Introduction

Hello, my dear Pisces lover!

This is Anna Kovach, and I am here to help you understand your Pisces man better and on a deeper level. Yes, I know, he can be quite stubborn and complicated at times, but there is nothing that can't be fixed. Pisces men can be amazing boyfriends and husbands; you just have to know exactly how to push their buttons.

My name is Anna Kovach and I am a Relationship Astrologer. My step-by-step astrological guide, Pisces man Secrets, has already helped thousands of women like you win the love of that special Pisces man in their life — and I hope it can do the same for you. You can learn more about my story here and how you too can create a deeper connection with your Pisces man.

Don't give up on him just yet, because I might have the solution to your problems! I have many years of experience and I have worked with dozens of women that had various problems with their Pisces men. Believe me; they've gone through all relationship problems and dilemmas you can imagine.

But there is a silver lining! Astrology truly can help you solve your relationship problems with your Pisces man. Is he being distant or acting hot and cold? Are you still not sure where you two stand? What to do when you are suspicious of him cheating on you? I've gathered all that and many more in this collection of questions that my readers have asked me throughout these past few years.

Here you can learn and read from other women facing all sorts of issues with their Pisces man. It's like a private confession. It's good when you can learn from other people's example and experiences. So I believe you'll learn a lot and find an answer to all those questions that might come up in your relationship with a Pisces man, whether he be your boyfriend or just an acquaintance.

You, my dear sister Aquarius, are the child of the god of discipline and structure, Saturn, which rules your sign in the traditional sense, and Uranus, which is your modern ruler. Your way of understanding things, your social dynamics, and your innovative spirit are traits that are irresistible to all people around you. However, the natal positions of your Saturn and Uranus may bring out uncontrolled emotions and a rebellious spirit, which are not necessarily negative traits for you personally, but sometimes those characteristics can be perceived as negative by some people.

You belong to the fixed air element, which means you possess great wisdom regarding social interactions, and your high standards are unbreakable because they were built on the fire of your inner truth and dedication. Your appearance is often very unusual, sometimes weird, and you might appear as a very carefree person at first glance. Famous Aquarius women include Shakira, Portia de Rossi, Alicia Keys, Jennifer Aniston, Jenifer Lewis, and many more extraordinarily talented and successful ladies.

The Pisces man is ruled by the planets Jupiter and Neptune in astrology, and the sign of Pisces is related to inspiration, arts, deep spiritual insights, and emotions, as well as taking care of older people, joining a monastery, living in closed or restricted spaces, and even being in jail. The Pisces man is sensual, and sometimes he can act in a confused manner, but he is always full of pure enthusiasm and good intentions. He may be a bit psychologically unstable or overly excited at times, but he is more focused on higher goals than the world and people around him.

Wish you all the luck in the universe!

Pisces man Aquarius Woman Compatibility

Pisces man in Love

The Pisces man is all about gentle emotions, high morals, and serving others in life. This sign is ruled by Jupiter and Neptune in astrology, and this is also the placement of great scientists, artists, extraordinary energy healers, doctors, biologists, and marine scientists. This is why the Pisces man feels the strong need to dive deep into hidden spiritual or scientific worlds.

He enjoys strong bonds with people who share interests that are the same or similar to his. He values honesty and sacrifices, and he finds his joy in a romantic and uplifting love relationship with someone a bit conservative who has good organizational skills.

Aquarius Woman in Love

The Aquarius woman is known as a very unusual person. However, when it comes to love, this is the area where she finds her heart's desires fulfilled through the exchange of information and lots of talking. Her feelings might appear to be somewhat shallow in the beginning because she showers the person she loves with communication. However, she needs to understand and be understood fully to be able to love, too.

Pisces Man/Aquarius Woman in Love

First of all, please understand that men are not psychologically shaped the same as women. The common belief is that women are intuitive, but when it comes to love, no one can beat a man's intuition. A man will just know deep down in his heart if that woman over there is his woman or not. Astrology plays a huge part in deciphering this, and only your planetary matching can determine whether true love will happen with a particular man you have in mind.

All you can do, as a woman, is position yourself in the right location where certain types of men can approach you and nothing more. If you want to meet quality men, you must choose locations where quality men gather. You must look and act your best, and that is all. You cannot convince any man to fall in love with you no matter what you do.

Secondly, when you start a romance with a man, bear in mind that men won't be able to respect you if they haven't fought for you or earned your respect in the first place. So, starting a "friends with benefits" type of relationship won't get you where you want to be—a committed relationship—because otherwise, having sex with you won't mean anything else for him except just having sex.

