosity. These friendly and gregarious people are ideal partners for social events, parties, visits to the theater, and long holidays.

A desire to shine, combined with their royal, commanding air, brings Leos to positions of authority, where they can show their remarkable leadership skills. Leos just take charge naturally. As they sometimes do this without being asked, Leos may be accused of being too bossy. Generally, however, they will work extremely hard to fulfill their responsibilities, and they make excellent managers and leaders. Leos who do not fulfill their natural potential may fall into idleness and lose their spirit.

Lions are known for their courage and would much rather play a strong and protective role for others than be weak and defenseless. Even when the quieter Leos are hiding their pride and greatness under a facade of modesty, their regal dignity shows through. Leos presume that others possess a sense of integrity similar to their own, and they are careful to keep their sense of self-respect in any disagreement. Leos want people to think well of them and are very aware of the impression they make on others.

Belonging to a fixed Fire sign, Leos can be lively and enthusiastic yet somewhat stubborn. Their creativity and sense of drama combine to make them great romantics. Leos love to love and be loved. No matter where you meet them, their sunny personalities will leave a lasting impression.

VIRGO

MUTABLE EARTH

BODY PART: INTESTINES

KEYWORDS:

DISCERNMENT, EFFICIENCY, SERVICE

Analytical and efficient, Virgos have a strong work ethic. They need order in life and want things done in a methodical way. Virgos constantly examine and refine in order to improve existing systems. Unfortunately, this perfectionism may extend to critiquing the people around them, causing their messages to be resisted by others. On the other hand, Virgos do not appreciate your pointing out their faults, as they are already well aware of them and can be their own worst critic. This ability to appreciate their own failings can make Virgos modest and unassuming, and they often validate their own self-worth by being of service to others.

Ruled by Mercury, Virgos are intelligent, articulate, and discriminating, and with the added element of Earth, they can be practical, capable organizers, who can work very hard and pay attention to detail. Economical and prudent with money, Virgos may on occasion keep a tight hold on their purse strings, but they can be more than generous with time and money should anybody need assistance. They will, however, expect the people they help to make an effort to help themselves. Virgos do not usually respond well to stupidity or vulgarity and have logical minds that instinctively want to bring order out of confusion. Virgos usually analyze the smallest of details but must guard against going over and over the same issues and failing to see the big picture.

Possessed of extremely high standards, Virgos can be highly discriminating and extra fastidious in certain areas. Virgos are often interested in cleanliness and nutrition, and they are usually advocates of exercise and a healthy lifestyle. Despite this, at times they may suffer from mental tension, occasionally becoming overanxious or neurotic. This may frequently be due to the pressure of work; because of their strong sense of obligation and duty, Virgos may often take on more than they can handle. Normally wonderful employees, Virgos dislike clutter and are advocates of thoroughness and efficiency.

Dependable and sincere, with a methodical approach to life, Virgos will always be pillars of practical, sensible support. In fact, Virgos will offer their help before you have even asked.

Libra

SEVENTH SIGN

CARDINAL AIR

BODY PART: KIDNEYS

KEYWORDS:

BALANCE, DIPLOMACY, RELATIONSHIP

Librans are the diplomats of the zodiac. To avoid disharmony they will turn on the charm, flash you the most delightful smile, and do everything possible to keep the peace. Affectionate, gracious, and refined, Librans need to be popular. Belonging to an Air sign, they have a lightness about them and are friendly, intelligent, and sociable.

Ruled by Venus and keenly aware of relationships, Librans are always able to see things from another person's point of view. This balancing principle often causes them to need a partner to act as a mirror for a better understanding of themselves. Experts at being just and fair, Libras weigh everything carefully before making a decision. They can discuss the pros and cons of any situation or problem with amazing logic and discernment. This ability ensures their skill at the arts of compromise and negotiation. Unfortunately, this may cause indecisiveness and an inability to arrive at a final conclusion.

Balance is a very powerful keyword for Librans. Although genuinely wanting harmony, they are still prone to difficult periods, when their scales dip down too far on one side. However, as they work on their self-awareness and inner adjustment, they become more self-reliant. This allays their tendency to become dependent on others. Librans may need to learn how to stand up for their beliefs even when it may cause controversy.

Ruled by Venus, Librans are sociable, elegant, and great lovers of beauty and luxury. They usually have an attractive home and are naturally good at some form of artistic expression. Having a natural eye for color, they need to be surrounded by tasteful and harmonious surroundings or they can become unhappy. This love of beauty can also usually be seen from their outward appearance, as they inevitably make an effort to look attractive.

Superb hosts or hostesses, Librans especially love activities that combine sociability with love, such as weddings or small gatherings of friends and family. In fact, they are great romantics who will always appreciate gifts of flowers or chocolate, thus fulfilling their soul's need for beauty and their weakness for anything sweet. With just a little bit of love and affection you can always find your way into a Libran's heart.

Scorpio

EIGHTH SIGN

FIXED WATER

RULING PLANET: PLUTO

BODY PART: SEX ORGANS

KEYWORDS:

REGENERATION, SECRECY, POWER

Magnetic Scorpios belong to the most passionate sign of the zodiac. Whatever they do, they do powerfully and intensely. There is nothing halfhearted about Scorpios: They are creatures of power, will, and extremes.

Belonging to a Water sign, Scorpios prefer to investigate life at a deeper emotional level. Not for them the frothy language of the dilettante; Scorpios want the real story and probe for the truth. They are experts at receiving subliminal signals, with the namesake of their ruling planet, Pluto, as ruler of the underworld. This results in Scorpios' psychically picking up what others are unconsciously feeling as well as what they are saying. Like a detective or psychologist, they will ask you everything about yourself, yet rarely reveal themselves. This secrecy is usually a cloak of power. As Scorpios feel deeply, they can be painfully hurt and so prefer to be in control.

A major life lesson for Scorpios involves the overcoming of desire through the creative use of the will. As their sign is connected to the very roots of the sex drive, their feelings are strong and intense, sometimes leading to jealousy or possessiveness.

Symbolic death or transformation is a powerful experience that Scorpios are not afraid to undertake. There will be times when they are willing to walk away from everything in order to validate their intense feelings. They cannot be insincere even if that means losing everything; this does, of course, ultimately give them enormous strength, when they are not afraid to let go. Once they have decided to take on something, their will to achieve is tremendous. Belonging to a fixed sign, they have extraordinary staying power and will persevere with a situation until the bitter end.

Scorpios are usually competitive and do not like losing. Once defeated they will often wait until they can prove you wrong or exact revenge, no matter how long they have to wait. On the other hand, when on your side they will be just as passionately loyal and loving, totally giving of themselves regardless of effort or sacrifice.

Scorpio is a sign of regeneration. Scorpios have the potential for enormous strength from connecting with the fundamental creative forces of nature. The magical symbol of the phoenix rising out of the ashes represents their ability to be reborn, to rise again from the depths to the heights with new understanding and power. For Scorpios it is all or nothing; they do not want to live on a superficial level. They need challenge to bring out their power and make them feel alive.

Sagittarius

NINTH SIGN

MUTABLE FIRE

BODY PART: HIPS AND THIGHS

KEYWORDS: HONESTY, EXPLORATION, IDEALISM

Sagittarians are free spirits with a friendly, independent style. They dislike being tied down and are incurable idealists, always looking to expand their horizons and improve their lot. Optimistic and easygoing, they have a love of truth, honesty, and justice that gives them a very philosophical approach to life.

Spirited individuals, Sagittarians think big and see the grander vision. This ability to perceive the “big plan” means that Sagittarians are usually working on some scheme or project for the future. They love to explore and are inveterate travelers of the mind and the world. Placing a high value on knowledge or wisdom, they seek inspiration for themselves and for others, genuinely wishing to uplift people with their amusing, clever words or their big smile. Unfortunately, they often achieve the opposite effect by forgetting to think before they speak. Outspoken and frank, Sagittarians express whatever crosses their mind, with an honesty that is startling in its directness. Buoyantly bouncing back after committing a faux pas is part of the charm of Sagittarius, however, so they can genuinely assure you that they did not mean to offend, and you cannot help but forgive them.

Through their constant need for expansion, Sagittarians often turn to higher learning and enjoy exploring subjects such as philosophy, religion, travel, and law. Some Sagittarians are more sporty than intellectual and get their excitement from playing the game. Usually lucky, they love to take risks in one form or another and may be drawn to gamble or speculate.

Whatever Sagittarians do, they like to do in style. In their need for the good things of life they often indulge in the best. They should be careful, however, not to carry their extravagant streak too far and become greedy or self-indulgent. To compensate, Sagittarians are good-humored and sincere. They love the freedom to move around and thus prefer to leave their options open.

Enthusiastic, warm, and generous, wearing their hearts on their sleeves, Sagittarians, like the archer, aim their arrows far into the distance. They know how to enjoy themselves and are eager for the adventure.

Capricorn

TENTH SIGN

CARDINAL EARTH

BODY PART: KNEES, SKELETAL BONES

KEYWORDS: AMBITION, CONSCIENCE, DILIGENCE

The ultimate realists, Capricorns know full well there is no gain without hard work. They have a strong sense of duty and are quite willing to wait patiently to fulfill their ambitions. Like the goat, they will eventually climb to the top of that mountain even if it takes them a whole lifetime.

Hardworking, diligent, and determined, Capricorns need to have a purpose, for without a precise goal they are lost. They desire order and structure to make them feel complete and usually write out daily to-do lists. Security is important to them, and, influenced by their ruling planet, Saturn, they take a cautious and conservative approach to life. They show a great respect for authority and admire the wisdom of age and experience. This extends to their work, for when Capricorns execute a job, they are very conscientious. However, Capricorns can also be stubborn, cold, or calculating, using Saturnine hardness for selfish purposes rather than for self-discipline, normally one of their better qualities.

The economical, practical, and thrifty characteristics of Capricorns' earthy element blend well with their desire for status and prestige, enabling them to rise to positions of power without wasting any effort. They are not frivolous or flighty; they take responsibilities seriously and place home and family at the top of their priorities. Unfortunately, Capricorns can also be pessimistic, feeling they are never good enough, and must guard against depression. When they doubt themselves and their abilities they may give up without even trying, but when given the security of a firm foundation they can be relentless in their drive for success. More than anything else, Capricorns need to develop an optimistic and positive outlook.

Remember that beneath their slightly shy and reserved exterior is a wonderfully dry sense of humor and a tenacity that comes from inner discipline. When others need assistance, they know they can always count on a Capricorn to be reliable and solid.

AQUARIUS

BODY PART: ANKLES AND CALVES

KEYWORDS:

DETACHMENT, HUMANITARIANISM, INDEPENDENCE

Original and unconventional, Aquarians are progressive and independent. Aquarians' interest in how the human race operates is an intellectual exercise for them. Always playing the detached observer, they are able to take an impersonal, unemotional viewpoint. This tendency means they can think in terms of group consciousness, realizing that people are separate individuals operating within a larger whole. This humanitarian awareness is a strong characteristic of Aquarians, who often work for universal or philanthropic goals and campaign for just causes. A lack of separatism makes Aquarians friendly and helpful, enabling them to speak to strangers as though they have always known them.

The Aquarian rebel streak originates with their ruling planet, Uranus, which is renowned for endowing the ability to perceive future trends, as well as giving a strong need for freedom. Aquarians do not like to take orders and want to think for themselves, doing things in their own unique way. Too much insistence on following a certain way will certainly cause an Aquarian to do exactly the opposite. The combination of their strong contrary streak with their fixed sign can make them very stubborn. Fortunately, they are always willing to listen to an alternative viewpoint as long as it is presented objectively. The futuristic outlook of Aquarians enables them to embrace technology or new and exciting innovations without being intimidated. Like Uranus, Aquarians have an electric quality, which can manifest as a form of mental intuition. This can often produce the "eureka effect," when Aquarians suddenly know something to be true. Their zany genius can make them volatile and unpredictable but also highly inventive.

Although each Aquarian has an individual look, they all know they are part of a united group that stands for human rights and social reform. Even if the rest of the world does not understand them today, what Aquarians are doing now, others will be doing tomorrow.

Pisces

TWELFTH SIGN

MUTABLE WATER

BODY PART: FEET

KEYWORDS:

COMPASSION, RECEPTIVITY, IMAGINATION

Pisceans possess a highly developed feeling nature. Sensitive Pisceans are constantly receiving impressions from their outer environment, yet they are also acutely aware of their inner promptings. They often retreat into a private dream world to enjoy the musings of their powerful, wondrous imagination and sometimes to escape the harsher realities of life. The symbol for Pisces is two fish swimming in opposite directions, indicating a dual personality of extremes. At times they can be tired and lethargic, or just drifting, and at others they can be efficient, precise, and extremely hardworking.

Psychically open to all the more subtle emotions, Pisceans can show generosity and compassion. As they do not always have strong boundaries, they can often dissolve themselves in other people's needs. Pisceans therefore have to be careful not to lose their own sense of self-worth or even martyr themselves. Generally they often need large amounts of reassurance to boost their confidence, and at times they can be quite stubborn, allowing nobody to influence them. The least selfish sign of the zodiac, Pisceans can be extremely patient, but if provoked can become surprisingly aggressive.

Sentimental and kind, with tender emotions, Pisceans are very receptive to environment or the feelings of others. Combined with their remarkable imagination, this facility makes Pisceans excellent for any form of healing, music, art, drama, or photography, and particularly for things of a spiritual nature. Just as the fish swim in opposite directions, Pisceans are also open to mood swings. At times they are extremely optimistic, and at other times they may become vague or suffer a lack of drive and give up too easily. At such times they have to guard against escaping or becoming despondent. It is especially easy for idealistic Pisceans to project their high expectations and dreams onto others and end up being disillusioned.

Fortunately, they use their natural psychic ability to plug directly into the consciousness of all humanity. They are the visionaries who cannot help but uplift those around them with their humor, charm, and sympathy.

The Ten Planets

Each of the planets represents a psychological function and corresponds to aspects of our personality. Character traits are suggested by the positions of the planets and the relationship they have to each other. In astrology, the Sun and Moon, technically named the luminaries, are included in the ten planets that make up our solar system. The key issues associated with each planet are listed below.

The Sun

As the energy center of our solar system, the Sun radiates the power of light and vitality and relates to the life-giving force. In astrology, it represents the energy source of each living thing and gives a forceful assertion of individuality. It signifies the center of our being, our sense of identity and ego. The Sun glyph is a circle with a point in the center, indicating the heart of our physical universe. In esoteric symbolism, this circle represents the totality of infinity or eternity, and the dot in the middle signifies a particular point in time and space within that totality. Willpower, energy, strength, and self-expression are just some of the Sun's attributes. It also stands for ambition and pride, consciousness, and self-confidence, and it is a metaphor for the father or the masculine archetype. In mythology, kings and heroes are frequently associated with Helios or the Sun, which is the planet that rules the zodiac sign of Leo.

• Positive: vitality, individuality, creativity, vigor, willpower, inspiration, self-awareness, the ego, identity

• Negative: egotism, self-centeredness, pride, arrogance, over-bearingness, domination

The Moon

The Moon receives the reflected light of the Sun and is unique in that it is the only satellite that orbits the Earth. The Moon's influence is essentially receptive and nonrational. The Moon represents our emotional needs and instincts and governs the element of Water, including the oceans and the tides, and nocturnal life.

In mythology Isis, Istar, Artemis, and Diana all represent the many faces of the Moon goddess. Traditionally, the Moon is associated with the feminine, and it is in keeping with the ancient Greek concept of Gaia. Usually associated with intuition and psychic ability, the Moon is also strongly represented in folklore, poetry, and myth. Its divinity is particularly expressed through womanhood and the cycle of fertility, conception, birth, motherhood, and nature's abundance.

In psychological astrology the Moon represents our unconscious reactions and subjective experience. It also corresponds to the unconscious urge to satisfy our basic needs. The Moon reflects our different tensions, and forces us to externalize these feelings. The Moon also influences the fluctuations within these feelings or moods and governs the sign of Cancer.

• Positive: sensitivity, nurturing, receptivity, intuition, psychic ability

• Negative: moodiness, oversensitivity, overemotional

Mercury

In mythology Mercury is the messenger of the gods, who gave man language and the capacity to communicate and learn. To the Greeks Mercury was known as Hermes, whose gifts to humankind were writing and language. Mercury has a talent for rhetoric and mental trickery, a reflection of the ability to develop the conscious mind until we become a little too clever for our own good.

Although usually portrayed as a youthful male figure, Mercury is neither male nor female. This is symbolic of its role as a neutral medium for the exchange of information. Mercury represents intellectual, rational thinking and discriminative powers, and is also linked to commerce and the marketplace.

Psychologically, Mercury represents mental ability and the need to comprehend and communicate, whether through speech, writing, teaching, or any other form of mental expression. Mercury rules both Gemini and Virgo.

- Positive: cleverness, mental agility, good communication skills, intellectualism
- Negative: trickiness, weak intellect or overdevelopment of the intellect, lack of logic

Venus

In mythology Venus is the goddess of love and beauty, mother of Eros. To the Greeks she was known as Aphrodite. Representing the female principle, Venus harmonizes and creates unity as well as imparting an appreciation of nature and art.

Psychologically, Venus represents the drive to relate to others, the expression of loving feelings, and what brings pleasure. Venus is popular, charming, and alluring, although possibly a little too indulgent or easygoing. Attempting to avoid confrontation at all costs, Venus will attempt to neutralize a threat by captivating or seducing the opposition.

Because Venus's function is to bring union, attraction plays a strong part in its role, with an emphasis on outward appearance, sociability, romantic love, and the opposite sex. The planet Venus imparts a sweetness of character, an appreciation of nature, and strong desires. Venus also "softens" anything it touches, and gives an aesthetic sense or good taste, natural refinement, and a talent for art and music. Governing what you value, Venus also reveals attitudes toward money and possessions, as well as self-worth. Venus rules the signs of both Taurus and Libra.

- Positive: love of beauty and art, warmth, sociability, sense of values, cooperation
- Negative: pleasure seeking, overindulgence, idleness, luxury

Mars

In mythology, Mars is the warrior god. Mars governs our survival instinct, whether we fight or flee. The antithesis of Venus, Mars represents the male principle and is competitive, assertive, and ready for action. Mars is full of energy and drive. Showing courage and dynamic forcefulness when facing adversaries, Mars is also associated with the hero archetype. Martian qualities are often associated with acts of bravery and indicate a daredevil mentality. In modern life we may use Mars's energy to push ahead in our careers, accomplish our aims and objectives, or make a stand for our convictions.

As the Mars function concerns our will to survive, it is related to the release of adrenaline in our bodies and the ability to react quickly. In excess, the same energies that provide assertiveness and help us fight can also be expressed through bad temper, anger, aggression, and impatience. Without Mars, however, we would not have dynamism, vigor, initiative, or the driving force to achieve our ambitions through our own efforts. Mars governs the sign of Aries.

- Positive: assertiveness, courage, dynamism, action, vigor
- Negative: aggression, violence, coarse behavior, anger, restlessness

Jupiter

Jupiter is the largest planet in our solar system. Named after the ruler of the Roman pantheon (known as Zeus to the Greeks), in mythology Jupiter was associated with wisdom, victory, and justice. In keeping with its large size, Jupiter expands or exaggerates. It represents the ability to reach beyond our present horizons and look for the bigger plan or grander vision, and it carries with it the optimism and confidence to carry this through.

The desire to discover meaning and greater truth means Jupiter approaches life philosophically. The desire for greater knowledge inspires higher learning and is linked to universities or spiritual teachers. In addition, as the Lord of Truth, Jupiter is often associated with the judicial system, courts, and law and order.

Along with the urge to expand mentally, emotionally, and spiritually, good fortune and plenty are often associated with Jupiter. Jupiter stimulates a yearning for experience and travel to distant and exotic places. Excessive expansion, however, can bring greed, false optimism, insincerity, and an inflated ego. At its best, Jupiter represents the good-humored and generous idealist who has the faith and wisdom to make his or her large schemes a reality. Jupiter rules Sagittarius.

• Positive: desire for truth, generosity, idealism, optimism, long journeys, higher learning

• Negative: exaggeration, overexpansion, false optimism, greed

Saturn

In mythology Saturn is Old Father Time, the Reaper. In Greek and Roman times Saturn was the god of social order and was shown as the harvester with a sickle, symbolizing the principle that what we sow, we also reap. Saturn represents perfect justice or the law of cause and effect.

Psychologically, Saturn is the archetype of the wise old man, the teacher. By accepting the responsibility and discipline of self-realization, we become older and wiser. The hard work and training suggested by Saturn's restrictive influence is ultimately worthwhile, because it is the only way to learn. To balance the expansiveness of Jupiter, we have the curtailing influence of Saturn, which can restrain overinflation and maintain order. Saturn's limiting influence, however, can cause pessimism, fear, and excessive seriousness.

Saturn wants definition, form, and structure. It creates boundaries in order to produce control, regulation, and security. Saturn represents anything hard, from our bones and teeth to when we need to be hard with ourselves. As this planet requires us to face up to our responsibilities and duties, its lessons are sometimes uncomfortable. Saturn is totally fair and just: Whatever work has been put in will be repaid exactly. With Saturn you cannot expect to get something for nothing. It provides the determination and the perseverance to succeed. Saturn governs the sign of Capricorn.

• Positive: discipline, order, authority, responsibility, wisdom, realism, patience, perseverance

• Negative: pessimism, fear, overrestrictiveness

Uranus

The ancient Greek name for Uranus was Heaven or Night Sky, and in mythology Uranus was the father of Saturn. The vastness of the heavens symbolizes our ability to open our minds to the universal. Uranus brings enlightenment and freedom of spirit by breaking away from the restriction and safety of Saturn. This kind of freedom involves leaving a space in our life for the unexpected, or daring to express our own individuality despite the pressures of conformity. If we push this too far, however, we are in danger of becoming rebellious for the sake of rebellion.

Psychologically, through Uranus we can widen our point of view to the universal and comprehend humankind as a family of brothers and sisters. Uranus is willing to fight for human rights and the freedom to express oneself.

Uranus governs electrical energy of all types: television and radio waves, magnetic fields, lasers, computers, and new electronic technology. Always looking to the future and being able to think in a symbolic and abstract way, Uranus represents intuition and inventiveness. This usually means being ahead of society as a whole and expressing oneself in an individualistic or unconventional fashion. Uranus rules the zodiac sign of Aquarius.

- Positive: freedom, humanitarianism, detachment, objectivity
- Negative: rebellion, eccentricity, revolutionary tendencies, obstinacy

Neptune

In mythology, Neptune is god of the sea, deep, unfathomable, and mysterious. Just as the ocean can dissolve rocks into sand, so Neptune can slowly and subtly dissolve the barriers the ego creates, releasing us into mystical experience. The mists that hang over the seashore are analogous to the mists that surround this planet, where nothing is solid and everything is illusionary and enigmatic.

Psychologically, Neptune's function is to help us transcend our limitations by refining and purifying our emotional nature. Unlike Saturn, it knows no boundaries and feels a sense of oneness with all things. However, this ability to blend with everything can also give a sense of vagueness. The extreme sensitivity to everything, indicated by Neptune's influence, can confer great compassion for the suffering of mankind. It also brings the ability to lose oneself in inspired creative endeavors such as art, music, or drama. Neptune can give an artist the inspiration and imagination for what is possible.

With heightened perception and imagination it can be easy to escape into a world of fantasy, abuse drugs or alcohol, or indulge in self-deception and become lost or confused. Working positively with Neptune means holding the vision of our ideal in order to fulfill our dreams. Neptune rules the zodiac sign of Pisces.

- Positive: sensitivity, vision, compassion, inspiration, transcendence
- Negative: illusion, deception, escapism, confusion, vagueness

Pluto

Mythologically, Pluto, god of the underworld, represents transformation, death, and rebirth. Pluto signifies deep change, and its energy is intense and powerful. Under Pluto's influence we can have the ability to penetrate or read the subconscious from the subliminal signals it generates, particularly through body language. This can be used positively in fields such as depth psychology, but it can also be abused to control others.

The discovery of the planet Pluto took place at the same time as the discovery of subatomic particles and the publication of Jung's theory of the unconscious. Whether governing shady underworld characters, fanatics and terrorists, or major transformers of society for good, Pluto's energy can be extreme.

It can also provoke this level of intense reaction within ourselves. Pluto often symbolizes the all-or-nothing response. As part of our continuing efforts toward self-improvement, there will be times when we must leave behind the old with no guarantees for the future. The energy of death and rebirth is powerfully symbolized by Pluto. With Pluto's help, we accept changes in our life, and we learn to let go, when the time is right, of the past or anything we have outgrown. Pluto teaches us that every end is a new beginning and life goes on.

