

Chinese and Western Combinations

Pisces (Rabbit) Month

Combination with Snake Year:

"Faith" Neptune, Water, Mutable

"Feel" Yang-Negative Fire

Characteristics: Compassion, Exclusiveness, Indecision, Rage, Clairvoyance, Presumption, Spirituality, Awareness, Creativity, Laziness, Compatibility, Fearfulness, Discretion, Smugness, Attractiveness, Cupidity, Perception, Lack of Will, Extravagance, Intuition, Dissimulation, Understanding, Diffidence, Sagacity

The way this combination sees the world is too deep to share with mere mortals. They are profound and intuitive in addition to being able to focus clearly with a vision of the future. Another way to view this is that the Pisces-Snake has been, through some cosmic error, placed on planet earth. They are wizards masquerading as simple humans. The Pisces-Snake lives, speaking in psychic terms, on another planet among other enlightened souls who understand them. They simply are not of this earth. They seem normal enough superficially. However, the Pisces-Snake is a being that is a super-cerebral and a philosopher at heart. They are not really suited to do things in the fashion of other people and that leads them to be either unemployed or unhappy. They are not interested in announcing to the world that they are important, special or different and they certainly have no axes laying around that need grinding even though they find mankind in rather dire straits in modern times. They could easily live in a place apart from all the madness. A home with their family would be comfort enough. They could, perhaps be content as a fortuneteller or shaman, but job openings in those categories are rare. This individual avoids trouble and avoids complaining.

Romance: This combination has friends galore, but generally they gather at the home of the Pisces-Snake. This stick-in-mud approach to socialization often turns their mate off and it is possible their partner will be unfaithful. Pisces-Snake are a paradigm of being faithful and loving in a relationship. If they get married they perceive it as being forever and they never stray. They believe that their commitment is for life and that they are bound together with their mate. Because they are loaded with energy, they occasionally need rest and an escape. They prefer to stay at home with their family.

Relationships: To be avoided in this combination are Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius-Tigers. Bringing up the rear and not the least bit recommended are Virgo-Monkeys. At the top of the list for love and marriage are Taurus, Cancer and Capricorn-Roosters. Additional fine choices are Cancer and Capricorn-Buffalos.

Family Life: This combination, for themselves alone, does not need material possessions at all. If they live alone they will be comfortable, but after that not much else matters. They are perfectly capable of living in one very sparsely furnished room. Oddly enough the Pisces-Snake loves clothes but they are not flamboyant in their choice of attire. They are loving parents but because of their extreme sensitivity find child rearing painful at times. The Pisces-Snake loves their home and essentially stay there. They are the quintessential homebody. This individual is responsible and loving. They recognize the importance of home and family. Their home might be extravagant but it is worth it because it houses those they love.

Likelihood: Pisces-Snakes are good with people and are capable of hard work. As a boss, they are good hearted, but end up being unlike in many cases because such people are frequently taken for granted and used. The Pisces-Snake is multitalented and able to do a vast array of jobs. There is a slight issue in that they do not want to leave their home and family when they turn of age. They are firmly attached to the home of mom and dad. If they get a good education the leave taking is easier, but without it there is a strong resistance.

Famous Pisces/Snakes: Isabelle Huppert, Anthony Burgess, Robert Lowell.