During the initial stages of your relationship, try to be polite and feminine, but show your standards and let him know very clearly the way you want to be treated. If he is not so into you, he will leave. But if he is, your high standards will help you to fall in love faster and secure real commitment.

Play somewhat hard to get but be easy to be around. Make yourself this type of girl and you'll be on the right track. In those beginning stages, limit your phone conversations, keep your texting to a minimum, and stay with him only for a few hours at a time. This will leave him hungry for you, and this will consequently make him commit.

Sex should be the reward for his commitment, and you shouldn't hurry with this phase. For some people, intimacy will come after a few dates. For others, this will take place after a month or three months, while some couples will wait until they get married. And all those situations are fine, but you should consider sex to be something he should earn first and not something you give to him to make him commit because that strategy will never work out in the long run.

He needs to fight for your time, to treat you right from the start, and to commit, and only then, when you feel protected by his love and efforts, will you open completely — because then you will be able to trust him.

When it comes to compatibility between the Pisces man and the Aquarius woman, their relationship can work out well with some significant effort from both sides depending on their natal planets, especially their natal Jupiter and Saturn. In general terms, he will fill her heart with new “outside-the-box” ideas, bring her an increased sense of significance regarding her incomes, and give her the deep inner feeling that they will build something meaningful and lasting in the future. She will be someone who awakens the powerful dreams in his mind and the one he can always count on when he craves joy in his life.

Problems stemming from their negative traits may arise in the form of some sudden hostility from both of them because his need to dive deeper into abstract concepts can be perceived as confusing or trivial for the Aquarius woman, and his ideals of a quiet and emotionally controlled lover can frustrate her very much from time to time. She should minimize her tendency for loud and brisk communication, but he must control his moodiness, too.

Pisces Man/Aquarius Woman in a Long-Distance Love

There are some rare couples who started their marriages as long-distance relationships and were aware of that fact to begin with. And there are many couples who were separated due to the career or similar pursuits of one partner. Inability to see someone in person for prolonged periods of time can and will create distance in your hearts. However, there are several good strategies to keep the flame of love alive even if you are not together.

Keep your communication regular, but don't overdo it. This means that you shouldn't spend hours on video chats or text messaging because you will run out of topics to talk about. Make a plan and stick to it. Arrange your online contacts like you would do with your regular dating.

In the first few months, keep conversations to an hour a few times a week because those shorter conversations will keep him wanting you more. After a while, when you become a part of his life, try to act as you would in real life. Install your camera in the kitchen and talk to him while you are cooking or baking cakes.

Take him "out" and show him some local attractions and your favorite places. Don't just practice the "love birds" talks because you'll both get easily bored. Instead, show him that you are a real woman with so many interesting activities, places, and stories to be told.

If your Pisces man doesn't speak your language, or the language of your communication is not native for one or both of you, try to keep things simple. Actions—not words—will help you to establish a proper bond, and you should focus on the visual part of your communication. Remember, a picture is worth a thousand words, so keep the words simple and easy to understand, but show him the world that surrounds you.

And when I say pictures, I don't mean naked or tempting pictures of you. Even if he asks for those types of photographs, refrain from sending anything too provocative to him or anyone else because those pictures might end up in places you don't want to see yourself. When your relationship becomes exclusive and committed, then you will be free to send him anything you like, but not before he proves to be worthy of your trust and heart.

Online Communication

Social media has become the fastest way to expand your social circle and get romantically involved. And no matter which type of Internet platform you are using, each one of them can immensely help you to meet many new men. Just keep in mind that some of them might not be the ones you're looking for.

First of all, be aware that men can present themselves in a false light. They could be married, unavailable, have criminal records, be aggressive, liars, frauds and whatever you can imagine. Not all of them, of course, but many of them will use the magical mask the Internet can provide for their benefit.

As a woman, you have to protect yourself from those types of guys. Therefore, you shouldn't reveal your real name — and especially your phone number or address — before you get to know the guy a little bit more. Then your next task is to find out as much as you can about him online before the actual meeting takes place, which means that he will give you his real name first.

Try to find everything you can about him online, but sometimes, direct questions like "Are you married?" or "Do you have a girlfriend?" can easily give you the answers you need. And when your first date is finally set, it must be in a public place because you need to feel and to be safe.

There are two major types of frauds you could encounter during the course of online communication, and those are pic collectors and online lovers.