This knowledge assists us in the whole rebuilding process. Pluto governs the sign of Scorpio.

- Positive: power, transformation, regeneration, revealing the hidden
- Negative: abuse of power, obsession, compulsion

Decanates

A decanate consists of 10 degrees of the 360-degree zodiac circle. Each sign stretches over 30 degrees of that circle, so each sign contains three spatially equivalent, but symbolically different, decanates. Remember that 30 degrees of the zodiac is equivalent to a 30-degree portion of the Earth's path around the sky. As the Sun passes through the zodiac sign (the zodiac constellation in the celestial sky opposite to the position of the Earth in relation to the Sun) over the course of an astrological month, the Sun passes through the three decanates, one after the other. The Sun moves into a new decanate approximately every ten days. Each of the three decanates adds its own associated planet and sign influences to the basic influences of the more general Sun sign. By considering the decanate in addition to the Sun sign, we fine-tune the reading for the individual birthday. For example, a Capricorn born in the second decanate will be under the influence of the Sun sign Capricorn but will also be under the decanate sign of Taurus. The ancient Egyptians considered the meanings of decanates as important as those of the Sun signs themselves.

The influences of the decanates are determined by the element associated with the sign that contains them. Each sign links symbolically with one of the four fundamental elements:

- The element of fire rules: Aries, Leo, Sagittarius Planetary rulers: Mars, Sun, Jupiter
- The element of earth rules: Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn Planetary rulers: Venus, Mercury, Saturn
- The element of air rules: Gemini, Libra, Aquarius Planetary rulers: Mercury, Venus, Uranus
- The element of water rules: Cancer, Scorpio, Pisces Planetary rulers: Moon, Pluto, Neptune

The sequence of the three decanates follows the same pattern under each of the twelve Sun signs. The decanates under each Sun sign are associated with the three signs associated with the element linked to that Sun sign. For example, as you see above, Aries is linked with fire. All people born under Aries belong to the element of fire. All three decanates under Aries are associated with the signs corresponding with fire. The first Aries decanate is associated with the closest Sun sign in the vicinity of Aries linked with fire, namely, Aries itself. Then, traveling counterclockwise around the circle of the zodiac, the next fire element we come across is Leo. Leo is thus assigned to the second decanate. Traveling further around the circle, we reach the third fire-related sign, Sagittarius. The third decanate of Aries is thus associated with Sagittarius. It works the same way for all the decanates under all the Sun signs.

Each sign, to go one step further, is associated with a planet. Just as each Sun sign has a planetary ruler, so does each decanate sign. The decanate of Aries is ruled by the planet Mars, and the decanate of Sagittarius is ruled by the planet Jupiter.

In the diagram below, you can see clearly how the decanates operate within the different signs.

Progressions

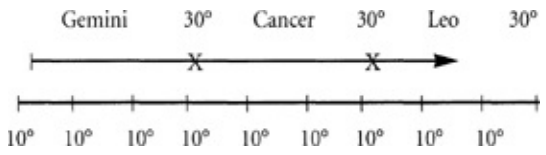
In astrology progressions are widely used as one technique in the system of prediction.

The most well known method of progression entails substituting “a day for a year” as a way of symbolically showing our lives in slow motion. In this symbolic system of interpretation, the planetary movements over the course of a day will be translated as the movement of the progressed planets over the course of a year. For example, the positions of the celestial bodies on the twenty-fourth day after birth will correspond to the twenty-fourth year of a person’s life.

The Sun is in the sign of the great stellar circle of the zodiac located opposite to the position of the Earth in relation to the Sun. As the Earth orbits around the Sun, the Sun thus moves through the various signs located in the 30-degree intervals of this great stellar circle. In this book, we follow this journey of the Sun through the various signs and we interpret how this affects each individual. With the “day for a year” system of progressions, the Sun takes approximately thirty years, rather than thirty days, to journey through each complete zodiac sign. For example, if you are born at the cusp between two signs, in the “day for a year” system your progressed Sun arrives at the next cusp after thirty years, on your thirtieth birthday. If you are born on the fifteenth day of a particular Sun sign, then your progressed Sun moves into the next Sun sign after fifteen years; on your thirtieth birthday it will have reached the middle of that next sign.

If you are born close to the end of a zodiac sign or born on a cusp, your Sun progresses into the next zodiac sign within a few years. On these occasions you may feel a greater affinity with the following sign than with your own Sun sign. Below are three examples and a corresponding chart of Sun progressions; the turning points are marked with an X.

EXAMPLE 1. If you born at the beginning of the sign of Gemini, that is, on May 23, your Sun progresses through Gemini for twenty-eight years. It moves into the sign of Cancer approximately when you reach the age of twenty-nine. The Sun then takes a further thirty years to complete its journey through the sign of Cancer and moves into Leo as you reach age fifty-nine.



EXAMPLE 2. If you were born in the middle of the sign of Virgo, that is, September 7, your progressed Sun will change zodiac signs and move into Libra when you reach the age of fifteen. The Sun then takes a further thirty years to travel through the sign of Libra before it moves into Scorpio at approximately the time when you reach forty-five. A further change will occur at age seventy-five, when your progressed Sun moves into Sagittarius.

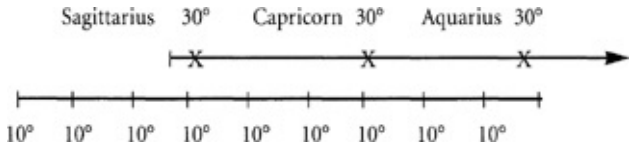
EXAMPLE 3. If you were born in the last few days of Sagittarius, your Sun progresses into Capricorn while you are still a baby. The Sun then takes thirty years to travel through Capricorn. A further change will occur at the age of thirty-one, when your progressed Sun moves into Aquarius. When you reach the age of sixty-one, your progressed Sun changes signs again and enters Pisces.



Introduction to Fixed Stars

Fixed stars belong to the great cosmos rather than our solar system. Unlike the planets that orbit our Sun, fixed stars are suns in their own right; in fact, depending on their magnitude, some fixed stars are far larger and brighter than our own Sun. When we discuss fixed stars we use the term “light years” to describe the vast distances that are difficult to calculate or comprehend. Due to these stars’ remoteness from Earth they appear to us as stationary, and are therefore called “fixed” stars. The influence of fixed stars is relevant to their strength, which is calculated by their brightness.

Although there are millions of fixed stars in the universe, in astrological practice relatively few are considered—namely, those that are located near the zodiacal ring.

The observation and relationship of fixed stars to world events began thousands of years ago. The naming of fixed stars is recorded in the Mesopotamian and Babylonian eras. Fixed stars are mentioned in the Epoch of Gilgamesch and, together with comets, eclipses, and planets, played an important role in the interpretation of weather phenomena. In addition to the Babylonians, the Egyptians believed in the powerful influence of the fixed stars. For example, aware of nature’s power and dependent on the river Nile for their survival, Egyptians celebrated their agricultural calendar summer solstice with fertility rites and linked the rising of the star Sirius to the flooding of the river Nile. Recently there has been much evidence to suggest that the Egyptians aligned the majestic pyramids of Giza to the Orion Belt. Although many historians still claim that the great Pyramids are a testimony to the great kings of Egypt, many new archaeological findings reveal a clear connection between the design of the Cheops Pyramids and the circumpolar stars.

In the story of the Nativity, a star guided the three wise men to the stable in Bethlehem. Catalogues of fixed stars were recorded in Greece around 250 B.C. The observation of fixed stars continued throughout history and was incorporated into the celestial understanding of the ancients. Fixed stars were associated with many different aspects of life, and the origin of their interpretation was derived from the symbols with which the constellations were associated. For example, in the constellation of Alpha leonis, or Leo, the brightest fixed star is Regulus (also called the Lion’s Heart) and symbolizes strength, power, and authority. This star is one of the most important fixed stars in the sky, associated with royalty and honors. Usually this star appears in the charts of kings, queens, rulers, and high government officials. This star is also linked to people who are favored by the public; it bestows popularity.

The importance of fixed stars derives from the fact that all material bodies in the cosmos are in a state of electrical charge and have a magnetic field surrounding them. Even the weakest emissions can influence life on Earth. This is remarkably akin to the term “butterfly effect” in modern Chaos theory, which argues that even a butterfly’s wing stirring the air can create a ripple effect that transforms the weather system at a later date in another part of the world. As the fixed stars are essentially the same as our own Sun, they have similar force fields. The effect of stars is measured by their magnitude or brightness.

Fixed stars offer a fascinating insight into the subconscious mind and the potential or problems an individual might have. This interpretation, however, must be carefully analyzed in relation to a complete natal horoscope; fixed stars are not interpreted separately, but always as a subinfluence on the planets’ celestial qualities. Fixed stars must be understood as enhancing or detracting from the planets they are in contact with.

We have listed on the birthday pages the most influential fixed star for that day. Often, other fixed stars exert additional influences, and we have included readings for those stars in the fixed star appendix at the back of the book.

Please note that not all days in this book are associated with a fixed star. We are only discussing Sun-linked stars, and so if there are no major influential stars near the Sun on a particular day, then no fixed stars appear on your birthday’s pages. There are, however, most likely other fixed stars associated with the positions of the planets on that day. With a natal chart, you will be able to use the appendix of this book to understand the influences on you of your planet-linked fixed stars. We encourage all our readers to have natal charts done. Our discussion of the fixed stars in this book is intended only as an introduction to their intricate and fascinating realm.

Fixed Stars: Basic Rules of Interpretation

In a year, the Sun travels through the 360 degrees of the zodiacal circle. The twelve astrological signs each span 30 degrees of this circle. The fixed stars themselves occupy single degree points on the circle, but their orbs, or range of influence, can span several degrees. The magnitude of the star affects the potency of its influence. Both the range and the potency must be calculated in order to determine the potential duration and strength of the force that the fixed star will exert. When the Sun or a planet is within the orb of a fixed star, the star's influence is clearly felt, most powerfully at the moment of conjunction, and diminishes as the Sun or planet moves beyond the orb.

Fixed Star Magnitude

The power of a star is judged by its magnitude.

The highest magnitude approaches 0 to — 1.

Magnitude 1: Orb is 2˚30'.
Magnitude 2: Orb is 2˚10'.
Magnitude 3: Orb is 1˚40'.
Magnitude 4: Orb is 1˚30'.
Magnitude 5 stars, clusters, and nebulae: Orb is less than 1˚.

In this book we illustrate the positive and negative influences of these stars upon your individual birthday. We have attempted not only to provide the classic interpretations but also to suggest modern psychological interpretations of their effects.

We have assigned a strength rating to each star corresponding to its magnitude. A magnitude of — 1, the strongest, receives a ten-star strength rating. A magnitude of 5, the weakest, receives a two-star strength rating.

Introduction to Numberology

The belief that numbers possess sacred powers has been shared not just by archaic cultures and Greek philosophers, but also by Renaissance scholars and many present-day mathematicians.

Tallying marks and notches carved in groups of bones found in Zaire, dated to between 9000 and 7500 B.C., correspond to records of lunar (Moon) phases, and are one of the earliest signs of mathematical activity.

Numerology is as old as astrology and has its origins in Mesopotamian, Judaic, and ancient Greek civilizations. For example, in the Old Testament numbers and letters are thought to correspond to hidden meanings concerning messages, dreams, and the names of individuals. Each culture developed its own system of interpreting numbers to give meaning to the universe and human nature. The most reputable systems that contain numerology are the Pythagorean, Cabalistic, I Ching, and Mayan theories.

Many Greek philosophers were intrigued by the mystery of numbers. One of the most outstanding thinkers of the early Greek period was Pythagoras, who claimed that numbers were sacred and that “all things are numbers.” He was a religious leader, a mystic, and a pure mathematician. Unlike many modern mathematicians, he united theology with rational thinking. Pythagoras provided a unique legacy for Western culture and a starting point for the identification of numbers. By discovering how important was the link between music and numbers, he established a harmonic connection between musical notes and mathematics. Realizing that numbers correspond to shapes, he was the first to describe the oblong, square, and triangle as a set of dots or numbers. His followers, the Pythagoreans, were also among the first to believe that the principles of mathematics were the basis of all existing things, and since, among these principles, numbers are by nature primary archetypes, they, above anything else, establish order in nature and the universe.

Some present-day mathematicians echo these beliefs and argue that the deeper one looks into the way our universe works, the more mathematical one finds the cosmos to be. Numbers and mathematics underline the very precise way in which the universe behaves.

There are three basic patterns to numbers. We can conceive of numbers through mathematical theories, philosophical definitions, and number symbolism. In the early part of the twentieth century, Jung interpreted the number as an archetype of order that has become conscious, and maintained that numbers are instrumental to the creation of order. He believed that a number is both quantitative and qualitative. Indeed, even investigations in particle physics suggest that changes in atomic quantity result in perceptible qualitative differences in the macroscopic world.

Numerology, like astrology, is a symbolic system, one of the many tools we can use to understand ourselves and our life purpose better. Numbers possess a dual nature and can represent either a positive or a negative force. Exploring their meaning can help us discover and develop our personal potential and guide us on life's journey. In this book we will focus particularly on the qualitative interpretations of numbers in relation to a person's day and month of birth, and we show in the following pages how simple it is to discover your holistic number.

How to Calculate Your Holistic Number

Your holistic number represents the total sum of the numbers of your birth day, month, and year. This number reveals your life purpose or challenge with its positive and negative attributes. By understanding your holistic number, you can come to a greater level of self-awareness. Calculating your personal holistic number is a simple process. All you need to do is add all the digits together one by one. For example:

> June 28, 1956 (6/28/1956) = 6 + 2 + 8 + 1 + 9 + 5 + 6 = 37 = 3 + 7= 10 =1 + 0 = 1.
>
> Your holistic number is 1, which can also be read as 37/1.
>
> October 20, 1961 (10/20/1961) = 1 + 0 + 2 + 0 + 1 + 9 + 6 + 1 = 20 = 2 + 0 = 2.
>
> Your holistic number is 2, which can also be read as 20/2.

The Nine Basic Numbers

The quality of each of the nine basic numbers can have a positive or negative expression in people's personalities, depending on how they approach their life challenges.

Number 1

The number 1 dynamic is conscious. The positive attributes of the number 1 are self-assurance, creativity, singularity, and independence. If your holistic number is 1, it suggests that you are inventive and full of vitality, ambition, and drive. As a pioneer with a daring spirit, you like to take a leading role and express your originality. As you learn about your own creative force and individuality, you need to express yourself and be prepared to stand on your own two feet. Often this can mean thinking differently or acting separately from others. On occasion you can feel isolated from your immediate environment, especially if you are initiating new ideas. Inspiration is the key to your motivation, and developing your intuition will help you decide what to do when you are faced with a number of choices. Your strong willpower and determination urge you to lead rather than follow. Throughout your life you are likely to encounter experiences that will teach you how to overcome your insecurities, whether they are emotional, physical, or mental. Taking responsibility for your own actions is also part of your life lesson. At your best, you are a confident and self-reliant individual who inspires others in a positive way. Developing tolerance, compassion, and patience will help you to achieve your goals. Taking the time to improve your skills will often encourage you to exhibit some of your originality.

The challenges for number 1 individuals include swings from lack of confidence to overconfidence, being demanding, arrogance, selfishness, and a streak of the dictatorial.

Number 2

The number 2 dynamic is sensorial. The positive attributes of the number 2 are sociability, receptivity, and the ability to balance your needs with the needs of others. Number 2 individuals have a flair for people and often learn through cooperative efforts. If your holistic number is 2, you are considerate and sensitive to other people's feelings, with a courteous and romantic nature. You are also diplomatic, friendly, and sociable, with an interest in public relations. Intuitive and adaptable, you thrive on encouragement but can be susceptible to flattery. You may need to learn how to distinguish between being cooperative and of service to others and being subservient and martyring yourself due to emotional insecurities. Your confidence may be undermined if you become overdependent; therefore, you need to constantly give and receive in equal measure. If you are needy or vulnerable, others can easily take advantage of your kind nature. Number 2 individuals need to learn how to be confrontational without being aggressive. Learn when to say no and not feel guilty. You also benefit from accepting help without appearing weak or ineffectual. Self-acceptance is the right path for number 2 individuals. Your positive accomplishments are to achieve inner harmony, develop purposeful goals, and set boundaries.

The challenges for number 2 individuals are dependency, restlessness, insecurity, oversensitivity, becoming discouraged too easily, a habitual mistrust of people, and lack of self-esteem.

Number 3

The number 3 dynamic is expressive or emotional. The positive attributes of the number 3 are creative self-expression, sensitivity, imagination, and versatility. If your holistic number is 3, it suggests that you are enthusiastic, fun-loving, sociable, and friendly. You may choose to display your multitalented nature through a range of artistic endeavors. Making a choice, however, can be one of your challenges. As a number 3, you enjoy interacting with others through entertaining, social gatherings, and intimate conversation. Freedom-loving and emotional, you need to express the joy of living. You are also good at synthesizing knowledge and communicating your ideas. Number 3 people often avoid conflict by staying cheerful and optimistic. As your lessons often relate to emotional growth and self-expression, you may need to develop a deeper understanding of your sentiments, and rather than manipulate situations, you need to state your feelings directly. Number 3 individuals can also experience emotional upheavals or have negative feelings such as jealousy and hate. Although you can be witty and clever with words, if you are shy or insecure, you may become isolated or inhibited, finding it difficult to express your feelings and living in denial. Emotional fulfillment and satisfaction often come from the joy of sharing and learning about love and compassion.

The challenges for number 3 are worry and self-doubt, the tendency to scatter your energy, exaggeration, intolerance, feeling unprepared, indecision, and irresponsibility.

The number 4 dynamic is physical. The positive attributes of the number 4 are practicality, organizational skills, and self-discipline. If your holistic number is 4, you are honest, direct, and hardworking, with a desire to create stability. Number 4 individuals are patient, meticulous, and know well that methodology and preparation are essential. Whatever you do in life usually has to have a purpose and a practical application. As a number 4, you have a good sense of form, technical or mechanical skills, and general do-it-yourself ability. Keen on security, number 4 people are drawn to the world of banking or business in general. Although strict and emotionally undemonstrative, you can be loyal and dependable. You tend to be stubborn or rigid, and it is wise for you to learn to be more flexible and adaptable. Your ambition and vitality usually help you to endure when others run out of steam. It may be necessary for you to learn, however, not to take on more than you can master. Although you are protective of those you care for, you need to overcome a tendency to take over situations and be domineering. Number 4 individuals are commonly known as builders and indeed can often be the founders of projects and enterprises.

The challenges for the number 4 are dogmatism, obstinacy, undependability, being either too lazy or a workaholic, having difficulty letting go of the past, and giving in to excess.

Number 5

The number 5 dynamic is instinctive. The positive attributes of the number 5 are ingenuity, quick reactions, and decisive action. Number 5 individuals are enthusiastic and love freedom. If positive, you are self-disciplined and focused, with an alert and astute mind. Although, as a number 5, you can be responsible, you need the autonomy to move freely. Usually versatile and enterprising, you enjoy meeting new people and having different experiences. Liberal and broad-minded, you can easily adapt yourself to new situations or be progressive in your attitude. Often skillful and efficient, you can learn quickly and grasp situations with your no-nonsense approach. Travel and changes are part of a number 5 lifestyle. As you are likely to go with the flow, you welcome reforms and adapt to new environments with little resistance. The negative number 5's are often restless and impatient and lack consistency. Without purpose and perseverance, a number 5 can wander aimlessly through life seeking a true vocation; therefore it is wise not to leave everything to chance. Depth of understanding and greater knowledge help you to utilize your great potential. If you learn to combine your quick thinking with your strong instincts, you can easily outshine others with your swift responses. Witty and audacious, you have a chivalrous or daring personality.

The challenges for number 5 are impetuous behavior, drifting, irresponsible conduct, impatience, lack of consideration, the tendency to scatter your energy, boredom, being too outspoken, and ruthlessness.

Number 6

The number 6 dynamic is emotional and universal. The positive attributes of the number 6 are idealism, creativity, humanitarianism, compassion, and vision. Number 6 individuals are sensitive and responsible, and they often judge life by their feelings. Direct in your response, you mirror your close environment and people's behavior. You can be both home-loving and worldly, and you enjoy being involved in your community. Having strong family ties suggests that you can be a good parent who is supportive and uplifting. As a trustworthy individual and practical advisor, you will have friends who will come to you in times of trouble. Often a perfectionist, you love to be creative or artistic. With your good taste and eye for style, beauty, and form, you like to decorate your surroundings and beautify your home. If you aspire to high ideals, you may separate yourself from the mundane reality of ordinary life. Nevertheless, to make a better world you should hold on to your Utopian ideals and try very hard to live by your high morals. It would be wise, however, to overcome a tendency to be critical and judgmental. By learning to balance your feelings and thoughts, you can create harmony and peace. Accepting your own imperfections and failings helps you to come to terms with the world and its limitations. As a number 6 individual, you need to overcome a tendency to worry or become frustrated. The more you give, the more you will receive.

The challenges for number 6 are a lack of satisfaction, snobbishness, a lack of compassion, being overcritical, being domineering, and being interfering.

Number 7

The number 7 dynamic is intuition and the mental/rational. Some of the positive attributes of the number 7 are honesty and trust, discriminative powers, attention to detail, methodology, and ingenuity. Analytical and thoughtful, number 7 individuals are self-absorbed and reflective, with the ability to perfect and be precise. Your autonomous perspective indicates that you are also self-reliant and assertive. As you prefer to make your own decisions, you frequently learn best through personal experience. If you tend to be oversensitive and insecure, you can become aloof or withdrawn. When you are unable to communicate your feelings, you may also feel misunderstood. An ability to differentiate and refine suggests that although you can easily turn into a faultfinding individual, you can excel in improving on existing systems. Being well informed and meticulous implies that you enjoy gathering information and have an excellent memory. You are good at self-analysis and seek greater self-awareness, which suggests that for you, quality time alone is often important for introspection; however, be careful to avoid isolation. Your interest in reading, writing, or spirituality is usually a source of inspiration and broadens your horizons. This desire to gain understanding may include education and the academic world or research in a specialized field. Although intuitive, number 7 individuals can indulge in overrationalization, which results in becoming lost in details. This in turn often brings lack of faith or creates self-doubt and insecurities. Although you have a tendency to be private, enigmatic, or secretive, you are inquisitive and often ask subtle questions, without letting anyone know what you really think.

The challenges for number 7 are suspicion, insincerity, secretiveness, skepticism, confusion, being too critical, detachment, and being unfeeling.

Number 8

The number 8 dynamic is emotional and material power. The positive attributes of the number 8 are strength and strong convictions. Motivated and determined, you are hardworking and authoritative. The strength or power suggested by the number 8 birthday shows a character with strong values, executive abilities, and sound judgment. As a number 8, you seek security and consistency in permanent situations. Authoritative, with a desire for dominance and material success, number 8's often aspire to great accomplishment and possess an ambitious nature. Usually you get promoted to positions of responsibility and leadership because of your dedication and perseverance. As a number 8 person, you have natural business sense and will benefit greatly from developing your inherent organizational and executive skills. You may have to learn how to delegate your authority or administer in a fair and just way. If you find yourself in positions of influence, you can provide others with practical advice and protection. As a number 8 individual, you need to deal with power, patience, and tolerance by being forgiving, being understanding, and taking others' weaknesses into consideration when making a judgment. The number 8 person seeks security through long-term plans and investments for the future. Usually you possess power to heal yourself as well as others, and you benefit most if you learn how to channel these forces for the betterment of those around you.

The challenges for number 8 are impatience, intolerance, frugality, overwork, being power-hungry, being domineering, and a lack of planning.

Number 9

The number 9 dynamic is the collective or universal. The positive attributes of the number 9 are compassion, tolerance, patience, integrity, sensitivity, and humanitarianism. Number 9 individuals are usually magnetic and charismatic, with perceptive minds and psychic abilities that point to a universal receptivity. If your holistic number is 9, you are usually generous and intuitive, with strong premonitions. Idealistic and impressionable, as a number 9 you usually have foresight and judge life by your feelings and receptivity. This sense of prophetic wisdom implies that as a number 9, you can possess inner wisdom and heightened awareness. Although you can be generous and compassionate, with a great imagination, you may become disillusioned or emotionally frustrated when you or others fail to reach your high expectations. This can result in fluctuating moods or a tendency to indulge in escapism. As a number 9, you need to find inner contentment and avoid losing heart or descending into the depths of nielancholy. You may also have to develop understanding, tolerance, and patience as well as learning to become impersonal. As a holistic number 9, you may be destined to be of service to others or contribute to the betterment of humankind. Being universal, you are likely to benefit greatly from world travel and from interacting with people from all walks of life. A need to overcome challenges and a tendency to be oversensitive suggest that you benefit from remaining balanced and avoiding unrealistic dreams. The combination of inspiration and idealism with an intense inner life and vivid dreams suggests that you may be happiest seeking a spiritual path.