Pic collectors don't want to take you on actual dates, fall in love with you or, for heaven's sake, marry you; they just collect photographs of girls and find their thrill in looking at them. This is why you should have two or three nice and decent photos on your online profile, including a face pic and full-body standing and seated shots, and that's enough. If someone contacts you and asks for more pictures, you should refuse this and simply move on. He is not interested in being with you, he just wants to look at you — and that is not your goal.

Also, when it comes to personal photos, resist the desire to send your naked or tempting photos to anyone else other than your husband or your devoted fiancé. And even in those cases, you have to know that there are many hackers out there, and your image might end up on porn websites or be used for many other dishonest purposes. So, no matter how strong his demands might be, do not send him your naked photos.

Online lovers are guys who need to have fake types of romantic relationships, which mean a lot of messages, emails, or video chats... and nothing else. When it comes to "real" life, they're nowhere to be seen. And like the pic collectors, you should avoid this category of men at any cost because your goal is to have a real relationship with a real person.

Remember, as a woman, you are the one who sets the rules for your relationship, so keep your power position and don't get caught in endless and fruitless online communication. I know, we women are prone to write essays whenever we can, but please don't do it. Keep your written communication to a minimum.

Pisces men in general fall for elegant, intelligent, and somewhat conservative types of women who are organized and perhaps a bit shy. You don't have to spend a fortune to look classy in your photos. Dress with style, no matter how inexpensive your clothes are, and keep the sexual tension radiating from you without seeming cheap. This way, he will surely notice you. Also, your profile description should be short and show your good manners, your female kindness, and your zesty wit.

Texting/Sexting with a Pisces Man

When it comes to texting, Pisces men are generally not very interested in this style of communication, which should serve you just fine because you need live interaction! The area of communication for Pisces falls in the sign of Taurus, and in terms of astrology, this means that the typical Pisces guy will have a short and somewhat conservative style of texting, but he will be delighted by unusual and inspiring topics.

First of all, he is the man here, so let him pursue you. Secondly, when you get a typical message like "What's up, baby?" or "How's it going?" you should keep your response short and sweet. The best answers that will provoke him to set a date with you are:

"Crazy busy day, but I thought about your sexy smile/eyes/face/something..."

“Baking a cake, thinking of you, wink”

“Hi handsome, the sky is so beautiful, just like your smile”

“Freezing day today, but I have this hot soup and your photo in front of me to keep me warm, wink”

So, as you can see, your part here is to lift his mood, relate it to his marvelous face/body/smile/sense of humor/whatever, and keep it short. Your goal is not to spend the whole day texting with him but to make him take you on a date.

Save the real conversation for the real meeting, and don't be so eager to respond to his messages right away; you have a full life and so much to do besides playing with your phone. If he continues to text you, just prolong the time of your replies and wait for a proper “can we have a date” text or call.

As an Aquarius woman, you should be the one who brings unusual ideas, childlike excitement, and a sense of righteousness to his life, and you can create some uplifting and teasing texts which will bring joy to him.

When in a committed relationship, feel free to spice up his usual workday with:

“Thinking of your sexy lips...” or “Warm soup and hot wife are waiting for you to get home.” Again, associate food and sex and he won't be able to resist you. However, save the best part for your actual encounter.

Sex and Sextrology

The mind of each man is shaped by his hormones, and as a woman, you have to be aware of the fact that a male bonds to a female through emotions, while a female bonds to a male through physical contact. This means that for him, having sex does not mean he will automatically bond with you emotionally. Sex is just sex for men, and it doesn't have to mean anything if he doesn't feel something in his heart before this happens.

This is why so many women make the mistake of starting "friends with benefits" types of non-committed relationships, which consequently lead to many unpleasant situations and often heartbreaks. Just remember, he has to fight for your time and attention first to be able to respect you and therefore fall in love with you.

When your relationship is emotionally committed and he has shown you his devotion and all the essential qualities you seek in a good man, then it's time to reward him... and reward yourself.

Your sexual encounter might happen at his or your place, but you need to be aware of some basic things. If he is coming to your home, then keep your living space clean and tidy. Refrain from lighting candles all around, as you might have been advised in popular magazines. Your passion could be sky high, and who knows where your bodies will end up — knocking over those candles, burning the bed sheets and so on. Keep it safe and forget about the open flames.