The challenges for number 9 are nervousness, selfishness, stubbornness, impracticality, being easily led, having an inferiority complex, and worry.

How to Calculate Your personal Year Number

To calculate your personal number for a particular year, simply add your personal month and day of birth to the year in question. For example, if you were born on June 28, 1956, and wished to know what kind of year you would experience in 1999, simply substitute 1999 for your birth year.

For example:
Substitute the 1999 for your year of birth (1956).

June 28, 1999 = 6 + 2 + 8 + 1 + 9 + 9 + 9 = 44 = 8.
This vibration would last for only one year, from January 1, 1999 to December 31, 1999.

The Nine Personal Year Interpretation

Personal year numbers fall in cycles of nine years. The following keywords describe the vibrational quality of each personal year:

1 Year

Number 3 also indicates a year for creativity and expansion: having a baby; traveling for pleasure; bringing art, music, and culture into your home; making your house more pleasant. Social outings, visits to the theater, art exhibitions, or friendly gatherings and entertaining at home are likely to be the sorts of things you want or need this year. If you want to express yourself artistically, this is an excellent time to undertake a hobby or creative pursuit you have always secretly wanted to try, such as amateur dramatics, painting, dancing, singing, or writing. Be confident, try new projects, and remember to have fun. The most rewarding experiences a number 3 year can offer are learning about the joys of life and experiencing emotional growth.

In a number 4 year good structure is the key In this year organization, order, patience, and practical application will help you establish a firmer foundation. In this year you can accomplish a great deal, and you will find opportunities to do so. The need to be pragmatic in your outlook suggests that financial or other material challenges can also occur, especially if funds have been mismanaged. Whatever the structure, however, this is the time to review your finances, insurance, or legal affairs and make the necessary arrangements to make everything more simple or efficient.

Number 4 years are good years for business, building and repairing property, or simply moving to a better place. However, guard against making impractical decisions about property or insurance that you might later regret. The most important challenge for this year is to build a strong foundation and not succumb to unwarranted rebelliousness and laziness. The most rewarding experience may be to achieve something you are proud of.

This is a year of change, which often indicates that circumstances, whether at work or in personal relationships, are in a state of transformation. Opportunities for travel (either short trips or long journeys) or a change of job may create much activity. Your instincts are potent, and a need for variety becomes crucial. You may be looking for new people and new experiences. Expect the unexpected and pleasant surprises.

In a number 5 year adjustment to changes is vital. Exercise calm detachment and guard against impatience, restlessness, and boredom; also be careful about doing things on the spur of the moment that you may regret later. This is a time to move with purpose and determination, so update your image or change your regular routine to avoid feeling as though you're in a rut. The most rewarding elements of a number 5 year are new learning experiences, new faces and new places, and knowing that you can achieve much in a short period of time.

6 Year

This is a year of taking responsibilities, either at home or out in the world. Because number 6 is a universal number, you need to become more interested in the wider world and not just your own sphere. This is a time of settling in to a new environment. New responsibilities often concern family members or making your home comfortable and beautiful. Service to others, which may include community work, makes this a year of caring. However, if you work hard, during this year you will reap positive rewards later, as opportunities and unexpected gains arise from helping others. Find time to be with your friends and your nearest and dearest, as they may need your support during this year. A time to bring harmony and beauty into your life, a number 6 year is a good opportunity to make home improvements and to bring some luxury and comfort to your home.

This is a year for self-improvement, gaining new knowledge, and developing your mind.

A desire for new understanding or learning may be high on your list of priorities. This suggests that it will be worthwhile taking stock of your life, a time to reflect on your past effort and achievements and to plan ahead. It is also a good year to learn new skills that build on what you already know or to take up a new subject to study. New opportunities could come through your work, in the form of classes or training that will improve your position or your performance. You might need or want more time on your own, or if alone you might need to find new people with whom you share interests and can easily communicate. A book or an article you read may influence you in a profound way or give you insight into new directions. Writing, reading, or joining an intellectually stimulating group may be the kind of experience you are looking for. Avoid isolating yourself from the world or being overly critical of those around you, as misunderstandings are more likely to occur in a number 7 year. Most rewarding this year is to gain a deeper understanding and communicate your ideas in a new way.

This is a year for decisive action, establishing and actualizing all the efforts of the past seven years. If you want to succeed, this is not the year for wishful thinking—you must make the effort and push ahead. Achievements or opportunities for advancement are likely to appear through promotions or financial gains. Other plans or investments from the past will bear fruits. This is also a year of hard work and added responsibilities. You may therefore need to guard against overworking yourself.

Making long-term investments, such as buying real estate, will appeal to you, as you feel the need to put down roots and take control of your life or find long-term security. Good business opportunities are also likely this year, and you will be lucky. However, financial management is essential in order to secure good returns. This year consider others and enjoy what the period has to offer without trying to dominate others and without concentrating entirely on personal gains.

This is the most important and spiritual year in the numerological cycle. It is the year of completion and of tying up a lot of loose ends. A new cycle is not yet born but the preceding one is ending. The fundamental rule of the number 9 is that you shall reap what you have sown. This is also the time to assess where you stand and discard all that is not essential. Avoid holding on to the past; if you have outgrown certain situations or even people, this is the time to say your good-byes and plan for the future, especially in the later part of the year.

The universal symbolism of the number 9 also indicates the achievement of maturity and understanding about the fundamental principles of life in the cycle of death and rebirth, of parting and starting anew. The number 9 represents the basis of the eternal life of change and continuity. The most rewarding experiences for a number 9 year are compassion and forgiveness. Your good deeds are not lost: Charity to others will make a better person out of you and give you the courage to forge ahead.

March 23

♈Mental power, intelligence, good judgment, and depth of thought are some of your natural attributes. As an Aries, you are forceful and command authority. Your mind is your greatest asset, and if you recognize the power of knowledge and a good education, you can achieve great success. Women of this day often take charge of situations. A natural leader, you are independent and like to be in control or initiate new ideas. Usually you are able to present a unique approach to a problem and give others practical advice and solutions.

Those who know you well see you as a strange mixture of conservatism and radical ideas, but they never think of you as boring or dull. Although you enjoy arguments and debates and often come out on top, you may have to learn that being mentally aggressive or unadaptable does not get you the results you desire.

Frequently you have an insight into other people's rationales, and understanding their needs gives you the ability to delegate work or be a good employer. However, you do not suffer fools gladly and can at times be intolerant of other people's faults. Ironically, one of your own failings is that you think you know it all and can therefore be too domineering. By learning to be more compassionate and tolerant, you increase your chances for success in your dealings and relationships with others. If you disregard your strong need for self-expression, you may be susceptible to moodiness, swinging from optimism to pessimism and experiencing a lack of self-worth. Learning to trust your own intuition enables you to take on challenges such as developing an original artistic talent or your business acumen.

Up until the age of twenty-seven you are likely to be active and adventurous. This continues until around age fifty-eight, when your progressed Sun enters Gemini, which will bring into prominence many new interests as well as a stronger desire for communication at all levels.

Personal magnetism, youthfulness, and natural enthusiasm are qualities often linked to those sharing this date of birth. This suggests that in your eagerness to take on life's challenges you are idealistic and naturally optimistic. As an Arian, you are daring and direct, with an active mind and bright ideas. By being too spontaneous, however, you may hype yourself up and become overly zealous or impatient. This may at times influence you to be impulsive or make hasty decisions without proper plans.

Responsibility and taking a more mature reflective attitude are likely to be the keys to your success. Once you have mastered your tendency to be inconsistent or restless, you can indeed show how truly talented and clever you can be. Through education and the pursuit of knowledge you can easily develop your natural flair for the spoken or written word or secure work in research, teaching, or lecturing.

More often than not you are inclined to be modern, unconventional, or progressive, with unusual interests or pursuits. Although you are socially inclined and friendly, you like to be carefree and different, and you rarely succumb to peer group pressure. Nevertheless, your characteristic restlessness suggests that you should avoid wasting time or acting in a rebellious way, disregarding the feelings of others.

Up to the age of twenty-five you are likely to be enthusiastic, daring, and carefree. Around the age of twenty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, you enter a thirty-year period of increased emphasis on material status, stability, and financial security. The next turning point for you comes after the age of fifty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, suggesting that you are liable to become more interested in widening your interests and taking up new areas of study.

♈An astute mind, ambition, and determination are the attributes shared by those born on this day. As an Arian, you are eager for a diversity of experience, but by developing self-discipline, you may be less likely to scatter your mental energies and be more able to focus on important goals.

The double influence of your ruling planet, Mars, indicates that you have the potential to achieve much in life. Yet without inspiration you are likely to feel restless and frustrated, never managing to finish what you have started. Unless you find an objective that can truly fire your imagination, you will continually search for your ultimate goal. One way of overcoming this predicament is through learning self-mastery and introspection.

True satisfaction in life usually comes through achievements based on your own efforts. If you rely on the efforts of others, you can easily become bored and dissatisfied. Success will come from your hard work and single-mindedness. Your visions and inspirations urge you to think independently and on a large scale, rather than pay attention to small details.

You can also be persuasive and encourage others to follow your big dreams. At times you appear unassuming, and your strength or compulsive nature may well be concealed behind a friendly and easygoing personality.

You are likely to experience a strong influence from a male early in life, usually your father. Up to the age of twenty-four you are likely to be active and adventurous. After the age of twenty-five, when your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, you may desire more material security and stability. From your mid-fifties, when the Sun moves into Gemini, there is a shift of emphasis toward knowledge, education, and communication in general. Learning a new skill may make all the difference.

The double influence of your ruling planet, Mars, implies that your pioneering spirit yearns for knowledge, and with a little encouragement you are willing to enthusiastically undertake new and exciting adventures. However, you may have to guard against tendencies to get overly serious or anxious, as these tend to induce restlessness, moodiness, and unnecessary worry.

Kind-hearted and generous to the ones you love, you frequently try to hide your great sensitivity by being friendly and humorous. With your sense of the dramatic and your dynamic personality, you often want excitement out of life and at times can even get caught up in overwhelming situations. Learning to maintain a balance and developing inner peace and harmony can bring truly amazing results. The more universal, broad-minded, or compassionate you are, the more positive and successful you become. Learn to be a doer and not just a dreamer.

Although your Sun's degree is not linked to a fixed star; some of your other planets' degrees certainly will be. By having an astrological chart calculated, you can find the exact position of the planets on your date of birth. This will tell you which of the fixed stars listed in this book are relevant to you.

Your Secret Self

An inborn dramatic sense that compels you to take center stage exists in a peculiar combination with a desire for peace and contentment. Your need for harmony emphasizes the importance of having a home that you can be proud of and retreat to for security. Usually honest and direct with people, and having a strong call to express your ideas, you may find yourself speaking up for others, often championing the cause of the underdog. Just be careful that when this is combined with your strong sense of responsibility you do not get carried away and start interfering in others' lives.

When positive, you are big-hearted and generous, with an uncanny knack for dealing with people. This can be spoiled, however, if you allow a tendency to be bossy or dictatorial to undermine your warm heart. Keeping a detached viewpoint and having something to believe in can ensure that you always use the remarkable potential available to those born on this day.

Work & Vocation

A need to express your own individual ideas may attract you to occupations such as design, writing, music, art, or drama. Your love of knowledge or your humanitarianism is likely to draw you toward occupations such as teaching, writing, science, social work, or the caring professions. Since you usually enjoy a good debate, your fighting and communication skills could be combined in a career such as lawyer, reformer, or politician, as well as in business. Your ability to raise funds for causes could mean that charity work would also be an excellent structure for your organizational and managerial skills.

If you become too idealistic or self-sacrificing, you may feel let down and lose faith in others. Clever and shrewd, with an ability to quickly assess situations, those born on this date also have potential for a good sixth sense. Although you like to keep yourself well informed, guard against a tendency to be overly critical or opinionated. Often it is the wisdom of your inner voice that really knows the truth.

As an Arian, you are assertive and competitive. However, a strange mixture of skepticism and naïveté leaves others wondering exactly what you are thinking. At times you can be quite stubborn and refuse to listen or be counseled, even when others have your best interests at heart.

With the double influence of your ruling planet, Mars, you need a challenge, and while you like to enjoy great freedom, you usually work hard. Straightforward and direct, you prefer the company of unpretentious people who are honest, frank, and down to earth.

A natural ability to cope with demanding situations allows you never to feel like a victim of destiny. With your willpower and determination, you can achieve material success. Nevertheless, guard against becoming frustrated or worried over money issues, and avoid get-rich-quick schemes.

Up to the age of twenty-one you are likely to be adventurous and independent. ♈Intuitive and perceptive, you have a creative mind full of ideas and plans. Yet a strange mixture of ambition and inertia may challenge your otherwise great potential. Your birthday reveals you to be a hardworking person with a strong sense of duty and responsibility, but a powerful need for love and emotional satisfaction may hamper your otherwise excellent prospects.

By being methodical and not leaving chores until the last minute, you may avoid self-pity or depression. You are often drawn to intelligent people who have made progress in life through their own efforts. Friendly and outgoing, you like to play an important role in your community or be part of a crowd. If lonely or feeling low, you may compensate by escaping or becoming overindulgent. In order to achieve peace of mind and emotional balance, you could try to develop your self-expression.

Up to the age of twenty, you are likely to be lively and experimental. After the age of twenty-one, when your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, you will have a growing interest in acquiring wealth and material security. The quest for financial stability can stimulate a desire to build something solid for yourself, and this continues until your late forties. When the progressed Sun moves into Gemini, heralding a turning point at the age of fifty-one, it highlights an increasing need to communicate and exchange ideas. This can be a time when you can stretch yourself mentally and explore new areas of interest.

March 31

Instinctive, alert, and swift—these are just some of the ways of describing those born on this date. Because of these attributes, you may also be restless or mentally curious and constantly on the move. Although you are continually seeking new experiences, once you have found something worthwhile you can develop a particular line of interest and become a specialist in your chosen field.

As an Arian, you are naturally dynamic, assertive, and daring. However, beware of a tendency to get bored easily, which may cause you to feel unsettled. By developing patience, you can overcome your inclinations to be impulsive. The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Leo, adds vitality and self-assurance but warns against becoming too arrogant.

The idealistic side of your nature often causes you to see things in black and white, and through lack of satisfaction and a skeptical attitude you may become confused and scatter your energies. If, on the other hand, you realize that through education and learning you can develop methodical concentration and depth of thought, you achieve thoroughness and great skill at problem solving.

Up to the age of nineteen you are likely to be adventurous and unsettled. After the age of twenty, when your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, you develop a more pragmatic mental perspective and have an increased interest in acquiring wealth and security. This desire for material stability continues until the beginning of your fifties, when the progressed Sun enters Gemini. After this turning point the pace of your life is likely to increase, with more of an emphasis on expanding your interests and learning new skills.

Independent and strong-willed, yet sensitive and aloof, you are pragmatic and mystical, with a unique philosophical point of view. As an Arian, you are keen and ambitious, with strong intuitive powers and leadership abilities. Your inner wisdom frequently suggests that you can gain much knowledge through experience, and you can enhance your chances for success through a good education.

The subinfluence of the Sun contributes to your need for self-expression, and often you want to attain something different and original to take you away from the routine. Your love for freedom or the unusual may also influence you to explore, and traveling may be one of your favorite pastimes.

Finding yourself in a position beneath your true talents may often cause you inner conflict between the visualized ideal and the very different reality of daily life. You may therefore need to overcome a tendency to be bitter or jealous through frustration. To achieve emotional fulfillment, you may also need to find true inner faith or overcome inclinations to be suspicious. Through calmness, patience, and confidence, however, you can actualize your original ideas or dreams.

Up to the age of eighteen you are daring and independent. After the age of nineteen, when your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, there is an increased need for stability and financial security. Profound determination and heightened intuitive sensitivity are suggested by this birthdate. With your dynamic personality and love of the new, you are often engaged in the initiation of projects. This suggests that new challenges and beginnings can often bring about real transformation and compensate for periods of procrastination or depression. By developing your inner intuition or sixth sense, however, you can come to understand yourself at a deeper level.

If motivated, you work hard and can be highly dedicated, yet the restlessness indicated by your ruling planet, Mars, does not allow you to stand still. If inspired, you can be quite enthusiastic and creative, with a spontaneous idealism; nevertheless, your tendency to be secretive and uncommunicative may leave others wondering what you are up to next. Although you often project a bold front, you are in fact concealing a shy or sensitive soul. It is usually through learning to let go of the past and overcoming a tendency to torment yourself over emotional issues that you can make real progress and develop self-discipline. You may have to learn to differentiate between inner strength, relentless determination, and stubborn arrogance, which others can perceive as hostility and indifference.

After you reach the age of thirteen, when your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, there is an increased need for stability and material security. This continues until the age of around forty-three, when your progressed Sun enters Gemini. This is a turning point that will bring to prominence many new interests as well as a stronger desire for communication at all levels. This may even involve learning new skills. At the age of seventy-three, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer, you become more aware of issues concerning your home, family, and emotional sensitivity.

However, in order to receive some of the rewards promised by this birthdate, you will have to master self-discipline and work hard. As an Arian, you are determined and ambitious, with intuition and a good sense of values. Your ruling planet, Mars, endows you with courage, dynamic drive, and an adventurous nature. Material wealth and acquisitions are important to you, and at times you can maintain an extravagant lifestyle. You may, however, need to guard against a tendency to be overly concerned with materialism or to be too ruthless in your attempt to find financial security. Naturally understanding and sensitive, you also know how to use tact and cooperative methods to achieve your aims and objectives. When you achieve a balance between your need for self-expression and the natural inclination to be supportive of others, you can find emotional satisfaction and personal fulfillment. You may nevertheless need to find the courage to stand on your own two feet and develop self-confidence or learn not to get easily discouraged by other people. The subinfluence of the number 4 month indicates that you are hardworking and intelligent. Although often generous and friendly, you may need to be patient and persevering or practical. When positive and confident, you use your analytical skills to solve problems in an ingenious way. Write down your thoughts and ideas to clarify your situation and persist in spite of obstacles. Success can be achieved if you become more compliant and responsible.

♈Determination and a good business sense with strong values are often found in those sharing this birthdate. Your ruling planet, Mars, grants you Arian willpower, vitality, and a commanding personality, with organizational and leadership abilities.

The motivating force of your dynamic nature is the need for security and power or a desire for material success and recognition. Education is also vital for your success, either through passing on knowledge to others or by learning how to use information in a practical and productive way.

In your attempt to build a strong foundation, however, you may have to develop self-control and overcome a tendency to be too manipulative or ruthless or to carry materialism to extremes. If, on the other hand, you put all your energies into a worthwhile project, you have the power and the capacity for record achievements.

Growth and strength come from the ability to overcome difficulties. In your climb to the top, however, you may also need to overcome your inclination to be too extravagant, rebellious, or obstinate, squandering your hard-earned cash on superfluous things. Although others can often describe you as a hard worker, guard against a tendency to be too demanding.

From the age of seven, when your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, there is an increasing desire for material stability and financial security. In the following thirty years you will feel the need to build a strong foundation to what you want to achieve in life. After the age of thirty-seven, when your progressed Sun enters Gemini, you may develop a desire to be more knowledgeable and take up new interests. From the age of sixty-seven, when your progressed Sun enters Cancer, your sensitivity increases, with home and family playing a more important part in your life.

solitude and a tendency to be impatient if restricted.

Linked to your Sun's degree, this star indicates that you may need to learn how to adjust to changed circumstances, as there is a likelihood of alteration in fortunes and lifestyle. Just when you think that the dust has settled, upheaval occurs. There are, however, also good opportunities for travel or changes of residence due to work.

• Positive: thoughtfulness, modesty, dedication, diligence, endurance

• Negative: melancholy, selfishness, instability

Your Secret Self

Your natural leadership is revealed through your potential for hard work or spiritual inspiration, and in either case the power here is self-mastery. In the event of your losing faith in either yourself or your abilities to achieve, there is a danger of coldness or isolation. Yet if you spontaneously follow your spirit, your enormous power and strength can uplift both yourself and others.

You possess an innate wisdom that is expressed in a very practical, matter-of-fact way. However, there is also a more hidden part of your nature that can manifest itself as a desire for solitude, self-analysis, or some form of education. This is in contrast to an enjoyment of the dramatic, which stimulates you to express yourself in a fast and competitive way, almost daring others to rise to the occasion.

Work & Vocation

A very dynamic, straightforward, and businesslike style may guarantee that you do not waste time but aim straight for your objectives. You enjoy power, structure, and efficiency, so you will excel as an organizer, manager, supervisor, leader, or pioneer of a new enterprise. People of this birthday may be particularly drawn toward business, law, and politics. Since you do not like taking orders and are very independent, you may prefer being your own boss or delegating to others. Communication, however, in all forms is likely to be part of your natural work experience.

Famous people who share your birthday include U.S. president Thomas Jefferson, playwright Samuel Beckett, chess champion Gary Kasparov, singer Al Green, and actor Jonathan Brandis.

Numero loty

Numerically, you are associated with ambition and hard work, and can accomplish much through creative self-expression. You may need to cultivate a pragmatic outlook if you want to turn your creative talents into tangible products. Your original and innovative approach inspires new and exciting ideas, which frequently result in work that impresses others. With a number 13 birthday, you are earnest, romantic, charming, and fun-loving, and with dedication can achieve prosperity. The subinfluence of the number 4 month indicates that you possess sound judgment and a strong individual character. Resourceful and industrious, you are active and energetic. Although often a traditionalist with good business skills and a practical sense, you like to adopt a personal philosophy on life and think independently. A desire for material success and power may at times overshadow other aspects of your personality.

• Positive: ambition, creativity, love of freedom, self-expression, initiative

• Negative: impulsiveness, indecision, bossiness, unemotionalness, rebellion

Love & Relationships

Very sociable, you have a desire to be popular that should widen your circle of friends and acquaintances. This is helped by an innate creativity or need to express yourself and often adds to your gregarious personality. Usually a loyal friend, you make a real effort to help those you love. Although you are confident about what you want financially, you may find it harder to be certain about how you feel or whom you love. A basic insecurity, jealousy, or indecisiveness is likely to plague you in your close relationships until you learn detachment and decide to let nothing stand in the way of your being happy.

April 14

Optimistic and idealistic, yet impatient and restless, you are a dynamic Aries with a magnetic personality and an enthusiasm for life. With the subinfluence of your decanate ruler Sagittarius, you are likely to be direct and outspoken, with an ambitious nature. However, you may have to guard against a tendency to be overly enthusiastic or behave in a compulsive manner. Although you are responsible, with a noble character, and believe in fairness and justice, you may be prone to judge yourself and others on the basis of career achievements. Since you need to accomplish much in life, you often forge ahead and take on new challenges in a constant attempt to improve your lot.

The extreme sides of your personality show, on one hand, a humanitarian nature that is compassionate and caring, and on the other, an overly serious or rigid personality, especially where money is concerned. Nevertheless, with your optimistic outlook and a positive frame of mind, you can achieve great success. At times fortune will smile on you, but beware of taking too much for granted and leaving it all to chance.

A tendency to be restless and impatient often suggests that you are likely to overlook small details and be inaccurate. By learning to be thorough and methodical, you will be able to complete your tasks and overcome a tendency to become frustrated by delays and obstacles.

From the age of six, when your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, there is an increasing desire for material security as well as financial stability. In the following thirty years, you will feel the need to be practical and build something solid in terms of achievement. This influence continues until around the age of thirty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini and you enter a period of new ideas, with a growing need to understand and communicate. From the age of sixty-six, when your progressed Sun enters Cancer, your sensitivity increases, with home and family playing a more important part in your life.

Fixed Stars

Although your Sun's degree is not linked to a fixed star, some of your other planets' degrees certainly will be. By having an astrological chart calculated, you can find the exact position of the planets on your date of birth. This will tell you which of the fixed stars listed in this book are relevant to you.

Your Secret Self

The demonstration of affection can be an important issue for you. Like everybody, you need love and approval, but previously these may have been withheld from you if you have not lived up to other people's expectations. You may be tested as to how far you will compromise your own vitality to get the affection and approval you need and deserve. As you learn in life to value yourself and your feelings, you become more detached emotionally without cutting off your love and becoming cold.

This results in your being very generous with others as you expose your vulnerability and allow things to happen spontaneously, without always trying to be in control. By letting go and taking life as it comes, you are immediately rewarded and draw toward you everything you need.

Work & Vocation

An ability to turn on the charm and be very sociable can help you succeed in all people-related careers, especially since you are good at combining business and pleasure. Your dramatic sense and need for self-expression may attract you to a profession in art, drama, music, or writing. With your natural leadership ability, you may gravitate toward positions of authority or being self-employed but may have to be careful that a restless or impatient streak does not prevent you from applying the self-discipline necessary to bring out your potential. You are also likely to need the freedom to work in your own way, and with your good business sense and natural enthusiasm, you should particularly enjoy initiating projects.

Famous people who share your birthday include actors Rod Steiger and John Gielgud, writer Erich von Daniken, actress Julie Christie, Indian musician Ali Akbar Khan, and country singer Loretta Lynn.

Numerology

Intellectual potential, pragmatism, and determination are some of the qualities of the number 14 birthday. Although you need stability, the restlessness indicated by the number 14 urges you to forge ahead or take on new challenges in a constant attempt to improve your lot. This innate dissatisfaction may also inspire you to make a great many changes in your life, especially if you are not happy with your working conditions or financial status. With your perceptive mind, you respond quickly to problems and enjoy solving them. The sub influence of the number 4 month indicates that you are active, inquisitive, and energetic, with practical skills and a resourceful approach. Since you possess executive abilities and can operate independently, you do not like to be restricted or take orders from others. Your sensitivity and intuition often suggest that you need to balance your idealistic nature with your desire for material success.

• Positive: decisive action, hard work, luck, creativity, pragmatism, imagination, industry

• Negative: excessive caution or impulsiveness, instability, thoughtlessness, stubbornness

Love & Relationships

Relationships can prove to be a source of both delight and discontent, as you may swing from being loving, warm, and spontaneous to being cold and withdrawn. Nevertheless, your natural charm and sociability indicate that you have a large circle of friends with whom you are generous and giving. A love of beauty and art can stimulate you to express your strong feelings, thus keeping you contented and enthusiastic. This will help you sidestep the occasional inhibition of your emotions, which could cause you to become frustrated or disappointed. Avoid martyring yourself for those who do not deserve your loyalty and affection. It is also possible that you may be attracted to a partner who is of a different age group than yourself.

♈ You are sensitive and charming, yet ambitious and forceful, and your birthdate reveals a mixture of motivation and inertia. As an Aries, you are often challenged by the desire to achieve success and prosperity. Without the right kind of encouragement, however, you may become easily discouraged and get stuck in a rut or drift aimlessly until something or someone sparks your imagination.

The subinfluence of Jupiter bestows opportunities and luck as well as an open and frank personality. Nevertheless, staying positive and being optimistic are prerequisites if you want to achieve success. Only through hard work, perseverance, and determination will you achieve your objectives.

The confident and compassionate side of your nature also indicates that others often turn to you for support and encouragement, and while you can give good advice, you frequently find it hard to practice what you preach. This suggests that you may need to overcome a tendency to be dogmatic and stubborn, as well as overly proud.

Among your many attributes are your organizational skills and an ability to think in broad terms. Happiness and the promise of success are therefore within your grasp, but you might need to put in a great deal of effort to get your heart's desire.

From around the time you reach the age of five, your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, commencing a thirty-year period of increased emphasis on practical considerations and financial security. Around the age of thirty-five, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, there is a change of emphasis in your life; you are likely to be stimulated to widen your interests and place more significance on knowledge, communication, and mental exploration. This may entail taking new courses of study or even learning new skills. After sixty-five, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer, you become more interested in emotional issues and family life.

Accept inner change in order to affect your outer circumstances.

When positive, you are highly sociable and possess a very warm interest in people. You are likely to have a wide spectrum of friends who see you as being both broad-minded and generous. In order to avoid a tendency to get caught up in other people's dramas, it may be necessary for you to have a strong sense of your own aims and objectives. Your Secret Self

At a deep level you may at times experience the insecurity that comes from uncertainty about whether you are making the right decisions. However, using the humanitarian side of your nature, which relates to the "big picture," you can put everything in perspective and stop worrying. You may be better off concentrating on all your wonderful ideas, creative projects, and sense of humor.

Fortunately, you are a quick learner and always have an eye for opportunities that can offer a financial reward. However, with your impatience and desire to fulfill your material needs immediately, you may have to guard against an inclination toward bouts of extravagance or self-indulgence. Work & Vocation

With your ambition, need for variety, and leadership skills, you are better in a position of authority in a career that does not involve routine. Ideally you need to use both your practical sense and imagination, for example as an actor, writer, photographer, or architect. You may be interested in joining international corporations or the media world. Alternatively, you may get involved with charitable organizations and work for worthwhile causes. Courageously exploring new areas within your work can stimulate and excite you to achieve. You are not likely to stick with any career if you do not reap financial rewards fairly quickly, and you may be particularly attracted to work that involves travel. Alternatively, your desire for action may take you into the area of sports.

You share your birthday with comics Spike Milligan and Charlie Chaplin, musician Henry Mancini, writer Kingsley Amis, actor Peter Ustinov, and basketball player Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Practical and visionary, with an ambitious nature, you are often positive and ready for action. As an Aries, you have the impetus to get up and go, yet in your quest for success you may at times have to overcome a tendency to be restless and change your direction. The subinfluence of Sagittarius, your decanate ruler, suggests that with foresight you can make fortunate decisions. This provides you with natural luck and protects you financially. However, in order to truly profit from this celestial benefactor, you have to put a strong emphasis on values and hard work and develop a responsible attitude. You possess the capacity to cope with challenging situations and solve problems through quick realizations. Although you can overcome obstacles with your determination and vitality, when you complete your tasks you need to stop for a well-earned rest.

Practical skills, strong intuition, and an ability to concentrate on the job at hand are just some of your many talents. The pride you take in your work can also carry the sign of the perfectionist. However, this sense of duty and self-control must not turn you into an individual who is overly concerned with economy. Your efficient and down-to-earth approach often suggests that you are outspoken and direct, but you may have to guard against a tendency to be abrupt as well as stubborn.

Your progressed Sun moves into Taurus where you are age three, commencing a thirty-year period of increased emphasis on security. A turning point occurs around the age of thirty-three, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, stimulating you to widen your interests and place more emphasis on knowledge, communication, and study. From your early sixties, when your progressed Sun moves forward into Cancer, you will find a greater awareness of your emotional needs as well as an accent on your family and home.

Be careful of falling into a rut if your situation becomes congenial and fairly smooth-running, as your opportunities are often away from your visual routine of home and work. If this quest for excitement or new experiences is repressed, you may feel restless and impatient without quite knowing why. This can lead to escapism in order to compensate.

Because you are an active person, you may feel that experience is a better teacher than theory is. You also possess an emotional sensitivity and subtle, intuitive insight that can positively guide you. Rather than rush in different directions, listen to this inner perception, and your life might run more smoothly.

Reliability, shrewdness, and intellectual flexibility often suggest that others are likely to admire your integrity and creative mind. ♈Being on the cusp of Aries and Taurus, you enjoy both the drive or assertive-ness of Aries and the practical determination of Taurus. Ambitious yet sensitive, you possess a strong need for material stability and advancement. This also implies that it may be necessary for you to find a balance between your natural compassion and a tendency to be too self-oriented or authoritarian.

Taurus

April 21–May 21

April 21

The influence of your birthday suggests that you are an intelligent, independent, and competent individual with a straightforward style. Capable of being judicious and careful, as well as inventive and open to new ideas, you like to present a bold and assertive front. Being born on the cusp of both Aries and Taurus, you have the benefits of two zodiac signs. This reveals that you are original and daring, yet sensual, with artistic talents. Unfortunately, this double influence can also make you twice as stubborn and inclined to overindulge.

Since you are very clever, education can be a vital component in utilizing your outstanding potential. Although a pragmatist, you need interests that stimulate your intellectual curiosity and expand your knowledge. You like emotional honesty and strong foundations to what you achieve in life, so it is important to have a secure base to work from. Usually this refers to your home, but it can also relate to business or other areas of your life. Once this is in place you feel able to express your natural authority and realize that you can command a situation through your wisdom. Women of this day often think in a masculine way, but both sexes have to guard against a tendency to become too domineering.

Up to the age of twenty-nine you are likely to be concerned with stability and financial security. After the age of thirty, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, there is an emphasis on clear communication as well as new interests. This continues until the beginning of your sixties, when your progressed Sun enters Cancer. After this time you may feel a stronger need for emotional security, and your home and family are likely to play a more important role in your life.

An interesting mixture of mental power, charm, and business acumen mark people who share your birthday as special. With endurance and the ability to advance in life through your own efforts, you have a tenacious approach to fulfilling your own vision. Unfortunately, too strong a love of the good life and a tendency to become too self-absorbed may distract you from accomplishing your big dreams.

The added influence of your Sun in the decanate of Taurus suggests that you have an enhanced appreciation of beauty, color, and sound and a need for creative expression. This may also include a special flair for speaking or singing. With your strong attractions, you need affection from others and are willing to give love in return. You may, however, have to guard against becoming frustrated and channeling your natural sensuality into overindulgence in all its forms.

To avoid a conflict between your sensitive idealism and mundane materialism, it may be necessary for you to get a feel for a situation first before committing yourself to some form of structure. This entails using your excellent intuitive sense in your practical affairs to establish a concrete foundation upon which to build your aspirations.

After the age of twenty-three, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, the pace of your life increases and there is more of an emphasis on writing, speech, and communication in general. This continues until around age fifty-three, when your progressed Sun enters Cancer. This is a turning point for you, and it will highlight the growing importance of emotional bonds, security, home, and family.

You have a strong attraction for beauty and the arts, which can be a valuable form of expression for your emotional sensitivity. With an inclination for art, music, or drama, you are likely to use your work as a form of creative self-expression.

Together with your creative abilities, this may manifest as a talent for writing. It also shows an ability to work hard and a desire to be of service, as well as an inclination toward detailed work or research. Since this influence also emphasizes an ability to gain money and material resources, it can help you to realize your ideals.

Having the added advantage of being both practical and analytical as well as emotional and sensitive, you have a wide range to your personality and are therefore in a better position than most to achieve on a grand scale. You may just have to be careful of becoming discouraged or distracting yourself from your high objectives through overindulgence and too great a desire for the good life.

After the age of twenty, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, there is an increased desire to express your ideas and interrelate more with your immediate environment. This may encourage you to study or mentally diversify in some way. An interesting mixture of practicality, charm, and emotional sensitivity marks people with your birthday. Sharing at work and on a personal level is the key to your success. Ambitious and hardworking, you are responsible and conscientious.

The added influence of your Sun in the Virgo decanate of Taurus suggests that you aim toward high standards in your work and enjoy being of service to others. This also indicates that you possess very practical and down-to-earth qualities and that you seek order and organization so as to feel really secure.

Although you are very independent and do not like to be restricted, you are excellent at relating to others on a one-to-one basis. This may be partially due to your innate understanding of human nature and your good powers of perception. Although you are initially interested in material considerations, your need to gain a deeper insight may lead you later in life to an interest in subjects of a more metaphysical or spiritual nature. Nevertheless, there will be times when you can display an almost egocentric stubbornness or be prone to periods of self-doubt. You may have to guard against tendencies to escapism and self-indulgence as a means to compensate for these feelings. Fortuitously, you have the ability to dispel any possible negative moods by using your powerful imagination to create in your mind the vision of the perfect ideal.

After the age of seventeen, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, the pace of your life increases and there is more of an emphasis on writing, speech, and communication in general. This continues until the age of forty-seven, when your progressed Sun enters Cancer. This is a turning point that will highlight the growing importance of emotional intimacy, security, and home ties.

Willpower and determination are suggested by your birthdate. A need for diversity and action is also indicated but implies that you may have to overcome an inner restlessness. Being mentally sharp, you pick up on situations immediately and are likely to be happiest when working hard on a project or cause about which you feel deeply.

The added influence of your Sun in the Virgo decanate of Taurus adds critical ability to your practicality and emphasizes the importance of doing a job well. It can also indicate analytical skills, a desire to be methodical, or possibly the ability to be technical in some way. Being stubborn or self-willed may prove to be one of the major blocks to the use of the tremendous possibilities inherent in this birthdate.

Besides the need for material security, you also have a desire to get to a deeper level, whether of a person or perhaps of life itself. This may lead you to investigate and probe beneath the surface and not take everything at face value. Developing this more intuitive side is likely to help you overcome any possible tendency to self-interest, moodiness or depression, and it will act as a great help to access the enormous power potential available to those born on this date.

This birthdate suggests that you are more complex than you seem. Being a natural actor or actress in life's drama, you project a multitalented and self-confident front. Yet beneath your exterior there can be a sense of worry and indecision. Possessing natural leadership ability and a way with people, you should ideally be in a position that makes the most of your wonderful abilities. There is a danger, however, that you may settle for less or a life of ease and not push yourself to your full capabilities.

Luckily, you can turn on the charm, and you have a wonderful way with people. You are likely to have many acquaintances, but you expressly choose friends who are interesting and mentally stimulating. However, since you take pleasure from the good things of life and know how to enjoy yourself, you may also have to watch a tendency to overindulge.

The age of forty-five, when your progressed Sun enters Cancer, signals a turning

Your birthday suggests that you are success-oriented, ambitious, and clever, with the necessary people skills to ensure your happiness. Full of energy and drive, you are motivated by the promise of immediate rewards and usually have a plan or scheme in the pipeline. Very shrewd and quick at assessing people and situations, you are constantly seeking opportunities and like big projects.

The added influence of your Sun in the Virgo decanate suggests that with your mental agility you are quite logical, analytical, or technical. The practical approach indicated gives you a natural business sense, and you may enjoy being of service. As your sensual qualities are enhanced, you are likely to enjoy being amorous, but beware of overindulgence in any form.

Being independent and a good planner or organizer, you may be put in charge of all types of projects. Generosity and optimism endear you to others and increase your fortune. However, you need to guard against a resolute obstinacy that may emerge occasionally. Since you have all the ingredients for success, you need only apply self-discipline to bring out the remarkable possibilities associated with your birthday.

After the age of twelve, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, the tempo of your life increases, and there is more of an emphasis on your interrelationships with others, as well as learning and communication in general. This continues until the age of forty-two, when you experience a turning point as your progressed Sun enters Cancer. The following years will highlight the growing importance of emotional intimacy and security. From the age of seventy-two, when your progressed Sun enters Leo, the accent of your life may change from home to creativity and greater self-expression.

Practical and independent, as your birthday shows, you are an ambitious and broad-minded individual with a fine mind. Preferring to keep busy, you have vitality and are able to make quick decisions. A tendency to disappointment or frustration may sometimes sap you of your positivity, so having a definite goal or worthy cause is vital.

With the influence of your Sun in the Virgo decanate of Taurus, you are articulate and resourceful and often intellectually endowed. This also suggests a skill with criticism or an ability to deal with detailed, technical, or research work. The practical emphasis of this combination also points to a natural business sense or a capacity for analyzing monetary situations.

Usually you prefer to be given a free hand to make all your own decisions, and you dislike taking orders from others. Your ability to inspire people with your great plans and enthusiasm indicates that you have the potential to organize new and exciting ventures. However, by becoming willful and stubborn, you may lose the admiration you desire and become insecure. Fortunately, you also possess a wonderful sense of humor that can prevent you from becoming too self-obsessed or compulsive.

Around the age of eleven, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, you are likely to experience some changes and find new interests. Over the next thirty years, study and relating to others will become more important to you. There is another turning point at the age of forty-one, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer. This is liable to increase your sensitivity, and you may place more emphasis on family and a secure home base. From the age of seventy-one, when your progressed Sun enters Leo, you become stronger and more confident in your self-expression.

Fixed Stars

Although your Sun’s degree is not linked to a fixed star; some of your other planets’ degrees certainly will be. By having an astrological chart calculated, you can find the exact position of the planets on your date of birth. This will tell you which of the fixed stars listed in this book are relevant to you.

Your Secret Self

Many of your challenges may concern financial issues. You have an excellent ability to evaluate situations, which gives you a natural sense of authority, but you can also be a person of extremes. On one hand, you are idealistic, generous, extravagant, and daring; on the other, you can be materialistic, selfish, and too security-conscious. It is important to integrate these opposites and find a balance. Have a realistic savings scheme and guard against extravagant impulses.

When you are detached, you are able to view life from a broad perspective and have a humanitarian outlook, wishing to support others. Your objective viewpoint can translate into intuition, which can assist you in your search for enlightenment as well as in more mundane concerns.

Work & Vocation

Since you are very independent and prefer to give orders rather than accept them, you are usually better in some position of authority or, if working within a group, where you have the freedom to operate in your own way. You often enjoy initiating projects, being involved with progressive ideas, or image making. However, the more practical and businesslike side of your nature may draw you to banking, trading, or stock brokerage. Alternatively, your excellent mental capacities and psychological skills may attract you to teaching, science, or some form of community work. Many people born on this date have natural healing ability, which may manifest itself through a career in medicine or alternative health. Your excellent flair for dealing with people will usually play a large part in any career that you choose.

Famous people who share your birthday include dancer Fred Astaire, songwriter Donovan, I-Ching expert Richard Wilhelm, producer David Selznick, and singers Sid Vicious and Bono.

Numerology

Like those with a number 1 birthday, you are ambitious and independent. Although you may have to overcome challenges before you reach your goals, with determination you often achieve your objectives. Your pioneering spirit frequently encourages you to travel far afield or strike out on your own. Having a number 10 birthday, you may also learn that the world does not revolve around you and that you should guard against being domineering. The subinfluence of the number 5 month indicates that you are enthusiastic, with strong instincts. Often idealistic, you can inspire others with your ideas and plans. However, if you feel restricted, you can be rebellious and disruptive. A good strategist, you need to learn how to apply your practical skills and use your imagination. Avoid making hasty decisions or advancing without a proper plan of action. Create harmony in your life and find a balance between your aspirations and the power to make them a reality.

• Positive: leadership, creativity, progressive attitudes, forcefulness, optimism, strong convictions, competitiveness, independence, gregariousness

• Negative: overbearing nature, jealousy, egotism, excessive pride, antagonism, lack of restraint, selfishness, instability, impatience

Love & Relationships

Although you often seem unemotional, underneath you have a caring and kind nature. You are happy in the company of those with whom you share some type of intellectual activity. Occasionally you may become too serious and need to develop a more impersonal or detached view. As a good communicator, you get along with most people and can mix well with different groups. Hidden insecurity, however, can be expressed in a negative way by argumentativeness or overindulgence. Partnerships can be especially beneficial for you if there is equal give and take.

Ambitious and determined, you have the willpower and capacity to fulfill the wonderful possibilities inherent in your birthday. Pragmatic, active, and productive, you need to feel that you are expanding your horizons and building a solid and secure future. Superior organizational skills, a good sense of timing, and an ability to deal with people ensure that you are an achiever. Although you are sometimes indecisive, once your mind is made up you possess a direct and forthright approach to your goals, which ensures that you do not waste time.

The influence of Capricorn, your decanate ruler, suggests that you are a hard worker and take your responsibilities seriously. A natural ability to deal with money also indicates that you can be prudent when necessary. Since this emphasizes loyalty and reliability, you are likely to have the respect of others. This may be especially important to you, as you value prestige.

Although you have a somewhat conservative side, you can be surprisingly unconventional and have unusual ideas. Generally confident, you can depend on your intuition but may have to guard against a tendency to become irritable or self-willed and obstinate. This can possibly slow you down in your tenacious climb up the ladder of success.

Around the age of ten, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, you may find new interests and become more sociable. Over the next thirty years, study and learning new skills can become more important to you. After forty, there is another turning point when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer. This influence accentuates a need to feel emotionally close to others, and frequently there is an increased emphasis on your home and immediate family. Although your Sun's degree is not linked to a fixed star; some of your other planets' degrees certainly will be. By having an astrological chart calculated, you can find the exact position of the planets on your date of birth. This will tell you which of the fixed stars listed in this book are relevant to you.

Your Secret Self

An inner sense of the dramatic, combined with your natural business sense, ensures that with hard work you are likely to reach a prominent position. Your love of knowledge and your razor-sharp mind endow you with an ability to deal with any situation. One of the possible hindrances to your achievement is a tendency to overtax your finely tuned mind or become overly skeptical and doubting. Since you are likely to possess a strong personality and voice your opinions regardless of others' feelings, it is important not to overwhelm people with your strong emotions. One way of achieving self-mastery is through trusting your intuitive insight and developing your willpower with goals that seem just beyond your reach. This may help you build your confidence and faith to achieve your inspired dreams.

Work & Vocation

You enjoy power, structure, and effectiveness, yet also possess an emotional perceptiveness and sensitivity. This combination could work effectively for you in all areas, from the handling of material assets to the creative world. An amiable charm can also be of great assistance in your dealings with others and guarantees your success in people-related careers. You may certainly prefer to be in a position of power or self-employed, as you are not content to be in a subordinate position. However, since you are also aware of the importance of working cooperatively with others, you may have to compromise some of your independent attitude if operating within a teamwork situation. This birthdate often suggests musical, creative, or dramatic talent that can be commercialized.

Famous people born on your birthday include artist Salvador Dali, dancer Martha Graham, songwriter Irving Berlin, singer Eric Burden, and comedian Phil Silvers.

Numerology

The special vibration of the master number 11 birthday suggests that idealism, inspiration, and innovation are highly important to you. A blend of humility and confidence often challenges you to work toward self-mastery both materially and spiritually. Although you possess intuitive powers, you may scatter your energies and often need to find a goal upon which you can focus. Take your responsibilities more seriously. Usually you are highly charged and enjoy vitality but must avoid becoming overly anxious or impractical. The subinfluence of the number 5 month indicates that you are enthusiastic and energetic but need time to develop your thoughts and ideas. Truthful and a good confidant, you know how to keep a secret. You may need to establish a balance between your own wishes and your duties to others. Perceptive, you can pay attention to details, but avoid being critical or mistrusting.

Love & Relationships

Sensitive and creative, you have a wealth of feelings and can be very sociable. Although generally confident, you can be emotionally indecisive in love, especially if you let yourself become involved in more than one relationship. Nevertheless, you are ordinarily loyal and affectionate and should not underestimate the power of love. You are capable of great sacrifice, but do not martyr yourself to unworthy partners, and guard against jealousy or possessiveness. A love of art and an appreciation for beauty and music suggest that you need an avenue for emotional self-expression and enjoy the company of creative people.

Your birthday reveals you to be a hardworking yet charming, sincere, and sociable individual. Although you can be warm and spontaneous, you also possess an ability to be tough and dutiful. At times this can cause a conflict between your work and your heart's desires. You are likely to have many friends and, with your stoic strength, can be a loyal and faithful friend yourself.

With the added influence of Capricorn, your decanate ruler, you are usually responsible and place importance on prestige and status. Material security is important to you, and generally you like to make long-term plans. This practical influence also suggests good concentration and an ability to be focused and precise about what you want to achieve. A touch of the perfectionist in you implies that if you undertake a job, you would want to do it properly. Although this suggests that you are strong-willed, industrious, and strongly self-controlled, you may have to be careful that this control does not degenerate into stubbornness.

The sociable quality of your birthday suggests that you enjoy sharing with others and are generous and gregarious. You can be a staunch ally, an excellent parent, and very protective of your family members. Because you have a love of beauty and luxury and possess good taste, your home is liable to be warm and attractive.

After the age of nine, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, there is an increased desire to interrelate more with others in your immediate surroundings. Over the next thirty years this influence may encourage you to study or develop your communication skills in some way, and this continues until around the age of thirty-nine, when your progressed Sun enters Cancer. As a turning point, this is likely to highlight the growing importance of home and needing to emotionally care both for yourself and for others. After the age of sixty-nine, when your progressed Sun enters Leo, you develop your confidence and self-expression.

When displaying this big-heartedness positively, as a generous, universal love for all, you are able to accept or love without condition and show genuine compassion. Your powerful emotions can also be expressed negatively as disappointment, frustration, and an inability to let go of the past. However, through your experiences, you come to value the power of love.