Men don't care about the "romantic atmosphere" at all, but they love to watch women's bodies for sure. Look, I know, we all have different types of bodies, and we, women, are full of hidden little fears. Men don't care about the fact that you don't the perfect body of a model, you are a bit overweight, or too skinny, or wrinkled, perhaps you have some scars. They do not care about those things at all. All they want is a woman who is hot, feels sexy, acts with desire, and loves her own body. If you are looking for a magic formula to transform you into a queen of all pleasure, I just gave you the main ingredients.

However, as I said, men love to watch the action. So, as hard as it may be for you, especially in the beginning, try to leave some lights on in the room or have a discreet lamp at the side of your bed.

Speaking of the bed, it should be easily accessible from three sides and filled with several smaller pillows. Trust me, you will use those pillows for different positions. Also, if your passion glides you down the bed and you end up on the floor, some of those pillows can be used to protect your knees and elbows.

The nightstand should ideally have at least one drawer where you can keep a few condoms. Don't keep them out, and don't keep a huge number of them in the drawer because he might think that you use those items regularly with many other men. On the top of nightstand, you could keep baby oil or massage oil, but keep in mind that men are hairy, and when you massage your man, it shouldn't feel like hair pulling, but rather like gentle and exotic caressing.

A few words of caution here. Don't put the oil or Vaseline on condoms because this can cause them to break, and always, I mean always, use condoms. They are made for protection, and their functions are to prevent you from getting pregnant and both of you from contracting sexually transmitted diseases. In today's world, condoms are a must, and if he claims to have a latex allergy, you might offer him a non-latex condom.

Otherwise, my honest advice is to refuse to have sex with him and let him find another girl who would be willing to risk her future for one night of pleasure.

The next thing you should have in mind is your hidden "weapons." Pop culture tries to convince us that long, sharp nails and lots of jewelry look sexy in bed, which is far from the truth. Your nails should never be too long, too pointy, or too sharp because they can be deadly for both of you in the midst of the action. The same goes for all sorts of bracelets, earrings, or rings. Take everything off and be safe.

For those in committed relationships and marriages, I have to say that you need to free your life from all other non-essential activities and keep yourself relaxed and ready for sex with your man. Don't forget that your man is the most important person in your life, and if quality sex is something he needs regularly, then you should keep him "well fed." Organize your life in such a way that you minimize the time you spend at home cleaning or doing any other physical tasks and concentrate on bedroom pleasures. This will do you good, too!

How much or how often are relative terms, really. For some people, this is a few times a year, a month, a week, a day. However, as a woman of taste and talents, you should strive to keep your sexual life fresh and exciting. So, if your usual routine is three times a week, then you can surprise him one afternoon in the kitchen, the next time in the garage, and the third time in the hallway. Don't just stick to the bed or to one position. Instead of using your creative talents to decorate a cake, try to use them to decorate your intimate life, and your man will be thrilled with you forever.

And remember, if your man is working hard to provide for you and protect you, then you should keep him nourished and satisfied. No one and nothing else should interrupt or ruin your sacred and intimate moments with him.

Pisces Man Sexually

The Pisces man is an exceptionally sensitive being. Again, the rulers of the sign of Pisces are Jupiter and Neptune, and everything related to Pisces and those two planets has to be mystical, sensual, and in a constant state of flow, especially since the planet Venus rules the area of sex and transformation for Pisces, and this area is placed in the sign of Libra. In Pisces, Jupiter rules the feet, and in Libra, Venus rules the lower stomach and lower back as the lord of the eighth house, so you can imagine how much attention to those areas, and also sexy talk and "massage," means to him.

Don't forget, your voice should be sensual, deep, and relaxing, and keep in mind that your Pisces guy loves the "audio" part of sexual intimacy, as well as other senses. Your perfume, body lotion, or the smell of your sweat will have the power to tame this Fish, and with the proper scent, you will be able to make him want you more.

He needs a long, sensual introduction, but the juicier and more surprising you can be with him, the more rewards you will get later on because Pisces is known for long-lasting, sensual, and unusual performances.

Aquarius Woman Sexually

Here's an interesting astrological fact about the Aquarius woman: her natural house of sex and transformation falls in the sign of Virgo, which is governed by the planet Mercury. This means her intimate life could be very versatile depending on the position of her natal Mercury. In any case, she will be very open to experimenting with oriental or unusual techniques, toys, or even several partners at the same time.

On the other side, her natural house of love falls in the sign of Gemini, which is also governed by the planet Mercury. This means that she closely relates her emotional and her intimate life, and she expects them to work in sync. Most importantly, she needs to be intellectually understood by her partner to be able to feel physical attraction.