You are likely to be someone that other people confide in. As an advisor, you are able to make people more detached about their situation while still showing that you care. If you allow yourself to become negative, however, you are in danger of becoming too self-sacrificing, even sliding into self-pity. Luckily, you also possess wonderful, amusing, childlike characteristics that can emerge at unexpected times and amaze and delight others.

Work & Vocation

A sense of responsibility earns you respect from employers; if you are self-employed, it ensures that you fulfill your commitments. Usually you are better when working with people, and with your natural charm, you have an ability to combine business and pleasure. An innate caring side to your nature may draw you to a career that involves service, such as counseling or teaching, and you generally make a protective employer. Often good in the healing world, you are likely to take a firm approach to health rather than being too sentimental. Since you possess a good business sense, you are usually able to turn talents into material rewards. To others you often appear confident, although self-doubt and suspicion can undermine your usual easygoing personality and positive outlook. When you achieve the balance between your need to define yourself and an inclination to be supportive of others, you can find emotional satisfaction and personal fulfillment. The subinfluence of the number 5 month indicates that you benefit from having a realistic perspective. A need to be organized and responsible often suggests that you can pay attention to detail. Ambitious and hardworking, you learn through observation or by developing your existing skills. With perseverance, determination, and hard work, you can achieve success. You need time alone to reflect, gather your thoughts, and recoup your energies.

• Positive: creativity, attractiveness, initiative, disciplinarian attitude, promotion of self or others

• Negative: reclusiveness, eccentricity, uncooperative behavior, oversensitivity, lack of self-esteem

Idealistic and romantic, you usually want serious relationships. You are naturally charming and drawn to sensitive or attractive people. Often you are willing to sacrifice a great deal for love. However, you may need to be careful not to martyr yourself to someone before you know their true worth. Your kindness and understanding draw people toward you for advice and comfort, but if you get hurt, you may withdraw and become uncommunicative. On occasion people of this birthdate find close relationships with someone from a different age group.

A natural charismatic warmth and ability to deal with people are shown by your Taurus birthday. Possessing an easygoing manner while still being frank and honest, you can be courteous and modest, capable and patient.

The influence of your Sun in the Capricorn decanate shows that you are hardworking and can have the Midas touch. Judicious and prudent, you often can make wise long-term investments. Prestige can be important to you, so you usually present yourself with dignity. The strong sense of responsibility indicated by this influence is generally beneficial as long as it does not result in your taking on other people's troubles as your own.

Although appearing pragmatic, you frequently think irrationally and make intuitive decisions. While you are not particularly aggressive for your own needs, you will fight hard to support the underdog or a meaningful cause. With sound common sense and a generally constructive outlook, you can be a solid rock of support for others. However, sometimes dissatisfaction with yourself and others may make you become overly critical. Alternatively, your caring nature can present a problem if too many people start to lean on you, provoking irritability or stubbornness. Luckily, your wonderfully gracious attitude can restore situations back to the harmony that you need.

After the age of eight, when your progressed Sun moves into Gemini, over the next thirty years there is an increased emphasis on interrelating with others in your immediate surroundings, as well as study and communication. At the age of thirty-eight, when your progressed Sun enters Cancer, there is a turning point that highlights the growing importance of your feelings, home, and family. After the age of sixty-eight, when your progressed Sun enters Leo, you become stronger and more confident.

Your Secret Self

An innate awareness that you accomplish in life only through what you put in ensures that you do not take things for granted. Pride and a strong need for recognition are often your motivating forces and suggest that you will not tolerate being unappreciated for too long.

Increasing social prestige can bring security and financial rewards as you progress through life. You are quite willing to share these with those you love, but may have to be careful of developing a patronizing attitude or of becoming jealous. Getting in touch with your inner spiritual needs may help you develop a balance between your quest for pleasure and the more meaningful aspects of life.

Work & Vocation

Although you like to be in charge or work for yourself, you also realize the importance of working cooperatively with others. This may stimulate you to become involved in working partnerships or projects involving teamwork. You may also be particularly good at selling or promoting an idea or product. With your relationship skills and ability to make contacts, careers involving people are ideal, such as public relations, liaison workers, and agents. Your shrewd business sense and organizational skills also ensure your success in careers such as financial advisor, negotiator, or banker, or in any work concerning property. Spirited, intelligent, and ambitious, you are revealed by your birthday to be an active individual with personal magnetism. With the special advantage of being born on the cusp, you possess both the sensuality of Taurus and the intellectual power of Gemini. One of your greatest assets is your gift of dealing with people as well as a natural sense of the dramatic. Full of information, you usually love ideas and knowledge and are excellent at getting your ideas across in an entertaining way. Having the ability to make friends with people from all different walks of life, you have a strong sense of individuality and independence.

The added influence of your Sun on the cusp of two decanates implies that you are responsible, loyal, and hardworking as well as an exceptionally good communicator. Business acumen is likely to come naturally to you, and a strong practical sense affirms that you are aware of issues of home and security. A spirit of enterprise can push your ambition into action and ensure that your big plans are successful. However, you may have to guard against a rebellious or stubborn streak, which can undermine your communication with others.

Witty, creative, and outspoken, you can be very persuasive and have a capacity for organization. A love of luxury and pleasure suggests that you want to enjoy all that life has to offer, but an inclination to excess may prove a threat to your overall happiness. By applying self-discipline, you have the capacity for tremendous achievements in all areas of your life.

In the first thirty years of your life, your progressed Sun passes through the sign of Gemini. This suggests that as a child you are alert and a quick learner. Over this period you also develop your mental powers and skills of communication. When your progressed Sun moves into Cancer at the beginning of your thirties, there is likely to be a shift in your perspective toward emotional needs, home, and family. From the age of sixty, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo, your confidence and self-expression increase and you may be more inclined to a public life.

After thirty, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer, home, family, and emotional needs start to play a more central part in your life. ♊ The excellent mental potential indicated by this birthdate is likely to be the greatest key to your success. Clever and shrewd, you pick up ideas very quickly and can be innovative and hardworking. Needing independence, you are usually able to react to situations spontaneously, with willpower and determination. A tendency to doubt or lose faith, however, may stop you when you are in full flow and deny you all those wonderful possibilities.

With the double influence of Gemini, your decanate ruler, you like to keep yourself well informed and may enjoy mental excursions of many different types. You are likely to have a gift for writing or debating and need to take responsibility for developing your fine mind. When positive, you are likely to have a quick wit and respond well to intellectual challenges. These are particularly important to provide you with flashes of inspiration and excitement and enable you to feel that you are making progress in life. You may just have to guard against becoming irritable or obstinate, or suffering from nervous tension. Luckily, you can also experience remarkable surges of energy, which can help you attain your goals and inspire others to take positive action.

You find new and interesting developments stimulating, and have the potential to be inventive as well as analytical. You have a most productive work influence, and if you are able to combine this with a humanitarian ideal, so much the better.

After the age of twenty-seven, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer, you are likely to focus more on your personal emotional life and the people who affect it the most— your family. You become more aware of a need for a foundation or center to build from, which is usually your home. When your progressed Sun moves into Leo, around age fifty-seven, there is a strong need for self-expression and assertiveness, which may inspire you to become more bold and gregarious.

♊ Your perceptive mind and easygoing charm add to your multitalented personality. You like to familiarize yourself with situations before pledging a commitment, but once you give your word you are likely to take your responsibilities seriously. Once you have decided on a goal, it is important to find people who can encourage and assist you in your gradual rise to success.

With the influence of Mercury in the first decanate of Gemini, you may enjoy sharing your ideas and unique vision with others and are likely to be curious about many subjects. Since you get straight to the core of issues and enjoy communication, you have the potential to develop innate writing skills as well as possible musical or creative talents. When you synthesize your imaginative and realistic approaches to life, you can make your dreams a reality.

Your home is likely to play a strong part in your life security, and you may be willing to make big sacrifices for those you love. Hampered by a great love of ease and comfort, you must be careful of losing focus or giving up under stress. At the other extreme, once you decide to use your sense of strategy and self-discipline, you can be very determined, hardworking, and tenacious. It is advisable to undertake some form of regular physical exercise to prevent any tendencies toward inertia or a buildup of anger.

Having a strong foundation or home to build from starts to have more importance in your life after the age of twenty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer. This also highlights your personal emotional needs and continues until around the age of fifty-six, when your progressed Sun enters Leo. This will magnify your confidence and strength and enable you to become more powerful in public situations.

♊ The bright, personable nature suggested by your birthday indicates that you are constantly seeking new and exciting things to keep your active mind interested. A fascination for people and change may prompt you to go exploring in your quest for variety and mental challenge. This should keep you active and may even extend to traveling the world.

Since you are in the first decanate of Gemini, you have a double influence of Mercury, the planet of communication. This points to an ability to grasp concepts very quickly, and then you want to move on. This endows you with swiftness of thought but suggests impatience. Often eloquent, you may need to develop the ability to listen rather than talk. Versatile and multitalented, you may need to develop your great mental potential through concentration and thoroughness. When curious about a subject, however, you can apply your practical and serious logic to problem solving. Although you possess depth of thought, guard against becoming too mentally rigid, as you may be stubborn, cynical, or uncommunicative as a result. Alternatively, when assertive, you have the ability to be verbally direct and often go straight to the heart of a matter.

Since you also possess a strong spirit of enterprise, you are usually enthusiastic, optimistic, and adventurous, and may possess a dynamic approach to acquiring money and satisfying your material needs. You may wish to turn the potential of your great spiritual and creative forces to writing or to making your fine ideas into something tangible.

After the age of 25, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer, issues around emotional security, home, and family start to play a more important part in your life. This influence continues until around the age of fifty-five, when you enter a period of authority, strength, and increased sociability as your progressed Sun moves into Leo.

See Appendix for additional fixed star readings.

Your Secret Self

Although restlessness may stop you from expressing the dynamic love that is a vital part of your emotional makeup, it is important to channel any tendency to become easily bored into your own self-expression. This can keep life exciting and fast-moving, as well as stop you from wasting your enormous potential in petty diversions. Being instinctive or psychic brings you a good understanding of people, and when this is combined with your spirit of enterprise, it can ensure your success.

In addition to an inner sensitivity that may not be obvious from your bright mental front, you possess a pragmatic outlook that helps keep your feet on the ground. A love of mystery may draw you to metaphysics, and you may find interest in exploring the unknown. Through gaining knowledge and developing your own philosophy or belief system, you will be able to establish stability and feel secure within yourself. Learning to focus may also stop you from scattering your energies.

Work & Vocation

Since you are likely to become bored if your work is too routine, variety is an essential ingredient in any career. Your quick intelligence enables you to learn rapidly, so you need work that is mentally stimulating. Your restless nature and a desire to explore in life could lead to your changing your profession a few times before you settle on something that finally interests you. This influence can suggest the possibility of a second chance at a career later in life or that you may travel in your quest for knowledge and opportunities. Your flair for words and keen insight into people can help you in a career such as sales, writing, promotion, performing, or politics. Shrewd about material considerations, you are likely to fare well in the world of commerce.

Famous people born on your birthday include dancer Isadora Duncan, actors Christopher Lee and Vincent Price, and politician Henry Kissinger.

Numerology

The number 27 birthdate indicates that you are idealistic and sensitive. Intuitive and analytical, with a fertile and creative mind, you can impress others with your original thoughts. Although at times you appear secretive, rational, or detached, in fact you may be hiding inner tensions. These may include tendencies to be impulsive, indecisive, or suspicious about forthcoming changes. In developing good communication skills, you can overcome a reluctance to express your deeper feelings. Education is essential for number 27 persons, and by developing depth of thought you become more patient and self-disciplined. Overcome carelessness by learning to pay attention to details. Give structure to your thoughts, and think before you speak.

• Positive: versatile, imaginative, creative, resolute, bravery, good understanding, mentally capable, spiritual, inventive, mental strength

• Negative: disagreeable, quarrelsome, easily offended, argumentative, restless, nervous, mistrusting, overly emotional, highly strung, tense

Love & Relationships

Although you are usually articulate and outspoken with your opinions, you are also sensitive and secretive and may prefer to observe and say very little about your personal relationships. This influence suggests that lack of communication may cause you tension or worry about personal relationships. By taking your time and being patient, you are able to approach each relationship as a learning experience and find whom you can grow to love and trust. New beginnings often play an important role in shaping your personal life, and with new opportunities and personal experiences come lessons in letting go of the past.

Generally honest and direct, you are shrewd and pragmatic and can be highly intuitive about situations as well as about other people's motives. By cultivating this insight and combining it with your polished common sense, it is possible to become an advisor to others.

Mercury, the ruler of both your Sun sign and your decanate, highlights your ability to be youthful, with an androgynous sexuality. Articulate and persuasive, you possess quick comprehension; writing or other forms of communication are likely to play a strong part in your success. Although a resourceful strategist, at times you may be too clever for your own good.

Your Secret Self

You are active and well informed, but what you may really desire is deep peace of mind. This quest for inner serenity will lead you to explore many avenues of knowledge in your life. Even so, you may find the greatest success through learning to slow down and simplify your life. Reflection and learning to focus are what will help keep you calm and able to deal with your inner restlessness. Inside you are extremely sensitive and vulnerable, though on the surface you appear confident and capable. Leading a well-balanced life can be a vital part of your agenda in order to integrate the two sides of your personality.

Working partnerships are likely to play an important part in your life, and you have a happy knack of knowing the right people. Gradually you will discover that the contacts you consider valuable have less to do with material success and more to do with wisdom. Although you can be very responsible, you become more aware of the value of selflessness.

Work & Vocation

Your quick and shrewd mind is likely to be full of money-making ideas. Being very independent, you need the freedom to work in your own way but are still keenly aware of the advantages of working cooperatively with others. This may lead you to partnerships or team efforts that could be very productive for you. As a skillful planner and organizer, you may achieve your potential in sales, commerce, agency work, or promotions. Alternatively, you may prefer to be of service to others and choose a vocation in the worlds of law or education. On the other hand, you can become a specialist in your area as an advisor, whether on a personal level or in business. An ability to articulate your ideas and your love of knowledge or wisdom may draw you to the world of writing, advertising, or publishing. You are also likely to have an interest in the study of philosophy, psychology, or religious thought. Generally, you may find more satisfaction in professions that use your fine mind, but you may have to avoid a tendency to procrastinate or not develop any interest in depth.

Famous people born on your birthday include writer Ian Fleming, singers Gladys Knight and Kylie Minogue, British prime minister William Pitt, and musician John Fogarty.

Numerology

Independent and idealistic, with determination and a pragmatic approach, you are often a law unto yourself. Like a number 1 individual, you are ambitious, direct, and enterprising. An inner conflict between wanting to be independent and wanting to be part of a team is also indicated. Always ready for action and new ventures, you courageously take on life's challenges, and with your enthusiasm you can easily inspire others, if not to join you at least to support you in your latest venture. With a number 28 birthday, you have leadership abilities and rely on your common sense, logic, and clear thinking. Although you can be responsible, avoid being overly enthusiastic, impatient, or intolerant. The subinfluence of the number 5 month indicates that you are shrewd, with strong instincts. You benefit from becoming more supportive or aware of the needs of others. Do not isolate yourself; share your knowledge and expertise by being part of a group or working cooperatively toward the greater good of society.

• Positive: compassionate, progressive, daring, artistic, creative, idealistic, ambitious, hardworking, stable home life, strong-willed

• Negative: daydreamer, unmotivated, lack of compassion, unrealistic, bossy, lack of judgment, aggressive, lack of confidence, too dependent on others, pride

Love & Relationships

Idealistic yet independent, you often have a clear idea about what you want out of relationships. Yet a certain restlessness or a daring enthusiasm may create problems for you, especially if you are impatient or think you can hurry people along. Wanting someone out of the ordinary also suggests that you can be attracted to unusual relationships, such as with people from foreign countries. Nevertheless, you retreat quickly from unsuitable relationships and with your practical sense seldom truly lose your heart. You may be more likely to express your opinions than your feelings, but once you find someone who positively stimulates your mind, then you can become loving, loyal, and supportive.

♊ You project a friendly, easygoing, and magnetic charm, which attracts people to you and may prove to be one of your finest assets. This birthdate implies that you have a way with people and can be very popular, with your wit and astute observations. Nevertheless, the more doubting or indecisive side of your nature may be hidden from others, who may not see your sensitive vulnerability.

A double influence from Mercury, your Sun sign and decanate ruler, highlights your conversational skills and indicates a versatile and expressive personality. Being multitalented, you find yourself interested in different subjects but may scatter yourself in too many directions. You can be determined and single-minded, however, when you have a definite goal that utilizes your strategic skills and enterprise. You need only apply the self-discipline and persistence imparted by this birthdate to bring out your wonderful potential, but there is a danger of distractions too enticing to turn down. Avoid the temptations of overindulgence and guard against a tendency to worry needlessly or scatter your energies.

When positive, you are able to express the joy of life, and this may stimulate an interest in the arts, particularly writing. A natural talent for drama may encourage you to see life as a stage where you can act out your many personalities.

After the age of twenty-three, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer, you are likely to become more sensitive and security-conscious, with a strong accent on your home life. When your progressed Sun moves into Leo, around the age of fifty-three, there is a strong need for self-expression and assertiveness, which will stimulate your sociability or leadership skills.

♊ Your birthday marks you out as a hardworking, amiable, and popular person who can succeed. Although you are independent, with your charm and powers of perception you can work very well with people on a personal level or cooperatively in team situations. Since you also have superior organizational skills, this can particularly aid you in combining business and pleasure.

As you like to be in control, you may rarely show this side of yourself to others.

Although you possess common sense and the strong vision to make your dreams a reality, beware of diversions that can distract you from your idealistic goals. This suggests that tendencies such as laziness or social excesses may undermine your true potential. When inspired, however, you are willing to work extremely hard, and you certainly have the talents and determination to achieve your objective.

After the age of nineteen, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer, issues concerning security, home, and family start to have more prominence in your life and suggest that you are likely to be more emotionally aware. ♊ Your birthday indicates that you are intelligent, generous, and broad-minded, with good communication skills. Independent and resourceful, you generally like to keep busy. Occasionally you may become highly charged yet nervous. By staying as detached as possible, you can remain calm. Fortunately, if frustrated or disappointed, you do not stay down for long, as your quick responses are liable to have you soon back in action.

With the influence of your decanate ruler, Libra, you can be artistic and creative, and have a wonderful charm when dealing with people. Often light-hearted and cheerful, you can be a fun companion and entertain others with your quick repartee. This influence also bestows diplomatic skills and elequence. When you combine your gift of foresight with your inventive or analytical mind, you often create original concepts.

At times you may present a strange and enigmatic mixture of opposites, being sensitive and idealistic yet pragmatic. You can avoid expecting too much of people or situations by keeping a balanced perspective with your natural sense of humor. A tendency to be preoccupied with yourself can lead to positive self-analysis and improvement.

After the age of thirteen, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer, you are more likely to concentrate on issues concerning your home and emotional life. During the next thirty years you become more aware of family issues. As your progressed Sun moves into Leo, when you are age forty-three, there is a strong need for self-expression and assertiveness that inspires you to become more bold, confident, and gregarious. As you reach the age of seventy-three, your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, and you start to develop a more analytical, practical, and serviceful approach to life.

♊ Your birthdate indicates that idealism and practicality play equal parts in your life story. With your good judgment and reasoning powers, you present an astute yet sensitive front to the world. Possessing a strong desire for honesty, you can manage to be subtle yet direct, and you have discerning common sense.

The influence of Aquarius, your decanate ruler, accents your independence and versatility. This also suggests that you are friendly, outgoing, and people-orientated. Being interested in many different subjects, your excellent mind suggests an original approach and possibly that you are even an inspired thinker. Quickly getting to the heart of a matter, you usually enjoy learning and can be farsighted. You may have to overcome a tendency to be irritable, which can spoil your charms and alienate you from others.

Although charismatic and attractive to many different types of people, you may have to avoid drifting or getting too caught up in other people's dramas. Having the added advantage of natural intuition can be a tremendous benefit, as you are likely to have a sixth sense about people and situations.

This influence continues until the age of forty, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo. This starts a thirty-year period of confidence, increased self-expression, and increased sociability. When you reach the age of seventy, your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, and you will want to be more analytical, practical, and reflective.

♊ Quick and down-to-earth, you are revealed by your Gemini birthday to be a shrewd, independent, and strong individual. An interesting combination of sensitive high ideals mixed with a practical desire for money and luxury indicates that you may vacillate between two extremes. On one hand, you desire an expensive and stylish home and a high lifestyle, and on the other hand, you are willing to sacrifice for your ideals. A solution to this may be to find a positive cause that also brings you financial rewards.

With the influence of Aquarius, ruler of your decanate, you are original and broad-minded, and you need freedom. Mentally sharp and receptive to new ideas, you are able to make split-second decisions and may have an interest in social reform. With a progressive view of life, you value knowledge, and travel may be one of your favorite pastimes.

At times you are extremely generous and kind with your loved ones. At other times you are likely to be rather domineering or overbearing. You may also need to avoid a tendency to be impatient or restless. If opposed, you obstinately adhere to your own principles from an innate rebelliousness rather than from real conviction.

Ideally you should be in a position where your courage and ability to think big can put you in the forefront as an initiator. Being naturally gregarious, you have an easy way with people and an excellent ability to spot opportunities. As long as you keep faith in yourself, your no-nonsense approach, original ideas, and intuition guarantee you success.

Family and security become more important in your life after the age of five, when your progressed Sun moves into Cancer. This also highlights your personal emotional needs. This continues until around the age of thirty-five, when your progressed Sun enters Leo. This will increase your confidence and strength and enable you to become more assertive and self-expressive. When you reach the age of sixty-five, your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, and you start to develop a more analytical approach by being reflective.

The influence of your birthday suggests that you are a popular Gemini with an easygoing charm. Being very intelligent, you possess a wealth of knowledge and have a wonderful ability to pass this on to others. Whether through the spoken or written word, you are likely to be a specialist at communication and manage to convey your ideas with a natural eagerness and excitement.

Always on the move, you love action and often take on more than you can deal with. Having a spirit of free enterprise, you think big and are likely to campaign or fight for your beliefs. Irrepressible and adventurous, you usually speak your mind even if it gets you into trouble; you may need to develop the art of how to listen.

The added influence of your decanate ruler, Aquarius, suggests that you are original and inventive, with good judgment and reasoning power. Since you may sometimes be restless and make hasty decisions, it is important to learn self-discipline and develop your skills. Your persuasive powers and organizational ability can certainly help you in your climb to success. Being ambitious and having a creative outlook on life emphasize the necessity of having projects or causes that you find emotionally and mentally fulfilling rather than just materially rewarding. When you have set your sights on a goal, you are willing to invest a great deal of effort and show how talented and determined you really are.

Up to the age of thirty-one, while your progressed Sun moves through the sign of Cancer, issues around emotional security, home, and family play an important part in your life. At the age of thirty-two, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo, you enter a period of greater self-expression and creativity, with added assertiveness and boldness. At the age of sixty-two, there is another turning point as your progressed Sun moves into Virgo. This points to a desire to be more methodical and orderly as well as to offer practical, helpful service to others.

♊ Those born on this date are highly intuitive, with original ideas. You are charismatic and charming, and an important part of your success is an ability to deal with people on a personal level. Having a warm heart and being friendly and sociable, you are often popular and know how to enjoy yourself and keep people entertained. This can help in your desire to be in the limelight, preferably in a leading position. You may have to beware, however, of underachieving through not disciplining yourself and scattering your energies in too many directions.

The influence of Aquarius, your decanate ruler, suggests that you want to explore new and innovative concepts. Your shrewd but restless mind gives you quick responses and reactions and can easily assess people and situations. You may have to avoid being impatient or stubborn, and you can have a tendency to not follow through with the responsibility needed to achieve your outstanding promise.

Usually ambitious, you are likely to be constantly thinking of schemes of how to make money or advance in life. Your desire for creativity often means that you have a strong need for freedom of expression. Since natural enthusiasm is one of your prime assets, the catch is that you need to genuinely believe in an idea in order to throw yourself into a project and get results.

Up to the age of thirty, your progressed Sun is in the sign of Cancer and you may be particularly centered around issues concerning emotional security, home, and family. At the age of thirty-one, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo, you will become more creative and confident. This will endow you with the assertiveness to be more adventurous and enhance your social skills. After sixty, when your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, you are likely to become more practical, discriminating, and orderly.

and harmonious atmosphere. The subinfluence of the number 6 month indicates that you need to acquire practical skills and learn to keep a balance between idealism and a desire for material success. Although you want to be independent, if you come across exceptional people, you may be tempted to follow them. With your charm and natural authoritative demeanor, you often attract people who believe in you. In close relationships you need to keep light and positive and avoid becoming overly serious, bossy, or critical. A love of knowledge or wisdom may bring you nearer to your ideal partner.

♊ Your birthday indicates that you are a mentally quick, friendly, and broad-minded individual. Having a creative mind and loving knowledge, you are interested in many subjects but may be particularly drawn to world affairs. Since your image is usually important, in your desire to impress others you generally like the best. Direct with others, you can be kind-hearted and generous.

With the influence of your Sun on the cusp of Gemini and Cancer you are fortunate enough to have two decanate rulers, Aquarius and Cancer, that emphasize your sensitivity and highly intuitive abilities. This influence also endows you with originality, ingenuity, and imagination. Willing to explore new ideas and theories, you may find yourself ahead of your time, and you may desire freedom and independence. This desire may be equaled by a need for home and family. You may, however, have to beware that in your desire for harmony, peace, and security you do not become stuck in a predictable routine.

In your desire to please you may often be unable to say no and may take on too much. This may also mean that you need to guard against scattering your forces. Although you can be responsible and are usually very aware of wanting to pay off your debts, it still takes self-discipline to harness all the outstanding potential of your birthday. Rather than talking about your big plans and knowing a little about everything, it may be necessary to take yourself in hand and make a definite commitment to action and your own self-development.

Before the age of thirty you are likely to be concerned with issues regarding your emotional needs, home, and family. At the age of thirty, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo, you will begin to become more assertive and confident, adding to your independence. At the age of sixty there is another turning point as your progressed Sun moves into

Virgo. This is likely to bring a more pragmatic, methodical, and service-oriented approach to life.

Your Secret Self

As optimistic as you can be, there are times when your nervous temperament tends toward depression due to lack of confidence or dissatisfaction. Developing a positive outlook or having something to believe in enables you to channel your strong emotional reactions. This emotional power can be expressed through creativity, whether physical or mental.

Although you are very kind and enjoy helping people, you must be careful of interfering. This also suggests that you may need to listen to others to avoid misunderstandings. It is vital to train or discipline your excellent mind, so education, whether formal or informal, can be a major key to your success. This provides the means to make the most of your potential and puts your focus on positive goals rather than letting you dwell on frustration or disappointment. By learning patience and tolerance, you can present a detached and liberal personality and may find that people are then attracted to your advisory skills.

Work & Vocation

Whatever career you choose, you may have a strong need to express your ideas or creative imagination. Often humanitarian, you have a natural understanding of people and may be drawn to education, counseling, or social work. Alternatively, your organizational and managerial skills may draw you to the world of commerce. A love of knowledge may attract you to philosophy, law, religion, or politics. Creative or artistic and often good with your hands, you may excel in the world of design, particularly items for the home. With your excellent communication skills, you may wish to express yourself through writing, literature, or journalism.

Numerology

Dynamic drive and an outgoing personality are usually present in those with a number 21 birthday. Socially inclined, you have many interests and contacts, and are generally fortunate. Usually you show others your friendly and gregarious personality. Intuitive, with an independent spirit, you are highly inventive and original. With a number 21 birthday, you can be fun-loving and magnetic, with social charm. Alternatively, you can be shy and reserved, with a need to develop assertiveness, especially in close relationships. Although you can be inclined toward cooperative relationships or marriage, you always want to be acknowledged for your talents and abilities. The subinfluence of the number 6 month indicates that you are perceptive and creative. Although you often seek other people's opinions, you must learn to make your own decisions. You demonstrate a caring and compassionate nature but need to express your individuality and feelings by telling others what you think or how you feel. Broaden your views and see the greater plan.

- Positive: inspiration, creativity, love unions, long-lasting relationships
- Negative: dependency, loss of emotional control, lack of vision, fear of change, nervous

Love & Relationships

Magnetic with social charm, you are cooperative, fun-loving, and creative. Since you need a soul mate, close personal relationships are very important to you. In fact, they are so crucial that you may have to guard against becoming overly dependent on them. You may need to avoid substituting security for love and happiness and settling for second best. You express your true feelings by being caring and generous, but a need to learn to stay detached may help you find a more balanced view on love and relationships. With your tact and diplomatic skills, you make many contacts but need to develop an assertive stand early on in relationships.

Cancer

June 22–July 22

June 22

Your birthday's unique position on a cusp suggests that you gain from both the signs of Gemini and Cancer. You have mental and intuitive powers second to none, and with your natural receptivity you can be a quick learner with great potential in any field you choose.

Being born in the first decanate of Cancer, you benefit from the double influence of the Moon and possess a sensitive imagination and powerful emotions. Since you are usually multitalented with many interests, you desire knowledge and mental stimulation. If indeed you take on the challenges indicated by your birthday, you can achieve success in any field of study. Alternatively, you may want to use your ingenuity and practical skills by becoming involved in reforms and improving conditions for others.

Clever and caring, you are sympathetic, with a keen mentality. Although you are intelligent and imaginative, without structure or aims you can easily become irritable, stubborn, or involved in power games that cause mental tension. This can often lead to moodiness or self-doubt, especially if you let others undermine your confidence.

The more inspired with this birthday will be drawn to self-expression and the arts, with particular emphasis on music and drama. Often knowing what others want or expect, you use your discerning powers and friendly personality to move with ease in all types of social circles.

You become less security-conscious after the age of thirty, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo. This aids you to positively gain in confidence and perform with skill in your chosen field. If, by middle years, you have not used the powerful energies inherent in your birthday, you will be given another chance to achieve success. From age sixty, when your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, you will have a more pragmatic attitude, with service to others becoming a more prominent focus in your life.

Your Secret Self

The need to feel secure in what you believe may at times be challenged by those you come in contact with. Although you present a confident front, you often wonder if you are in possession of the facts. Frank and outspoken, you like to be direct and expect the same from others. Nevertheless, the strength of your convictions can make you obstinate but persistent. This warns that you perhaps need to learn to differentiate between determination and inflexibility. Objectivity and rational thinking can be one solution if you want to overcome emotional insecurities.

You may enjoy an element of chance or risk and be tempted to fulfill your high aims by speculating. Although it is beneficial for you to think big, you may also need to express yourself creatively or devote yourself to your ideals. However, keeping your remarkable mind productive and living up to your true potential may be endangered by escapist tendencies.

Work & Vocation

Your ambition may lead you to business, where you can excel with your flair for organization and management. Intuitive and receptive, with an ability to quickly grasp ideas, you are revealed by your birthday to be a clever and shrewd individual. As a Cancerian, you are sensitive and shy; however, your great mental potential inspires you to aim high and achieve success. Caring and sympathetic, you are supportive of those around you, usually considering your family to be the most important element in your sense of security and well-being.

As you are mentally alert, you enjoy being occupied and well informed. Although you often trust the way you feel, a tendency to be skeptical implies that you may have to learn that the wisdom of your inner voice is your best asset.

The double influence of Cancer, as both your ruler and decanate planet, indicates that you will benefit from developing your psychic powers. By learning to channel your strong emotions toward a positive goal, you can overcome bouts of frustration and uncertainty.

When positive, you are able to react to situations very spontaneously, with willpower and determination, daring others to keep up with your stream of ideas. A tendency to lose faith, becoming withdrawn and moody, may stop you in full flow, denying you all those wonderful possibilities.

In the years leading up to age twenty-nine you will be very concerned with your sensitivity, home, and family. After this point, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo, you may be drawn more into public situations that require you to be strong and confident. This continues until the age of fifty-nine, when there is another major change of emphasis in your life as your progressed Sun enters Virgo. As this brings more practical issues to prominence in your life, you are likely to become more methodical and businesslike.

As a Cancerian, you are easygoing, with a friendly though reserved personality. Your conservative approach suggests that you are a good mediator. With your natural flair for people, you prefer to use diplomacy instead of direct confrontation.

The double influence of the Moon often implies that concerns with home and family matters may take a great deal of your time. Should you seek only the security of home comforts, however, you are not likely to realize your true potential.

The necessity for harmony and tranquility implied by your birthdate must not be taken as a sign of weakness, but as an indication of a finely tuned mind. Your clear vision and a natural practical approach make you a good strategist. With your powers of concentration and the willingness to take on difficult and challenging work, you can be hardworking and dedicated. Responsibility and a strong sense of duty can be some of your greatest attributes, and advancement in life comes through your own efforts and fortitude. If inspired, you are willing to work long hours without instant rewards.

Although you can have an exceptionally perceptive mind, your fluctuation between ambition and inertia challenges your otherwise great potential. This warns that only by combining the two sides of your personality are you able to achieve balance and establish equilibrium.

Up to the age of twenty-eight, issues relating to home, security, or family are likely to play a large part in your life. However, after your progressed Sun moves into Leo, you become more daring as your power, creativity, and confidence increase. At the time your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, when you are age fifty-eight, you become more discriminating and efficient in your life, with the likelihood of developing more of an interest in health matters or being of service to others.

Strong instincts, a fine mind, and a need for variety are indicated by your birthday. As a Cancerian, you are sensitive and imaginative, with a caring personality; however, your alert mind and strong intuitive powers urge you to be adventurous. Since you are curious and mentally quick, you are often good company, especially when you use your unique sense of humor to entertain others. Nevertheless, since you are intelligent, you do not suffer fools gladly, and at times can be impatient.

The double influence of the Moon often implies that you are highly intuitive and sensitive. Eager for new experiences and novel things to do, you may have an interest in foreign places and people. This influence, unfortunately, also suggests that you are prone to restlessness and may have to develop self-discipline.

In order to achieve success, you may need to find a subject that can truly capture your imagination, one that will keep you interested and help you develop as a specialist. If you fail to keep yourself mentally challenged, you may run the risk of scattering your energies or could suffer from lack of satisfaction. Conversely, if you develop patience and a responsible attitude and take on obligations, you will soon find out that along with your intuition you also possess depth of thought, an excellent ability to reason, and a good mind for scientific work or research.

Your sensitivity will become less of a problem for you after the age of twenty-seven, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo. This will enable you to become more bold and self-assured in all areas of your life. After the age of fifty-seven, when your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, you are likely to apply more patience and precision to your life skills and take more of a pragmatic approach to life.

Imaginative and sensitive, you are a Cancerian with strong intuitive powers. You are often bright, friendly, and versatile, with creative talents; however, a tendency to succumb to emotional fluctuations may reduce the great potential indicated by your birthday.

As a caring and understanding individual, you can show great compassion to those you love. With the sub influence of your decanate ruler, Cancer, your psychic abilities are doubly reinforced. However, you may also need to guard against a tendency to worry or become stressed and indecisive.

When you feel emotionally insecure, you can perhaps appear to others as too temperamental, talkative, or scattered. At other times, you can be very positive, entertaining, and good company, with an excellent sense of humor.

Versatile and gregarious, you have an intellectual brightness that may lead you to explore many avenues, but it can also be the source of your confusion, as you may try to do too many things. Although you have creative talents and are often full of ideas, you may benefit from learning to focus on a single goal. If, on the other hand, you are already realistic and decisive, your chances for success are there for the taking.

Whether through writing or performing, designing or decorating, you need to learn to express yourself emotionally and mentally. Sociable and friendly, you are fun-loving and need to capture the joy of life.

Although you may appear self-assured, you may find that the solid confidence you seek is not forthcoming until after the age of twenty-five, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo. This increases your strength and creativity and enables you to display more social skills. After the age of 55, when your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, you become more practical and analytical, as well as discriminating.

June 28

Your birthday reveals you to be idealistic yet pragmatic, an astute and highly intuitive individual with a sharp mind and a natural sense of humor. Having keen reasoning powers and being able to quickly grasp ideas and articulate them show an innate talent for language and communication. As a Cancerian, you are both affectionate and impressionable, with a need for the security of strong family ties and home comforts. Your proud, confident, and assertive front often hides a sensitive soul, and although you possess a caring nature, with strong maternal or paternal instincts, the added influence of the Moon may cause fluctuating moods. Keeping yourself constantly occupied may prove to be an antidote to your low boredom threshold. However, your strong convictions and natural ability to quickly assess people and situations, when coupled with an enterprising spirit, can ensure your success.

Being socially oriented, you often mix with people from many different walks of life and thrive on the personal touch. Nevertheless, guard against being too provocative or manipulative, as it can lose you the many benefits that come from collaborative efforts. Learning to balance cooperation with the desire to be independent and self-sufficient can bring great personal satisfaction and increase your feel-good factor.

A strong influence of the Moon in the first decanate of Cancer carries a double impact throughout your childhood and youth. This influence suggests that although in early life you were shy and sensitive, there was still a longing to be at the center of things. After the age of twenty-four, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo, you are likely to receive a much-needed boost of creativity, strength, and confidence. As your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, when you are age fifty-four, you become less dominant, more thoughtful, and analytical. This brings a growing desire for an orderly life.

Success and determination are often linked to your birthday. Reserved and sensitive, you are also tenacious and ambitious, like other Cancerians. If you find true inspiration, you are often willing to work hard and can achieve prosperity and fame.

Charisma and charm, with a youthful or childlike quality, are some of your natural attributes. Although you can be highly spirited, witty, and entertaining, a more serious side of your nature urges you to accomplish and be ambitious. This unique mixture of materialism and idealism needs a purpose in order to be productive. When you find that special something, you will quickly transform into a responsible and mature individual.

Spontaneous by nature, you have a love of freedom that endows you with enthusiasm. Adaptable, sociable, and aware of your image, you need to feel good and look well groomed, often spending your money on clothes and luxury goods. Wanting excitement, variety, and style, you need the funds that can provide you with the good life. Although you like to be independent, joint efforts and collaboration with others could yield profits and success. With a responsible attitude on your part, you often make excellent contributions to your team.

In the years leading up to age eighteen you are likely to be concerned with home, family, and security. After this point, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo, you may be drawn into public situations that require you to be strong and confident. This continues until the age of forty-eight, when there is another major change of emphasis in your life as your progressed Sun enters Virgo. This brings practical issues to prominence in your life, as you are likely to become more analytical, observant, and orderly.

Optimistic, adventurous, and multitalented, you are revealed by your birthday to be an intuitive Cancerian with a strong desire to achieve and accomplish. Although you are imaginative and have practical skills, without patience and perseverance many of your ideas will remain on the drawing board.

Possessing excellent business sense, you can be a shrewd investor involved in large enterprises and speculations. The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Cancer, suggests that you seek ways to transform your life. This influence, however, also implies that you may have to overcome an inclination to exploit situations. More often than not, you believe that money is power, and indeed on many occasions it is; however, by seeing only the material benefits you can miss out on the great insight into what is really worthwhile in life.

Even if you are self-disciplined and hardworking, you often have extravagant taste, and acquisitions are important to your sense of worth. As a practical idealist with leadership ability, you do have foresight and vision. With these skills you are frequently able to commercialize your gifts through self-promotion. You have large dreams, and whatever you do in life, you want to do big. This need to expand and extend may indicate, however, that inner restlessness or dissatisfaction with your current situation can encourage you to push yourself even further.

After the age of seventeen, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo, your power, creativity, and confidence increase and you are likely to become more adventurous. At the time your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, when you are age forty-seven, you become more discriminating and efficient. There is a likelihood of a growing interest in health matters or in being of service to others.

You enjoy power, structure, and efficiency, so you may succeed in business particularly as an organizer, executive, or supervisor. The possibility of achievement is also likely in sales, negotiation, or publishing. Equally, you can excel in advertising, law, or banking. Alternatively, your need for self-expression and a love for the dramatic can also entice you into the art or entertainment world. Ambitious and restless, yet reflective and reserved, you are a Cancerian with a dynamic personality. Life has a lot in store, for you may want to experience many different activities before you settle down.

Motivation and perseverance are vital keys to your success. With the subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Scorpio, you are full of determination and drive. There is a likelihood, however, that in your search for better prospects you will leave your past behind and move forward to make a fresh start. This inherent restlessness suggests that you need to avoid monotony by being active or seeking variety. Nevertheless, for security, long-term plans and investments may provide peace of mind.

Individual and clever, you learn quickly through direct experience. You are versatile, with a sensitive heart, and your instinctive feelings, which are uncannily right, can often help you assess new possibilities. Self-confidence and a love of freedom are often linked with opportunities for travel or work in foreign countries. Your Secret Self

Multitalented and adaptable, you are a very quick learner but may on occasion suffer from a lack of self-confidence or from doubt that you can succeed. Invariably this is unfounded, as you possess a highly creative spirit and an ability to view life in a very broad and detached way. This more humanitarian side to your nature is able to look past current problems to a more universal perspective.

Since you may have to learn that responsibilities can bring you solid rewards, you may need to find projects or enterprises that really interest you. If uncertainty about finances causes you unnecessary worry or frustration, it is often due to an innate impatience. Should you avoid the path of instant rewards, you often take the slower route of building a secure and worry-free future.

Work & Vocation

Your natural ability to deal with people may be your best attribute for success in your career. Although you have a strong love of home and its comforts, your need for variety leads you to careers that do not involve routine. Ideally, if you can use both your practical sense and your imagination—for example, as an actor, photographer, artist, or musician—then so much the better. You usually do not stick with any career if it does not provide financial rewards fairly quickly, and you may be particularly attracted to work that involves travel. Otherwise, you may be drawn to counseling or the healing world, where you are likely to work very intuitively. Your desire for action can also direct you to the world of sports.

Famous people who share your birthday include writer Marcel Proust, painters James Abbott McNeil Whistler, Camille Pissarro, and Giorgio De Chirico, theologian John Calvin, and tennis champions Virginia Wade and Arthur Ashe.

With a number 10 birthday, you have a strong need to establish an identity and achieve. You are likely to be innovative, self-assured, and ambitious. Energetic and original, you stand by your own beliefs even when they differ from others'. Your pioneering spirit frequently encourages you to travel far afield or strike out on your own. Having a number 10 birthday, you may also have to learn that the world does not revolve around you, and you should guard against being selfish and dictatorial. Success and accomplishment are important, and you could find the way to the top of your profession. Since this usually involves working with larger issues, you may not be domestically inclined. The subinfluence of the number 7 month indicates that you are inquisitive and thoughtful. As you prefer to make your own decisions, you dislike interference. Learning best through personal experience, you will find that the key to your success is taking a responsible and mature view.

• Positive: leadership, creative, progressive, forceful, optimistic, strong convictions, competitive, independent, gregarious

• Negative: overbearing, jealous, egotistical, too proud, antagonistic, lack of restraint, selfish, weak, vacillating, impatient

Love & Relationships

Sensitive, friendly, and intelligent, you need the company of mentally stimulating people. Usually you are attracted to forceful individuals who know their own mind or those who are independent and ambitious. You are sometimes reserved and like to present a smart appearance. Observant and aware, you may nevertheless have to avoid being critical or judgmental if you want relationships to last.

Practical skills, productivity, and a need for security are often identified with your birthday. As a Cancerian, you are sensitive and imaginative, with a forceful and determined personality. Receptive and attuned to form and structure, you can combine your practical skills with your artistic talents. With your ability to establish a workable system, you can often develop your natural technical, organizational, and business skills.

The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Scorpio, suggests that although you are sensible and practical, you must learn to trust your strong instincts or first impressions and recognize your great inner strength. Your efficient and down-to-earth approach also implies that you are outspoken and direct; nevertheless, you may have to guard against a tendency to be impatient or stubborn.

Though you are often blessed with good fiscal circumstances, if you do find yourself a little short, your troubles are usually short-lived. Although your financial prospects are favorable, a strong emphasis on work implies that through perseverance and concentrated effort you can take advantage of the many opportunities that come your way.

Being able to do a job well, you take pride in your work; as a perfectionist, you are inclined to be thrifty and economical, with a strong sense of duty. A lot may depend, however, on your ability to exercise self-control. This may also suggest that at times a sense of duty dominates the inclinations of your heart.

At the age of eleven your progressed Sun moves into Leo for a thirty-year period. With this influence, your self-confidence and creativity gradually increase. After the age of forty-one, when your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, you are likely to become more patient and analytical. This may include providing helpful practical service to others. There is another turning point at the age of seventy-one, when your progressed Sun moves into Libra. This influence brings an added emphasis to all your relationships and may encourage a greater interest in harmony and beauty.

opportunities. A possible dissatisfaction with your lot may be overcome by developing patience or by finding harmony within yourself. If this need for action and adventure is not recognized, you may turn to escapism to compensate.

Opportunities for work may come out of the blue and could involve a change of residence or travel to new locations. Since you are a perfectionist and multitalented, your versatility suggests that you are capable of applying your skills and producing excellent work in whatever you do. With your strong instincts, you often apply your intuition to your judgment and can successfully use it in your daily routine.

Since you are imaginative and practical, what you may need is a plan to manifest your dreams. In business you are ideally suited for dealing with other people's money through banking, law, or foreign transactions. Equally, you may be successful in sales, particularly dealing with items for the home. Interested in people, you can excel at promotions and public relations. You are also likely to be good with your hands; this dexterity may be useful in crafts, carpentry, or cookery. A blend of modesty and self-assurance challenges you to work toward finding a balance both materially and spiritually. The subinfluence of the number 7 month indicates that although you are reserved, you can be determined and ambitious, with an active mind. You may have to develop understanding, tolerance, and patience as well as learn to become impersonal. You frequently desire power and recognition, but need to develop your analytical skills.

Creativity and enterprise, practical skills, and intuitive insight are some of the qualities identified with your birthday. As a Cancerian, you are imaginative and idealistic, yet your natural business sense and an ability to present an unusual and original point of view often suggest that you are an objective thinker. This objectivity, however, can be challenged by your tendency to be indecisive or unpredictable.

As a perfectionist, your thoroughness or concentration enables you to pick up on ideas and methods very quickly, and with your communication skills you usually appear light and congenial.

A positive philosophy is essential to your well-being. By avoiding pessimism, you can focus your attention on the matter at hand rather than scatter and diffuse your energies through nervous haste.

After the age of ten, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo, there may be increased opportunities to develop strength, creativity, and self-expression. Your growing confidence is likely to continue to the beginning of your forties, when your progressed Sun enters Virgo. Your focus is then liable to change so that you become more pragmatic and discerning. At the age of seventy, when your progressed Sun enters Libra, you may experience another turning point as your interest turns more to relationships, harmony, and balance.

Good reasoning powers, strong intuition, and a commanding disposition are fre-quently associated with your birthday. As a Cancerian, you are instinctive and sensitive, with good perception, yet are often ruled by your mind rather than your heart. Your intelligence is usually your greatest asset, and in order to truly utilize your potential you may have to recognize the power of knowledge.

The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Pisces, empowers you with imagination and psychic abilities. Autonomous and goal-oriented, you are an articulate deep thinker and are willing to work hard.

An interesting blend of conservatism and idealism associated with your birthday also suggests that you alternate between being overly confident or insecure and being inclined to self-doubt. A pragmatist by nature, you can be radical or unconventional at times, but you must guard against a tendency to be contrary just for the sake of being difficult. Nevertheless, through patience and perseverance you can endure great challenges and, with hard work, often achieve success.

Knowledgeable and well informed, more often than not you like to make up your own mind and be in control. Women of this day also tend not to allow their heart to rule their mind. As others quickly recognize your strength, you usually rise to positions of authority and power.

You become more confident and able to express yourself after the age of seven, when your progressed Sun moves into Leo for thirty years. At the age of thirty-seven there is another turning point as your progressed Sun moves into Virgo. After this time, your goals are likely to become more pragmatic and realistic, and you may find that your patience and efficiency increase. At the age of sixty-seven, as your progressed Sun moves into Libra, it highlights the area of relationships and a need for widening your social circle.

Through discipline of your mind and abilities, you are able to become more focused and make the most of your wonderful potential.

If you do not have outlets for your strong feelings, you may become despondent or depressed. By keeping a detached perspective, you learn to let go and welcome new opportunities into your life. Being a naturally good advisor, you may have to guard against becoming too caring, to the point of interfering, and may need to let others make their own mistakes. The vitality and drive indicated by your birthday are often subdued by your friendly smile and charming personality. As a Cancerian, you are idealistic and intuitive, with strong determination and a powerful mind. The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Pisces, suggests that you are imaginative, with a sense of vision and the ambition to achieve your dreams. Inspired and practical, you enjoy a mental challenge, but in your attempt to test your wits and intelligence you can also become moody or stubborn.