The Aquarius woman is often perceived as someone who is rather shallow with her feelings and perhaps too experienced when it comes to intimate pleasures. However, this is far from the truth; this woman has very high standards when it comes to love and intimate bonding, and when those standards are met, she will perform beyond anyone's imagination.

Pisces Man/Aquarius Woman Sexually

The real quality of sexual experiences between the Pisces man and the Aquarius woman will depend on the positions of their natal Mars and Venus. The planet Mars is the achiever, the real source of sexual drive and action, while Venus will indicate the best ways to pleasure and be pleased.

For the Pisces/Aquarius couple, the chances for experiencing compatible pleasure are very high, as his natural house of sex is placed in the sign of Libra, and this is the sign of higher knowledge and inspiration for Aquarius.

And the planets governing their sexual pleasures—Mercury in the case of the Aquarius woman and Venus for the Pisces man—will ensure that their performances will be variable, passionate, emotional, and sensual. The Aquarius woman should take care of her appearance and remember that her man loves a feminine—and a bit traditional—type of woman. In time, her Fish will show her his surprising and exceptional ways of lovemaking.

Marriage with the Pisces Man

In astrology and also in life, marriage is seen as somewhat separate from pure romance, and this is why the house of love and the house of marriage differ in the astrological charts. In many cultures, marriages are still arranged by astrologers, relatives, or matchmakers — and don't be fooled by the term "arranged" because those unions can last much longer and be much more harmonious than marriages based on love alone.

Marriage is like funding a company with two business partners, growing it and profiting in the form of children and properties. Heightened feelings like "falling in love" can be present, but they are not obligatory. Creating love that will be a lasting feeling of devotion and sharing the same or similar values is what a good marriage is made of.

If you are a grown-up girl, please forget about fairy tales and their endings with their cliché: "...and they lived happily ever after." Life is not about "happily ever after" because we are all born here on this planet to gain new experiences and to learn karmic lessons.

You know, the planet Saturn, an exceptionally important but also challenging planet, exalts (or is strongest) in the sign of Libra, the natural house of marriage in the horoscope. This is because it can be fairly easy to live as a lonely monk at the top of the mountain, meditate, and feel close to the One. But try to be close to the One while you're making dinner for your husband, while the baby is crying, the other child is making a mess, and your boss is calling you because he needs that report very urgently.

This is the whole glory of the marriage and “down-to-Earth” obligations. If you can perform your daily duties and still feel close to the One, then you are a truly fulfilled spiritual being. In the same manner, true and lasting love based upon mutual respect and understanding is built between two partners.

Pisces Man in Marriage

His house of marriage is placed in the sign of Virgo, and this means that he expects his wife to be very organized, to be kind, to keep up a proper appearance, and to be emotionally attached and logical when it comes to raising children and maintaining assets. The tangible things they create together in marriage, like assets and progeny, are not a high priority for this man, but he will unconsciously look for someone who can offer something he doesn't have, like strong will and determination—someone who can handle “real life” better than he does.

Aquarius Woman in Marriage

Her natural house of marriage falls in the sign of Leo, and she needs to be completely mesmerized by her partner. Due to the fact that the Sun governs her house of marriage, but the Sun is always placed in the house of her personality, she will unconsciously seek a partner who mirrors her inner world. Her husband needs to be someone just like her but stronger, better, and more successful, and this dream might mislead her many times before she finds the one who is truly destined for her.

Pisces Man/Aquarius Woman Marriage

This union can function well if both partners are willing and able to adjust to each other's needs and visions for the future—and put in the effort. She may feel challenged in regard to his entrepreneurial skills and try to improve their finances using his personality for her own financial goals. He will give her enough space to spice up their relationship, but she will have to be aware that the Pisces man doesn't like a rebellious wife at home. If she can prioritize their marriage and be feminine and logical, this bond can last for a lifetime.

Sugaring the Pisces Man

Let's be honest with this one. I don't have anything against sugaring if this is your chosen path. For those who don't know exactly what I'm talking about, "sugaring" is the form of romantic relationship where a sugar daddy or a sugar mama takes care of a sugar baby. In most cases, this relationship involves a sugar daddy, a successful and affluent man who takes financial care of his girlfriend, the sugar baby. She may or may not be much younger than him, but she is surely in a worse financial situation.