Your potential for success depends on power and knowledge, and the more learned you become, the more focused you will be. There is a need to establish peace of mind and a firm foundation through a set of values and beliefs. Secure in your knowledge of what you believe and hold dear, you can accomplish and achieve. You are harmonious by nature, and your sensitivity implies that, being receptive to your immediate environment, you may need a positive atmosphere in order to flourish and thrive. Conversely, disharmony often brings out the worst in you, and when you find yourself in confrontational situations, you may succumb to power games or arguments. Nevertheless, you benefit from developing a diplomatic approach and, with your persuasive thinking and speech, can often convince others to change their minds.

From the age of two until thirty-two, while your progressed Sun is in the sign of Leo, you have many opportunities to use the sociable and dramatic side of your personality. Whether at work or socially, you learn to become more poised and self-assured. There is a change of emphasis after the age of thirty-two, when your progressed Sun moves into Virgo. After this period you will be inclined to be more orderly, practically motivated, and businesslike. At the age of sixty-two you experience another turning point as your progressed Sun moves into Libra, emphasizing your social life, relationships, and opportunities to develop any latent artistic or literary talents.

Receptive and intuitive, with an ambitious and resourceful character, you are revealed by your birthday to be a creative and astute personality. Your curiosity and understanding of what motivates others suggests that you are quick at assessing people and situations. As a Cancerian, you are sensitive, with a shrewd mind and good mental potential. Nevertheless, at times worry and skepticism imply that you may need to learn to trust your first instincts. Since you like to be mentally occupied and well informed, education or self-directed learning can help you develop your fine mind as well as your confidence.

The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Pisces, empowers you with imagination and psychic abilities. Often autonomous, with a need to accomplish, you possess depth of thought and can develop your analytical skills. If inspired, you are usually adaptable and can cope with every situation. By developing a responsible attitude and remaining resolute, you never feel like a victim of destiny.

Your need to alternate between the conventional and the avant-garde implies that your individuality and creativity need some form of self-expression. Lack of mental stimulation, however, can cause a nervous disposition and bring on your tendency to be quarrelsome or stubborn.

Since your Sun progresses into Leo during the first year of your life, there are early opportunities in childhood to develop strength, creativity, and self-expression. Your increasing confidence is likely to continue until the age of thirty, when your focus will change to a more pragmatic and rational approach, with a growing desire for an orderly life. At the age of sixty there is another turning point as your progressed Sun enters Libra. This highlights the growing importance of relationships, your social circle, and an appreciation of beauty and harmony.

Friendly and understanding, with a sixth sense, you are a receptive Leo with strong character. Creative, with a thirst for knowledge and a strong need to explore, you are endowed with an imaginative and curious mind. You have a need to express yourself in thoughts and words or to initiate new ideas.

A determined and progressive thinker, you seek mental stimulation and recognize good ideas when you come across them. Quick on the uptake, you rarely miss an opportunity to keep up with the latest information and are usually a collector of books, magazines, or computer technology.

The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Leo, indicates that you possess a lively personality, with charm and good looks. Being friendly, you enjoy intimate conversations and the personal touch. Nevertheless, you are often an extremist by nature and need to learn how to balance the generous side of your nature with a tendency to be overly sensitive, insecure, or stubborn.

Since you are social and gregarious, with forceful speech, you like to deal with the public at large and are good at diplomacy and public relations. When inspired, whatever you do, you usually start with great enthusiasm but not always enough preparation. This tendency can explain why you are inclined to get bored easily or lose heart, and suggests that having too many interests can distract your otherwise focused mind.

Being intuitive and practical, you are a productive idealist, and with your enthusiastic personality, erudition, and fertile imagination can produce impressive original thought. You may, however, need to learn how to turn your wonderful ideas into tangible concepts.

After the age of twenty-six, when your progressed Sun enters Virgo, you start to become less dominant as you center your attention on becoming more analytical, practical, and reflective. As your duties increase you will also find that you want to produce your work more perfectly and efficiently. From the age of fifty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Libra, there is a change of emphasis in your life, and you become more easygoing, adaptable, and diplomatic.

Although proud, dramatic, and idealistic, you can also be very practical. As a visionary, you usually enjoy pioneering a project or a belief that you find really interesting. At times, feeling oversensitive and vulnerable, you may have to guard against extremes. Fortunately, you are usually caring and understanding and possess a fighting spirit.

Leadership, ambition, and a dramatic personality are indicated by your birthday. As a Leo, you are creative, with strong intuitive powers and a forceful demeanor. Although your adventurous nature seeks self-expression, a strong pragmatic view and concern for security suggest a materialistic overtone. This indicates that while idealism and vision play important roles in your life, worries about money or the lack of it keep your feet firmly on the ground. Nevertheless, you are a kind-hearted individual with strong emotions, humanitarian inclinations, and leadership abilities.

With the added influence of your decanate ruler, Leo, you are proud and dignified and can influence others through your natural executive abilities. Observant and perceptive, you have a good sense of values and are often resourceful. Quick to learn, you soon turn your interests and creative endeavors into successful commercial enterprises. By marketing your talents, you can impress others with your determination and organizational skills.

Generous, chivalrous, and assured, yet demanding and tense, is how others may describe you. This indicates that, due to emotional insecurity, you sometimes hide your true feelings. Loyal, diligent, and dependable, you take pride in your work. Although you can use your forceful speech to your advantage, a sharp tongue and an inclination to be overly dominant may undermine your great efforts.

When you are around the age of twenty-one, your progressed Sun moves into Virgo, commencing a thirty-year period of increased emphasis on order, efficiency, work, and health. You are also likely to gain an enhanced mental awareness of practical problem solving. Another turning point for you occurs around the age of fifty-one, when your progressed Sun moves into Libra, stimulating you to cooperate more with others, be diplomatic, and place more emphasis on creativity and partnerships.

Your birthday reveals you to be an adventurous and multitalented Leo with a need for achievement. Nevertheless, without inspiration, creative self-expression, and patience, many of your ideas and dreams will remain unfulfilled.

Although you possess excellent business sense and can be a shrewd investor or successful in speculating, the subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Sagittarius, suggests that you must also overcome an inclination to be overly optimistic or unrealistic. More often than not, you tend to believe that financial security can provide you with all the answers. But by seeing only material benefits, you can miss out on insight into what is truly worthwhile in life.

As a practical idealist, you have vision and leadership abilities and frequently manage to commercialize your abilities through self-promotion. Whatever you do in life, you are inclined to have grand dreams. This need to expand and extend may indicate that inner restlessness or dissatisfaction with your current situation encourages you to always go further in life.

After the age of nineteen, when your progressed Sun enters Virgo, you begin to be less dominant and become more analytical, practical, and reflective. Your duties start to take up more of your time, and you will find a need to work more perfectly and efficiently. From the age of forty-nine, when your progressed Sun moves into Libra, there is a change of emphasis in your life. From then on, you are apt to be more involved in your relationships as well as to widen your circle of friends. There is also a possibility that you will develop latent artistic or literary talents.

Generous and broad-minded, you have a universal perspective, though a preoccupation with material concerns frequently limits your humanitarian inclinations. As a Leo, you are creative and magnanimous, with practical skills and powers of attainment. Friendly and cheerful, you attract people and can be popular. This also indicates strong leadership potential and suggests that you do not like to be in a subservient position.

The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Sagittarius, encourages you to expand and, in combination with your optimistic outlook, inspires you to courageously take chances. When you fear the unknown, this influence can also work adversely and undermine your capability to perform record achievements. By trying to resist an inclination to be impatient and bossy, you can develop tolerance. Detachment and a balanced attitude to life will enable you to avoid many frustrations and disappointments.

Friendly, charming, and ambitious, with a proud nature, you are a Leo who can create harmony and peace with your natural flair for people and social affairs. Intuitive and practical, you are able to blend your aspirations and exceptionally perceptive mind, but you need motivation, since you are prone to a love of ease and material comforts.

Luckily, the subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Aries, suggests that when you are goal-oriented, you possess energy and drive, especially in the pursuit of prestige and money. This also implies that you are willing to work hard in order to achieve positions of influence or success.

Although you are perceptive and responsible, at times you are inclined to worry about doing less than is expected of you, and you need recognition for your efforts. Nevertheless, you know how to mix business and pleasure and make others feel at ease. Since you know the value of things, you manage to overcome obstacles through determination and perseverance.

Your love for knowledge and the realization that it empowers you suggest that you like to share your ideas or information. With your natural sense for the dramatic, you can usually inspire others with your unique vision. At times a conflict between idealism and materialism suggests that you may need to develop a philosophy that can provide you with a clear path.

Until you reach the age of thirty-One, your progressed Sun is in Virgo, emphasizing the importance of practicality and order in your daily life. You may find yourself continually analyzing things in order to improve them. As your progressed Sun enters Libra when you are age thirty-two, there is a turning point for you that will highlight the growing importance of relationships, creativity, and balance. At the age of sixty-two, when your progressed Sun enters Scorpio, you are likely to direct your attention to the deeper and more transformative aspects of your psyche and achieve more personal power.

Eager to achieve and action-oriented, you are a dynamic and versatile Leo with an ambitious nature and strong instincts. Usually proud and mentally quick, you are curious and determined to get your own way. Your optimistic outlook and spirit of enterprise urge you to live life to the fullest. This enthusiasm also suggests that you need to express your individuality in a creative way.

Although the subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Aries, adds vitality and drive to your personality, it also implies that you can act hastily or become bored easily. You may need to avoid being impulsive and initiating projects without planning in advance. The great potential indicated by your birthday also implies that you need to positively channel your energies to overcome your tendency to be dissatisfied.

You usually need constant mental stimulation and can entertain others with your quick wit and lively repartee. With your persuasive speech and sense of the dramatic, you can usually get your way by enchanting others. Pursuing your ideals and desire for truth stimulates you to be generous, compassionate, and humanitarian.

Frank and honest, you expect the same from others, but although you can be loving and caring, you may have to guard against a tendency to sarcasm. Travel and higher education can be excellent avenues for you to discover the more adventurous side of your nature. Virgo

August 23–September 22

August 23

Being born on the cusp, you have the advantage of possessing both the friendly, warm, and sociable qualities of Leo and the intellectual sharpness of Virgo. Enterprising and hardworking, you can take on difficult and challenging projects, and once decided on a course of action you can be very determined. The combination of your astute observations and your need to express yourself can usually ensure your popularity. A tendency to impatience, indecision, and worry, however, may be one of the primary obstacles to your achievement.

With the added influence of your decanate ruler, Virgo, you can be shrewd and practical, with a desire for knowledge. Articulate and precise, you deliberate and analyze all the details before making a decision. Still, it may be necessary to avoid going over and over the same issues or becoming too critical of yourself and others. A talent for clear communication can be a particular asset in your climb to success.

In order to avoid frustration or irritability, it is important to discipline yourself and complete what you start, or an innate restlessness may cause you to diffuse your energies in too many directions. As you have a warm heart and a way with people, you find your relationships particularly important. Possessing the ability to be charming when necessary, you can draw others to you with your understanding and interesting personality.

After the age of thirty, when your progressed Sun moves into Libra, there is an increased emphasis on the needs of others and on relationships. Your sense of harmony and balance is likely to be enhanced, with the possibility of exploring artistic or creative outlets. This continues until the beginning of your sixties, when your progressed Sun enters Scorpio. As a turning point, this highlights the growing importance of touching deeper and more subtle aspects of your psyche and becoming more sensitive.

Your Secret Self

Possessing an inner nobility and pride, you do not like others to see you fail. As you may not persevere when bored, it is necessary for you to find things that are stimulating and challenging. It may be better to make your decisions carefully rather than act hastily and abandon projects later. Fortunately, with your ability to evaluate people quickly, you are a good psychologist who may rise to positions of authority because people respect your opinion.

Money may be a major factor in your uncertainty, which is not helped by a possible extravagant streak. Although at times you can be extremely successful, changeable circumstances in your finances suggest that you would be wise to save or plan. Travel or change are likely to play an important part in your life, so do not be afraid to branch out if promising prospects arise outside your usual routine. Although at times it may be necessary for you to have faith in yourself and build up your confidence, your natural business sense will always be a protection for you.

Your potential to be multitalented can ensure you success in many professions, but it is important to avoid monotonous occupations. With your communication skills and flair for dealing with people, you should excel in careers such as teaching, sales, writing, publishing, or the entertainment world. Alternatively, an ability for precision can lead you to engineering, science, or finely detailed artwork. Your practical sense can attract you to a career in banking, real estate, or working with other people's money. Whatever career you choose, you are likely to be a perfectionist and desire to do your job well.

Famous people who share your birthday include actors River Phoenix and Gene Kelly, musician Keith Moon, singer Bing Crosby, restaurateur Howard Johnson, actresses Shelley Long and Barbara Eden, journalist Henry Pringle, French king Louis XVI, and poet Edgar Lee Masters.

The subinfluence of the number 8 month indicates that you possess a strong character with an ambitious nature. This is a time when you also have an increased sense of beauty and harmony in your relationships and may want to develop any creative potential you possess. Another turning point occurs at the age of fifty-nine, when your progressed Sun moves into Scorpio, stimulating you to seek deeper meaning to your life and placing more emphasis on making changes.

Your Secret Self

Intense inner forces may cause you to alternate between extremes of uncertainty and a sense of being someone special. Cultivate positive thinking, trust your deeper intuitive understanding, and avoid periods of worry or doubt. Luckily, your wry sense of humor prevents you from taking yourself or others too seriously, easing any possible emotional tensions. With your high ideals, sense of the dramatic, and potential for leadership, you have the power to capitalize on your innate talents.

Because you are very sensitive, your relationships are likely to be especially important to you. It may be necessary to keep a balance between becoming overly dependent on others and staying independent. If you lose this balance, you may find that you may alternate between being optimistic and despondent. Consequently, it is important to keep open lines of communication with others.

August 25

The special influences of your birthday indicate that you possess a quick and creative mind that is constantly searching for new and exiting ideas to keep you intellectually stimulated. Strong-willed and pragmatic, yet imaginative and sensitive, you have the potential to make your ideals a reality.

With the influence of your decanate ruler, Virgo, you are likely to possess good general knowledge, to think progressively, and to love thoroughness and detail. Discriminating and methodical, you like to refine and improve on existing systems.

Mercury's effect is evident in the way you communicate your ideas: precisely and decisively. A love of words or language may endow you with a talent for writing or help you to become a specialist in your field. You may need, however, to avoid being overcritical or worrying about small or unimportant issues.

Although you possess nervous energy, when you do have a strong belief regarding a project, you will go all out until it is complete. This same natural enthusiasm often stimulates you to become a teacher, passing on your knowledge and experience. As you are ambitious, with strong desires, beware of being bossy by projecting your will onto others.

Possessing the ability to be charming and naturally diplomatic when it is needed, you are likely to be persuasive, with an interesting voice. Women of this birthday are often independent and enjoy initiating new projects. Both men and women of this birthdate like to keep themselves busy.

From childhood you are inclined to analyze situations practically in order to understand and improve them. Your progressed Sun moves into Libra when you reach the age of twenty-eight, and over the next thirty years you gradually become more aware of the importance of your social relationships and partnerships. Creative abilities are enhanced, and you may develop any latent musical, artistic, or literary interests. At the age of fifty-eight you reach another life turning point as your progressed Sun enters Scorpio. This brings an emphasis on change, a need for greater self-awareness, and personal power.

Your Secret Self

Although you are clever and intellectual, on an inner level you possess high ideals and intense emotional sensitivity. This can make you very vulnerable, particularly in the area of your relationships, so it is vital that you keep a balance between your need for independence and the needs of others. You make an excellent friend, warm and giving to those you love, though you feel incomplete without a mutually loving partner. Although young at heart, you may experience disappointment when others fail to live up to your high ideals. When despondent, you must guard against dealing with difficulties by becoming moody or an escapist. Your longing for love may find a creative outlet in service to others, art, music, literature, or spiritual experience. Particularly sensitive to discord, you need to surround yourself with a harmonious environment.

Your birthday shows you to be an industrious idealist with analytical skills, an active imagination, and powerful emotions. The unique combination of personal magnetism, communication skills, and determination gives you a creative flair for combining business and pleasure.

The double influence of Mercury implies clarity of vision and an ability to assimilate and analyze the smallest details. Usually articulate and discreet, you like to make up your own mind by methodical deduction. By refining and discriminating, you achieve excellence; just be careful that your pursuit for perfection does not turn into negative criticism and self-righteousness.

You have an appreciation of beauty and luxury and are likely to possess a good voice. It is through the use of your dynamic love, power, enthusiasm, and generosity that you can charm and impress others. At times you can be obstinate, withdrawn, or moody, challenging others to understand the many different facets of your personality.

Broad-minded, with a natural business sense, you communicate your values and show interest in money issues. Nevertheless, you possess an abundance of feelings and grand dreams.

A desire to transcend ordinary, mundane life may possibly manifest as an interest in metaphysical, mystical, or religious subjects. Since you can throw yourself wholeheartedly into a project if interested, you may have to be careful not to exhaust yourself by working too hard.

Your progressed Sun moves into Libra for a thirty-year period when you reach the age of twenty-two. From this time you gradually become more aware of the importance of your social relationships and partnerships. Your creative abilities and sense of harmony are enhanced and you may be drawn to develop any latent musical, artistic, or literary interests. At the age of fifty-two you reach another life turning point as your progressed Sun enters Scorpio. This brings a strong emphasis on a deeper need for emotional change, making you more self-reliant and in control.

Your Secret Self

Your greatest potential may lie in an inner need to shine and inspire others, flowing from your natural honesty and high idealism. When developed, this asset will help you overcome everyday difficulties. If disturbed, you could become cold and lose faith, but once back on track you display a wonderful spontaneity and openness.

Since your birthday is identified with an emotional intensity, guard against using this in power tactics, especially when you are disappointed with others. There may be a conflict between your ideals and a very different reality. The key to your success lies in your compassionate understanding of people and situations. When this concern for others is combined with your enthusiasm and social skills, you can create harmony and happiness for yourself and those around you.

Being a good evaluator, with an instinct for money matters, you may find it more beneficial at times to take calculated risks. You also like some excitement. It can, however, still be a challenge to live well without becoming either too extravagant or too economical.

Possible fluctuations in finances may necessitate a long-term plan to manage your assets.

The more you build up your confidence and self-esteem, the more life has to offer you. It will be easier if you develop detachment from your restrictions. As you generally work well in partnerships or cooperatively with others, you may be drawn to careers in the media, counseling, social work, or public relations. Before the age of twenty-five, you are likely to be mainly concerned with developing your social skills, creative talents, and opportunities for financial success. As you reach the age of twenty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Scorpio, there is a turning point that emphasizes issues concerning emotional change and transformation. Another turning point occurs at the age of fifty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Sagittarius. This indicates that you are likely to become more optimistic and expansive or seek inspiration, whether through personal contact, religion, education, or travel.

Charming, friendly, and intelligent, you tend to be a hardworking and perceptive individual. Compassionate and caring, you possess depth of feeling, yet you can also be shrewd, practical, and realistic. Persuasive, alert, and discerning, you have an interest in people that may manifest as a strong humanitarian streak or encourage you to fight for an idealistic cause.

With the added influence of your decanate ruler, Libra, the demonstration of love and affection is particularly important to you. Magnetism and refined social skills ensure that you enjoy putting others at ease and guarantee your success with people. A feel for beauty and the arts may find expression through music, painting, or drama as well as a desire to surround yourself with beauty, style, and luxury.

Financial matters are also likely to occupy much of your attention, and with your natural business sense and willingness to work hard, you have the potential to commercialize your many talents. Nevertheless, one of your challenges may be to obtain the right balance between work and play to ensure that life does not become overly serious or burdensome. You often work better when you allow your intuition to sense the right time for an idea or project and then act spontaneously rather than becoming restricted by too much structure.

Before the age of twenty-four, you are likely to be concerned with issues regarding money, creativity, and building harmony in your relationships. At the age of twenty-five, when your progressed Sun moves into Scorpio, you encounter a turning point that emphasizes a growing need for emotional change, personal power, and transformation in your life. Your Secret Self Emotionally generous with those you care for, you have the potential for powerful universal love and compassion. Being so sensitive, you need regular periods alone to reflect and connect to your deeper inspiration as well as short breaks away from your usual routine.

Occasionally you may take on other people's problems and make them your responsibility, or experience a conflict between your sense of duty and your heart's desire. This may cause you to become skeptical or withdrawn. By letting go and taking life as it comes, you learn to be more detached, trusting that life will spontaneously provide you with everything you need at the right time. Like everybody, you need love and approval, but these may have been previously withheld from you if you did not live up to other people's expectations. The more you value yourself and your feelings, the less you compromise yourself to get the affection you need, and thus you develop your self-confidence.

Ambitious and imaginative, you are likely to have grand plans and original ideas. Although you are sensitive and idealistic, you have a commanding and magnetic personality. As a humanitarian, you can be dedicated and hardworking. Seeking balance and harmony, you are fair and just, willing to fight for the underdog. Numerology

Independent and idealistic, with determination and a pragmatic approach, you are often a law unto yourself. Like a number 1 individual, you are ambitious, direct, and enterprising. An inner conflict between wanting to be independent and wanting to be part of a team is also indicated. Always ready for action and new ventures, you courageously take on life's challenges, and with your enthusiasm, you can easily inspire others, if not to join you, then at least to support you in your latest venture. With a number 28 birthday, you have leadership abilities; with common sense, you are able to think clearly. Although you can be responsible, avoid being overenthusiastic, impatient, or intolerant. The subinfluence of the number 9 month indicates that you are imaginative and intuitive, with strong premonitions. You benefit from developing your creativity or pursuing a career where you can be free to express yourself. Although you want affection and have a need to be part of a group, avoid martyring yourself.

• Positive: compassion, progressive, daring, artistic, idealistic, ambitious, hardworking, stable home life, strong-willed

•Negative: daydreamer, unmotivated, lack of compassion, unrealistic, bossy, lack of judgment, aggressive, lack of confidence, too dependent on others, pride

Your magnetic charm and natural friendliness can make you very attractive to others. Affectionate, caring, and tactile, you are very generous with those you love, though you may experience fluctuating moods that can cause you to act suddenly. Sensitive to others, you may go through many changes in response to your partner's needs, so it is important to stay independent. You need change and excitement in relationships to prevent you from becoming restless or stuck in a rut, so it is vital to schedule time for relaxation, travel, and fun. You fare better with a partner who shares your ideals.

The influence of your birthday shows you to be imaginative and romantic, yet possessing an emotional power that can make you a strong and determined individual. Through the use of your dynamic charm and natural business sense, you can display a talent for combining business and pleasure. Being very entertaining in the company of others, you are able to make an impression with your warmth and generosity.

With the added influence of your decanate ruler, Libra, you love luxury and harmonious surroundings. As you enjoy a touch of glamour, you usually look attractive and are aware of creating a good image. Gracious and friendly, you possess diplomatic skills and are an excellent negotiator. You have the ability to make money, but a lack of self-discipline or overindulgence may divert you from developing your wonderful potential.

The expression of love can be especially important to you, as you seek harmonious relationships. Nevertheless, as a Libra, your scales can tip, and although you possess a richness of feeling and are generally light-hearted, you may occasionally become moody or obstinate. This happens especially if you are disappointed that people or situations have not lived up to your high ideals or if your emotional intensity causes you to resort to power plays.

Before the age of twenty-three, you are likely to be mainly concerned with developing your social and financial skills, as well as putting emphasis on your relationships. At the age of twenty-four, when your progressed Sun moves into Scorpio, there is a turning point that highlights issues over the next thirty years concerning emotional change and transformation. Another turning point occurs at the age of fifty-four,

Many of your major challenges may center around your emotional vulnerability and the failure of others to reach your high aspirations. You can, however, turn on the charm and be a highly creative thinker.

With the added influence of your decanate ruler, Libra, love and affection are especially important to you. A need to express yourself and your creativity may find outlets through art, writing, music, or drama, or at least you may become a fine appreciator. Refined and gracious, you are likely to have an agreeable manner and an attractive voice.

As a progressive thinker, you have a desire for knowledge and enjoy projects that keep you mentally stimulated. You possess critical and analytical abilities and often have technical skill. A tendency to be suspicious of others or to worry, however, may mar your usual light-hearted attitude.

The first half of your life may be more difficult than the second, due to your emotional sensitivity. Nevertheless, this can stimulate an intuitive or mystical side to your nature that will prove beneficial later in life.

Fixed Stars

Although your Sun's degree is not linked to a fixed star; some of your other planets' degrees certainly will be. By having an astrological chart calculated, you can find the exact position of the planets on your date of birth. This will tell you which of the fixed stars listed in this book are relevant to you.

Your Secret Self

Your powerful inner emotions need a positive channel for expression or else you may become moody. You possess, however, an enormous potential to realize the power of love and to channel it into the lives of others. At these times, you can become very charismatic and determined, inspiring or influencing people with your spontaneity, warm heart, and generosity. By organizing yourself and being persistent and businesslike, you are able to turn many of your heart's desires into a practical form.

A quest for a higher knowledge may move you toward projects or people that involve soul growth. You need to be constantly working and challenging yourself to achieve something that has some depth and purpose. This stops you from becoming overserious or too self-involved. Paradoxically, although you may have issues around being lonely or abandoned, you need periods alone for contemplation and self-analysis.

Work & Vocation

Gregarious and friendly, you fare better in occupations that involve creative thinking or dealing with the public. As an idealistic and loyal person, you enjoy working in partnerships or collaborating with others in a group effort. As a gifted and multitalented individual, you prefer working conditions that allow you time to play and have fun. If you want to succeed, you may have to work very hard to achieve stardom. Dramatic and creative, your strength is in the dedication you show to a purpose or goal. It is therefore better for you to think big and aim for the top.

Your inner sensitivity may not be immediately obvious from your outer personality. You are sympathetic, and with your strong feelings, you can identify with others' problems and reveal your potential for deep compassion and universal love. When you are able to view people and situations from this larger perspective, you can be very giving and detached, trusting that life will spontaneously fall into place in its own time. Love & Relationships

Attracted to hardworking, ambitious, and self-made people, you need a partner who can keep up with your dynamic mental energy. With your natural charm, you should have no problem attracting admirers. Your skepticism, however, indicates that you probably take your time before committing yourself to a long-term relationship. Social contacts and group activities are important to you, as they help you develop your skills at analyzing people. Men of this birthday are particularly drawn to powerful and independent women, although women in general can prove particularly lucky for anybody born on this date. Once you do settle down, you can be very loyal and supportive.

October 16

The influence of your birthday suggests that you are a charming, sensitive, and hardworking Libra who can also be very determined. Intuitive yet possessing business acumen, you are extremely purposeful when you are interested in a project or have set a definite goal. However, at other times you can suffer from indecision or inertia and procrastination, which can challenge your otherwise remarkable potential.

With the added influence of your decanate ruler, Gemini, you have an inquisitive and perceptive mind as well as good powers of speech. With an interest in relationships, you are usually skillful at diplomacy or making contacts. With a love of luxury and the good life, however, you would be wise to guard against social excesses or overindulgence in any form. Nevertheless, your creative mind is usually full of ideas and plans, and once set on a course of action, you have a tenacious approach to fulfilling your personal vision.

Although you project a sociable and amiable approach to life, you possess a strong sense of the dramatic and are very emotional. A powerful need for love and emotional satisfaction can be channeled into creative pursuits such as art, music, or drama, or may spur you to fight for an idealistic cause. Your farsightedness and natural practical approach make you a good strategist as well. There may nevertheless be times when you are prone to avoidance, guilt, or being too self-obsessed. By combining the two sides of your personality, you are able to establish harmony and equilibrium.

After you reach the age of seven, your progressed Sun moves into Scorpio, emphasizing issues concerning your emotional sensitivity and power. A turning point occurs at the age of thirty-seven, when your progressed Sun moves into Sagittarius, widening your perspective on life and indicating that you may wish to travel, study, or be adventurous. After the age of sixty-seven, when your progressed Sun enters Capricorn, you become more practical, mindful, and circumspect.

Love & Relationships

Relationships are very important to you even if you do not always demonstrate your feelings or affection. Nevertheless, you can be protective of those you care for. Often drawn to people who work hard, are unusual, or are from foreign lands, you need mental excitement or intellectual rapport. Charming and friendly, you usually enjoy socializing and can be witty and entertaining. Once you do decide to settle down, you can be a loyal and supportive partner.

October 19

The influence of your birthday indicates that you are a creative and optimistic Libra with a quick mind. Friendly, sociable, and imaginative, you can be charmingly assertive and have a need to be popular. You are adaptable and versatile; however, you may have to be careful that your many interests do not cause you to scatter your energies or be indecisive.

With the subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Gemini, you are expressive and a good conversationalist. The combination of your persuasive speech and dynamic charm ensures that you are usually skillful at making contacts and influencing others. Easygoing, you have an interest in human relationships and are good at dealing with people. The more doubting side of your nature, however, can cause you to worry or hide your feelings from others to protect your sensitivity.

Attracted to the creative arts and with a strong need to express yourself, you like to surround yourself with beauty or may even develop your innate artistic or literary talents. With a love of style, luxury, and the good life, you would be wise to guard against social excesses or overindulgence in any form. Fortunately, you are blessed with the grace of natural compassion that enables you to empathize with others. Developed, this gives you a humanitarian and altruistic desire to be of service. Nevertheless, with your warm heart and charisma, you may need to be careful that your social life does not take over your responsibilities.

From the age of four onward, when your progressed Sun moves into Scorpio, you experience a growing emphasis on emotional change, personal power, and regeneration. A turning point occurs at the age of thirty-four, when your progressed Sun moves into Sagittarius, indicating that you become more adventurous and freedom-loving, possibly desiring to travel or seek more education. After the age of sixty-four, when your progressed Sun enters Capricorn, you become more rational, sensible, and discerning, with a realistic point of view.

Proud, with a natural dramatic sense, you prefer to be in a leadership position. With a good sense of values, you are quick at assessing opportunities and evaluating people. This business sense, combined with a pioneering spirit, can help you achieve success. If you lose faith, however, you may be likely to become insecure or temperamental, which can cause you to place too much store in material power and status.

With your restlessness, you can become bored easily. This implies that you need to find activities that stimulate or challenge you, and persevere with them. Although at times you may suffer from a conflict between idealism and the mundane, usually variety and change can inspire you to become motivated and mobile. Travel can play an important role in your life, so if you feel restricted, do not be afraid to take chances and go further afield if promising prospects arise.

PRIMARY STAR'S INFLUENCE

Arcturus imparts artistic talent and success in the world of fine arts. This star can bestow riches, honors, and acclaim, and bring prosperity. Arcturus may also bring success in foreign lands and through long journeys. This star warns against restlessness and anxious moments, which create instability in your life.

Linked to your Sun's degree, Arcturus imparts wealth and a good reputation. This star brings success after early setbacks and grants intuitive, psychic, or healing abilities. An inclination toward the legal profession or public office may bring success. Alternatively, you may find an interest in writing on philosophical, spiritual, or religious subjects. This star suggests guarding against becoming too apprehensive

Friendly and popular, you find it easy to make friends and charm people. Usually attractive, you have admirers of the opposite sex. Nevertheless, there is a danger that if you allow yourself to run hot and cold, love can be a minefield, with your losses as many as your successes. You can be compassionate and caring and make sacrifices for those you love. Generous when socializing, you possess an alluring personal magnetism and are good with intimacy. You may, however, need to curb an extravagant or jealous streak.

With a need to be different, you are likely to project an attractive appearance and be drawn to original individuals. The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Gemini, indicates that you are intellectually quick and able to impress people with words, either verbally or in writing. Having much to gain from cooperative efforts and partnerships, you particularly profit from personal contacts. Being provocative or manipulative, though, can lose you the many benefits of creating harmony and balance in relationships. Very determined when you have a goal in mind, you are capable of inventive and original achievements. However, you may need to protect your highly tuned nervous system to avoid becoming irritable or stressed.

From very early in your childhood, your progressed Sun moves into Scorpio, emphasizing your growing awareness of emotional change and personal power. A turning point occurs at the age of thirty-three when your progressed Sun moves into Sagittarius, indicating that you may wish to expand your horizons or travel. If education becomes a focal point, study of philosophy, psychology, and law can be beneficial. You are also likely to have more contact with foreign people and places. After the age of sixty-three, when your progressed Sun enters Capricorn, you become more practical, sensible, and prudent.

Love & Relationships

Although sensitive, with a compelling desire for love and affection, a need for variety and stimulating company suggests that you do not want your love life to become boring. Travel, or a break from routine with your friends or partner, is especially helpful to stop you from becoming overly serious or working too hard. However, new situations or unexpected events may sometimes cause unrest. If you become too keen in the beginning of a relationship, you can later become discouraged or lose interest. You benefit from developing a more patient approach and taking your time in forming relationships.

October 27

Your birthday shows you to be an imaginative and idealistic Scorpio with strong intuitive powers and powerful emotions. The unique combination of determination, personal magnetism, and penetrating insight makes you excellent at combining business and pleasure. Since at times your strong emotions may fluctuate, it is important that you recognize their power and learn to use them in a positive way. Finding creative outlets for self-expression can help you to avoid becoming too intense.

The double influence of Pluto suggests that you are magnetic and courageous, with a fighting spirit. This inner strength also points to a dynamic willpower that enables you to rejuvenate yourself or overcome obstacles. Usually you are friendly but reserved. Although you sometimes feel inner turbulence, outwardly you can remain calm and composed. Just guard against becoming inflexible, as it can work to your detriment.

Through the use of your dynamic appeal, energy, and generosity, you can charm and impress others. Alternating between being aloof or uncommunicative and being sympathetic and kind, you often remain a puzzle to others, as they fail to understand the many different aspects of your personality.

Before the age of twenty-five, you are largely concerned with the development of your sense of personal power and how to handle your deep emotions. After the age of twenty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Sagittarius, you become more optimistic, with a growing need to be adventurous and seek opportunities. This may lead you to take chances, travel, or study. After the age of fifty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Capricorn, you develop a more realistic and structured view and desire to be organized in order to actualize your potential.

Charming and idealistic, you are a kind and sentimental individual who is willing to help someone less fortunate than yourself. Although you are caring, you like to have financial security and be in the company of wealthy or influential people. October 30

♏ Charming and friendly, with a restless heart, you are a sensitive Scorpio who is versatile and adaptable. Since you have a desire for a full and varied life, you yearn for different experiences and new adventures. This need for personal freedom also suggests that it may be hard for you to find lasting satisfaction or that fluctuating moods can bring changing attitudes. Creative and colorful, you can usually communicate your ideas in a dramatic way.

The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Scorpio, adds to your inner strength. Idealistic and sensitive, you can be affectionate, yet secretive. Your direct approach and sharp comments indicate that you can be a good satirist. Remember, however, that your criticism can be hurtful as well as amusing. At the age of twenty-three, when your progressed Sun moves into Sagittarius, there is a turning point that emphasizes a growing need for more expansion and optimism in your life. This may come through mental development, education, or travel. Another turning point occurs at the age of fifty-three, when your progressed Sun moves into Capricorn; this begins to highlight practical issues of persistence, dedication, and realism.

Although you project a strong image, an inner restlessness suggests that you need patience and must face the challenge of finding harmony within yourself. Although you have a pragmatic approach to life, a need for adventure and variety can lead you to explore new horizons, whether mentally or emotionally. If your powerful feelings become repressed, however, you may find yourself dissatisfied and escape through fantasy or self-indulgence as a form of compensation.

With your warm heart and sympathy, you can often sense the feelings of others. Your high ideals bring a desire for love and affection that may find creative outlets through the arts or spirituality. A need for personal freedom, however, can bring about changing attitudes or make you prone to fluctuating moods. Fortunately, your magnetic charm and acute perceptions can win you many favors and be keys to outstanding success.

The subinfluence of the number 11 month indicates that you are enthusiastic and inspired. Supersensitive and imaginative, you have psychic abilities and receptivity. Although you are pragmatic, a tendency to fluctuate emotionally suggests that you need to stay single-minded and apply your inspirational ideas to some serviceable or creative use. If indecisive or insecure, you can succumb to a tendency toward self-indulgence or become scattered, with too many interests.

Love & Relationships

Idealistic and honest, you need to choose your partners carefully; otherwise it may be difficult for anyone to live up to your high expectations. Although your naturally friendly personality ensures that you have many friends, having two sides to your nature implies that you may alternate between being optimistic, spontaneous, and affectionate and appearing indifferent or withdrawn. These changing moods can leave others wondering or bewildered. Often looking for an almost spiritual bond, you can go to great lengths to help those you love.

December 3

Creative and versatile, with a flair for people, you are a charming and friendly Sagittarian with a pragmatic approach. A willingness to compromise and cooperate with others usually leads you to successful joint ventures that can be of immense benefit to you and your co-workers. Although often fortunate, you may need to overcome a tendency to scatter your energies by learning to focus your enterprising spirit on the most important issues.

The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Aries, adds vitality to your bright outlook and optimistic nature. Energetic and determined, you have the ability to overcome obstacles. This assertiveness also urges you to be adventurous and expand your horizons. Being alert, with excellent executive ability, you enjoy an element of risk that can bring you good fortune and excitement. Your fighting spirit and creative thinking suggest that you need freedom of expression and like to get things moving quickly.

Cerebral and intuitive, you are a humanitarian who enjoys intellectual activities. These can fire your imagination and inspire your idealistic beliefs or spur your interest in metaphysical and religious subjects. Although you have many wonderful money-making ideas, a conflict between your ideals and reality suggests that you need to have realistic goals. If not, you may experience a concern about not having enough money, or periods of weakness may alternate with periods of determined progress and advancement in life.

Up to the age of eighteen, you are optimistic and adventurous, with a strong desire to expand your opportunities. This may be through taking chances, education, or travel. A turning point occurs as you reach the age of nineteen, when your progressed Sun moves into Capricorn. This brings a more pragmatic, orderly, and structured approach to your life. You have a more realistic sense of how to achieve your goals. There is another change of emphasis at age forty-nine, when your progressed Sun moves into Aquarius. This highlights issues regarding friendship, group awareness, and independence.

Love & Relationships

As you like new beginnings and opportunities, you need to be in the company of mentally stimulating people who are adventurous, idealistic, and enterprising; otherwise you may become bored and restless. A secretive side to your nature implies that you prefer to keep your thoughts to yourself and rarely speak openly about your true feelings. By being patient and discriminating, you develop loving relationships. Usually you need to be careful about mixing personal relationships with business. If you are mistrustful or skeptical, relationships may suffer from your unwillingness to become fully committed. If inspired by other individuals, you need to be careful not to get carried away with their plans and ideas and get sidetracked.

December 14

Although you are a restless and idealistic Sagittarian who yearns for adventure, travel, and excitement, your common sense and need for stability and security imply that you are also shrewd and observant. Nevertheless, your desire for variety and change suggests that you are not likely to rest on your laurels and settle for less than the best.

The subinfluence of your decanate ruler, Leo, adds to your self-confidence, and with an optimistic spirit and enthusiasm, you can have many noble or lofty ideas. Outspoken, you usually have strong convictions and opinions that need to be expressed. Active, with good organizational skills, you are happier working or planning rather than wasting your energy on trivial pursuits. As you like to set a solid foundation and build from there, you can also benefit from working on ideals or long-term projects that you believe in.

Intelligent and intuitive, you know how to make use of any information at your disposal. Inspired by wisdom and desiring knowledge, you often take up education to prevent yourself from becoming bored. This suggests that you can benefit from exploring philosophy and spirituality. Whether your study is self-directed or conventional, you enjoy all kinds of mental pursuits that allow you to expand your horizons.

While you are between ages eight and thirty-seven, your progressed Sun moves through Capricorn. This brings a growing need for practical order and structure into your life, gradually making you more goal-oriented and responsible. There is a turning point at age thirty-eight when your progressed Sun moves into Aquarius, highlighting a desire for independence, progressive ideas, and expressing your individuality. Another change of emphasis occurs at age sixty-eight, when your progressed Sun moves into Pisces, accenting issues of emotional sensitivity, imagination, and psychic awareness.

Your Secret Self

Although you appear confident, an inner dichotomy reveals both a need to seek new and exciting experiences and a desire for peace of mind. Although your restlessness drives you to succeed, it can also cause a dissatisfaction that can lead to escapism or overindulgence. It is important, therefore, to establish a well-balanced life. By learning to be introspective and calm, you can develop patience and inner serenity.

Your quick instincts and sensitivity can make you highly intuitive. By developing these qualities, you can utilize your insight and gain wisdom that can influence and inspire others. In your desire to help, however, you may have to be careful of becoming too critical or dominating. Being idealistic and wanting to improve the world, you often feel happiest when you are selflessly supporting a cause or helping others.

mind, you respond quickly to problems and enjoy solving them. The subinfluence of the number 12 month indicates that you are idealistic and ambitious, with an adventurous nature. Love & Relationships

Your need for emotional stimulation shows your powerful feelings. Restless and highly sensitive, you have idealistic inclinations that are probably going to entice you to try many different relationships. Since you are willing to make sacrifices for those you love and cherish, you need to take your time to find a suitable partner. Youthful and enthusiastic, you like to be spontaneous, but by becoming strongly attached to partners you run the risk of getting overly serious. This may sometimes prove to be a costly and unnecessary heartache.

December 21

Born on the cusp of Sagittarius and Capricorn, you benefit from Jupiter's optimism and Saturn's realism. Charismatic and versatile, you have a dynamic personality and a desire to achieve on a grand scale. Your powerful emotions are your motivating force, and you want to realize your creative potential by turning your dreams into tangible reality. Although you are active and full of drive, having strong desires also implies that if you become excitable and rush into new projects without prior planning, you may miss some of your best opportunities. By restraining your inclination to be impatient and learning to focus on fewer goals, you become more responsible and reap the rewards.

The subinfluence of your decanate rulers, Leo and Saturn, adds to your self-confidence and strengthens your determination. Usually you are creative, idealistic, and full of noble ideas. Amiable and kindhearted, you have a lively expression of feeling and, with your direct approach, are also honest and friendly. When full of vitality, you can inspire others with your enthusiasm and spirit of enterprise.

Gracious, amicable, and able to mix with people from all walks of life, you possess natural diplomatic skills and an ability to make others feel at ease. Benevolence and an urge to grow and expand suggest that you can achieve much by yourself. Nonetheless, the tremendous potential indicated by your birthday is truly realized if you are engaged in collaborative ventures that can benefit not only yourself but others as well.

Up to the age of thirty, as your progressed Sun moves through Capricorn, you focus on practical issues and a need for order and structure in your life. A turning point occurs at the age of thirty-one, when your progressed Sun moves into Aquarius. This highlights a growing desire for more independence and original, progressive ideas. You may want freedom or feel a need to find your place within groups.

Another turning point occurs at age sixty-one, when your progressed Sun moves into Pisces. This is likely to make you more emotionally sensitive, sympathetic, and imaginative. This is a time when artistic, creative, or spiritual talents are accentuated.

Intelligent and with a universal perspective, you are a friendly and independent Aquarian. Your birthday indicates that although you are usually generous, kind, and open, you also have a side to your nature that can be introspective or critical. Your strong instincts for leadership suggest that you do not like to be in subservient positions and that you are often a good judge of values.

With the added influence of your Sun in the decanate of Libra, you possess good social and communication skills. Needing people, love, and affection, you find that relationships are very important to you. Witty and cultured, you have quick reactions and a humanitarian viewpoint. Although you are independent, your easy ability to deal with others helps you work well as part of a team. An eccentric instability, however, implies that you may get bored easily and find it hard to listen or communicate without rhetoric.

Preferring to keep active, you can be productive and resourceful. With a touch of the mad genius, you can have inspired and unique ideas. An exceptional thinker and good synthesizer of information, you enjoy learning and sharing your knowledge with others. When you are preoccupied with your own thoughts, however, your mental focus can be elsewhere, and you may appear absent-minded. Although you can usually be quite detached, sometimes a tendency to hold on to disappointments or frustration may undermine your positive plans and goals. Releasing the past enables you to live more happily in the present.

While you are between the ages of four and thirty-three, when your progressed Sun moves through Pisces, your emotional sensitivity increases, making you more imaginative, receptive, and emotionally aware of your social life. You may also become visionary or interested in developing creative talents. There is a turning point at age thirty-four, when your progressed Sun enters Aries. Your ambition and determination become apparent and you start to really come into your own. Another change of emphasis occurs at age sixty-four, when your progressed Sun enters Taurus, influencing you to be more practical, with a need for stability, security, and emotional steadiness.

This combines well with your natural psychological skills, and so you are also able to evaluate people's character or motivation, which often places you in a leading role. A need for material security can play an important role in decision making; just be careful that it does not undermine your soul growth. Fortunately, your zany sense of humor can help you keep it all in a balanced perspective.

Ambitious and persistent, you have a strong presence and good organizational skills that point to a desire for continual improvement, both materially and socially. Active and productive, you enjoy power, so you may need to continually challenge yourself. Direct and frank in your communication, you prefer to be honest in your relationships with others. Friendly, warm, and outgoing, you have a gift for dealing with people. You may have to overcome a tendency to be irritable or stubborn, however, that can spoil your charismatic appeal and separate you from others.

With the added influence of your Sun between the Libra and Pisces decanates, you can be romantic, creative, and visionary, with an intuitive intellect. Gregarious, you need people and are likely to have an active social life. Image and status can be important to you, so you usually present yourself to others in a dignified way. Nevertheless, you also have a more unusual or eccentric side to your nature that can be reflected in your original and unique ideas, which are often ahead of their time.

With an innate business sense, you can be fortunate to see opportunities. A tendency to become discouraged or get stuck in a rut may sometimes deter you from putting in the hard work, perseverance, and determination needed to achieve your objectives. Pisces

February 20–March 20

February 20

♓ Charming and socially inclined, you are a receptive Piscean with a friendly personality. As an easygoing person with a sensitive nature, you have a flair for dealing with people from all walks of life. Although creative and versatile, you may have difficulty deciding exactly what your aims are. Quietly ambitious and determined, however, you are willing to make the necessary changes and are likely to travel far in order to find your true identity.

The added influence of your Sun in the decanate of Pisces brings intuition to your visionary and imaginative mind as well as depth to your idealistic nature. By learning to trust your premonitions, you come to know your strengths and failings as well as those of others. Your youthful and positive outlook is your true asset, and with determination and hard work you can overcome the obstacles in your path. Although you are adaptable and can fit easily into new circumstances, a dislike of routine and a restless spirit imply that you can too easily become dissatisfied with your current situation.

By realizing that periods of progress and advancement in your life are often followed by periods of recession, you can keep financial circumstances steady through long-term investment rather than immediate compensation. As success and rewards usually come through perseverance and sticking firmly to your principles, you may need to learn that impatience often has the reverse effect, causing you worry or insecurity.

Aware of image and with a strong sense of vision, you often have many creative ideas. Inspired by example, you are often stimulated to search for idealistic situations that can provide you with mental stimulation and variety.

Until you reach the age of twenty-nine, your progressed Sun moves through Pisces, accenting your sensitivity and feelings. You may find yourself searching for an ideal situation or relationship or just something more magical in your life. From the age of thirty, when your progressed Sun moves into Aries, you start to become more confident, assertive, and ambitious. You are likely to start new ventures or take the initiative in your dealings with others. At the age of sixty there is another turning point as your Sun enters Taurus. After this time, you slow down and have a practical need for more stability and financial security in your life.

♓ Your Pisces birthday reveals you to be self-motivated and imaginative, as well as a receptive and independent individual. Idealistic, with powerful feelings and a willingness to work hard, you can be very generous and protective of those you love. Although you are amiable and gracious, with a pragmatic approach, a blend of high ideals and a practical desire for money and luxury indicate that you may vacillate between extremes. Although you are usually imaginative and contemplative, your unsettled nature can sometimes cause you to be at odds with others. Usually you have many opportunities to succeed materially and socially, and your strong sense of values suggests that financial security may play an important part in your life plan. Although you have the dynamic drive to gain a certain degree of power or achieve prestige or recognition, a tendency to scatter your energies on too many interests may undermine your determination.

Your growth and strength come from the capacity to overcome difficulties. When you are inspired by a cause or an idea, you usually find within you the inspiration and creative power to perform record achievements.

As you often alternate between feelings of distrust and hope, sometimes you can appear restless or self-doubting and at other times you come across as self-reliant, assured, and even domineering. This can easily cause unrest in your environment through quarrels or conflict with your superiors. By learning to relax and avoiding feeling irritable or aggressive, you can restore the peace.

While you are between the ages of six and thirty-five your progressed Sun moves through Aries. This influence suggests that you gradually develop your confidence and assertiveness. After the age of thirty-six, when your progressed Sun moves into Taurus, you feel an increased need for stability and financial security. You become more relaxed and determined, but a reluctance to change can be a sign of obstinacy. At the age of sixty-six there is a turning point when your progressed Sun enters Gemini.