Also, it's in the core of every woman, in her biology, to seek a man who will take good care of her, and therefore, he will take good care of her (and his) future children. There is nothing to be ashamed of when someone calls you a "gold-digger" because leveling up your appearance, your education, and your skills in order to have a great life with a successful man is a very positive and surely not negative trait.

Don't forget that every girl wants to be married or in a committed relationship with a loving, responsible, dedicated, and, yes, prosperous guy. And no matter what negative comments you might hear from irresponsible and unsuccessful guys who just want to use you for a while, you should stick to your plan to build a happy and carefree future. And this rule applies to all the smart ladies, not just sugar babies.

The smart sugar babies use the money they receive from their partners to invest in their education, savings accounts, business startups, or even properties. And not-so-smart sugar babies invest this money solely into designer bags, shoes and clothes, beauty treatments and so on. If you are a sugar baby, be a smart baby and think about your future. You are with him mainly for financial reasons, so try to educate yourself in business matters, and that way you'll end up an affluent woman yourself.

The main goal of each sugar baby is to marry a rich guy and never have to worry about tomorrow, but there are several categories of rich guys, and you should be aware of their differences. There are the "new rich" men, the guys who made their fortune fast and now they are looking for trophy girls to hang out with for a little while. Those guys will offer you frequent travel and lots of gifts, but you will never be sure how long they will be interested in you.

The "old money" type of guys won't be as receptive to sugaring relationships at all, and if your goal is to break into this world, you will have to play on the cards of your education, uniqueness, and genuine gentleness. Your chances will be small, but it's not impossible.

The "big" guys or extremely rich guys are accessible, but the general trouble with them is that they are usually married and don't want to risk their marital reputation and huge amounts of money for divorce settlements just because you appeared in their lives. If you achieve a sugaring type of deal with the big player, then keep in mind that you'll be treated like a side mistress, and in those cases, as a sugar baby, you should invest the money he gives you wisely and also use his social connections to get to other affluent men and maybe find an appropriate husband one day.

Let's take a look at the best tactics you can use in this particular case.

Pisces Man as a Sugar Daddy

Pisces men are very shy sugar daddies. They love to act like they are unimpressed by luxury, but this same luxury becomes an integral part of their lives, and excellence and beauty are also necessary ingredients to their successful upscaling. At the same time, each Pisces guy will be aware that things are not always as they seem, and deep down inside he'll know the real value of each item or person he "possesses." On the other side, he will dream and work on building his own kingdom, loving the idea that he will be filthy rich one day. Having a shrewd and beautiful girl at his side will match up with those plans perfectly.

Aquarius Woman as a Sugar Baby

The Aquarius woman possesses the qualities of an unusual and carefree person at first glance, and these qualities can translate into her being seen as somewhat hard to get in men's eyes. This is nothing negative, I must say, because this "hard to get" attitude will, in most cases, inspire men to fight for her time and emotions harder than they would for any other woman. However, the Aquarius woman shouldn't talk too much, and she should limit her "lecturing"—she must learn how to listen more in order to influence her sugar daddy better. Once she enters into this world of luxury and power, she will have to learn the hard rules of the game of power, and when she does, she will be able to create a strong platform on which to create her own business.

She needs to recognize that she is prone to becoming very annoyed by having to act submissively much of the time, and she must keep in mind that men are not stupid, especially rich and successful men; they might sense this rebellious spirit in her and discard her immediately.

Sugaring Pisces Man When You Are an Aquarius Woman

Being with a rich daddy is very tempting in terms of material security for any Aquarius lady. However, these two astrological signs don't match up so well in terms of sugaring. And the most important factor that can make or break their relationship is their need for power.

The Aquarius woman is not a perfect model sugar baby, and she knows that. Her inner need to express her personal thoughts about everything, such as her anger with the existing political or economic systems, for example, might lead her astray from achieving a great life filled with travels, lack of worry when it comes to paying the bills, and, of course, launching her own business venture. Even if she understands everything material support can give her, in addition to having a loving man by her side, she could still carry on with her own "revolutionary" habits.

However, in time and with a little practice, she will learn how to adapt and focus on the major goal in front of her. But the real danger for an Aquarius woman here is the fact that she will be so tempted to fight for power. She may not be able to resist, and in that case, she will stick her nose into his business deals and networks. And instead of using those connections to build her own network of associates, she might make the mistake of preaching her own convictions.

Just remember, your goal as an Aquarius sugar baby is to ensure your financial situation, to finish your education, or to start your own business, and someone has to pay for it. With that in mind, you should treat your sugar daddy with respect, like you would do with any man who loves you and respects your needs. There is nothing wrong with a man paying your bills, but at the very least, you should give him your gratitude in return. You should dress up and level up your looks to match up to his expectations. Your skirts shouldn't be too short, and your whole appearance must radiate elegance and refinement.

In the beginning stages of your relationship with your sugar daddy, try to be more active and choose your words carefully while you are texting. Your first meeting has to be in a public place so you can get to know him better, and this first date should take the form of a shorter (two hours max) friendly talk. If he insists, he can take you on a dinner date, but you will have to let him invite you first.

Also, he might test you to see where your little flaws are when it comes to manners, but remember: once a lady, always a lady. Behave with class even if he is a jerk. You don't have to stay with him or make the arrangement; all you have to do is be polite and walk away if things don't seem right.

During the second date, you should discuss the terms of your arrangement but in a very feminine way. Sugar daddies are excellent negotiators, and if he refuses to clearly state the ways and the amounts he is willing to pay for you, then he is plainly a fraud, and you will, again, politely walk away.

If you determine you are dealing with a true sugar daddy, you will state that you will need some weekly or monthly funds for your leveling-up and beauty treatments, and also that you need some time to get to know him better before you become intimate. In this way, he will attach to you emotionally, and you will secure him from running away the moment he gets you into bed.

Be a smart girl; don't squander all the money you are receiving from him on clothes, shoes, or nails. The general rule is to spend around thirty percent of your allowances on those things, including your living expenses, and to leave the rest in a savings, educational, or business fund.

As an Aquarius woman, you should add a pinch of your innate superior intelligence, sense of goodness, and perfect appearance into the life of your Pisces sugar daddy, but you should be careful not to overdo it. He will love you for your energy and beauty, but please keep in mind, he will leave you the moment you start acting like a self-proclaimed prophet or you show flaws when it comes to your manners.

Relationship Problems with the Pisces Man

There are two main reasons for relationship problems in general. Either it's him, or it's you. If he creates those problems, then this means that he might be interested in someone new, he wasn't so into you right from the start, or he has to deal with the other situations in his life, like challenging career issues, his family, friends, or monetary matters. On the other side, if you are the reason, then it's clear, for him at least, that he has other expectations regarding your relationship and he's not getting the right behavior or response from you.

You have to be aware of the fact that no matter what sign your partner is, his natal chart will reveal if he is prone to cheating or instability when it comes to relationships. If in his astrological chart he has tension between his natal Venus and Uranus, Neptune, or Saturn, this will mean that you'll have to accept him as he is — a cheating, emotionally unavailable, or cold man — or you will simply have to move on and find your happiness elsewhere.

During my private readings when I'm dealing with compatibility issues and forecasts, I usually look first at those challenging planetary aspects in the chart and also whether a couple's mutual aspects produce the same or similar situations. For instance, a man can be an obvious cheater if his natal Venus is in a tense (a square) aspect with his natal Neptune.

This means that he won't be able to resist temptation, and for some ladies, that is fine because as long as she holds the special emotional place in his life, or better still, she is his wife, he is free to sleep with anyone else. For other ladies, this is a serious crime. So, a private and precise reading can reveal important traits in him and in your relationship, too.

One of my clients, let's call her Sally (not her real name), had a history of long and frustrating experiences with all sorts of unavailable, immature, disappearing and reappearing types of guys until we first met. My personal consultation revealed to her that she had been looking for love in all the wrong places and that when the time is right, and I gave her the exact time frame, she should be there, doing this... And she should be open to a very honest, hard-working, and successful man. And so it was.

Later on, she called me to thank me because during that first meeting with this man she felt bored, but she still remembered my advice and gave him a chance. And thank heavens, she is now happily married, with children, and living a luxurious life.

But let's get back to our relationships problems. There are players, and there are the real players.

Even if the man is in his "player phase" of life, which means that he still thinks he's not ready for anything serious, you still have the power to create a strong attraction and to bond him to you for a lifetime, but this also means that your natal charts have to match well, and you must learn how to act properly from the beginning.

Bad signs usually include his lack of communication for a few days, the way he treats or mistreats you — like going cold, humiliating you, or perhaps insulting you (or, for heaven's sake, hitting or beating you) — or playing games, like disappearing for some time and then reappearing all of a sudden and wanting to meet you straight away, or worse, wanting you to come to his place in the next hour.

All those issues have their root cause in the very early stages of your bonding. You have to be clear inside yourself what kind of man you are looking for. If you dream about his, let's say, big blue eyes, wide shoulders, tattoos, or designer shoes or clothes, you are heading straight toward a relationship nightmare.

However, if you are looking for a dependable type of guy, someone with a pure heart, big brain, and yes, big balls, then the outcome of your future will be so much better. As a woman, you are the one to set the rules for your relationship, and the only thing you have to be is yourself, a valuable, happy woman. Improving yourself is far more important than trying to patch a broken relationship once you both realize things are not advancing. Show yourself in the best light, but be your best for yourself first, and then he will be able to respect you and, consequently, love you.

If you set the rules right from the start and make it clear that he must put in some effort to get to you, but he has an enjoyable time while he is with you, then you'll earn his respect. Also, don't cope with the things you don't like; be clear but nice and polite expressing the ways you want to be treated. This will either make him leave very fast because he'll see that you are not an easy woman, or he will try to meet your standards. In either case, you won't waste your time with the wrong man.

How to Improve Your Relationship with the Pisces Man

The universal "cure-all" is to keep yourself busy, get a life, and find your own joy! If you were a man, wouldn't you feel great fear of a woman who is chasing you, who is needy, who creates drama all the time, and who is not able to organize her life without you?

You see, men will appreciate, respect, and eventually love the women who are perceived as rewards. And to be a “reward” in his mind or a valuable woman in his life, you will have to gain some skills, not just level-up your appearance, although that counts, too. So, you will take care of your good looks and healthy habits when it comes to nutrition, exercise, and sleep.

Then you will prove yourself as a capable woman while you are working. And it really doesn't matter whether you work in a corporative environment, sell vegetables at a farmers market, or make cakes in your own home. Whatever you do, you will do it with knowledge, skill, and passion. These are just basic things you need to do to organize your life and start valuing yourself more so others can value you more, too.

The next thing you must do is the real leveling-up. As you would start choosing your clothes, bags, or shoes to make you look more elegant, you must choose your friends and activities in the same manner. Remember, the information we receive and the people we associate with determine our future. Pull back slowly from the people who are just stealing your time and energy and don't have anything new to offer you.

Engage in some uplifting activities such as dance classes, martial arts, cooking, acting, continuing education, hiking, cycling, or joining the local church choir — anything that comes to your mind that will bring new and quality people into your life. You will surely become friends with those people while you are learning something new together. And let's be honest, some great, good, and even rich men can be met during those kinds of activities.

As a woman, as your sister, I have to recommend dance classes for several reasons. First of all, dance is the essence of each woman. It heals all, it lifts your mood, and it shapes your mind. Secondly, dancers always dress nice, they have their hair and makeup done, and their shoes and accessories are cute and glittery.

It's not just the fact that the man wants to dance with the woman; he wants to rest his eyes on something beautiful, and dancing ladies know this fact for sure. Thirdly, your body and overall health will be better. And the most important thing, while the music lasts, for those few minutes, you will be able to sense the man you are dancing with like you are married to him.

The more men you dance with, the more easily you will be able to collect information and gain knowledge about them — just like you would if you were married to them all. And this will give you a whole new perspective about life and love. Also, it will keep you busy.

So what was that problem you had with your man, again? He doesn't call or text for days? Your remedy is to get busy and start something new. When he senses that you are not dependent on him anymore, either he will start to fight for your time and attention, or he will leave. If he leaves you, you should know that this was his plan in the first place, and now you have so many new options and new men who could be better for your future.

If he eventually calls and asks what is going on with you, in a polite but firm way, tell him that you won't commit to someone who is not reliable or trustworthy, and don't elaborate on this subject further. Then he will either correct his actions or, yes, disappear, opening the space for you to meet someone who will be much more reliable after all.

He won't commit? There is a general rule when it comes to men (and I mean men, not boys). When a man is in a relationship, it usually takes him about one year to propose you. This can range from six months up to two years, but in this time frame, you should get the ring.

I have so many desperate clients who are repeating the same story, so please don't be one of them. All those wonderful but naive ladies spend several years of their lives investing their time and emotions with men who are just not "sure" where the relationship is going. And as a rule, after five, six, or more years, these guys leave them, only to get married a few months down the road to some new girl.

Please don't make such a mistake. If he doesn't know "where things are going" or is he "not ready for something serious," then you must translate those words to mean, "you are very nice, but I'm not in love with you, and until I find the woman of my dreams, I will be with you because I can get free sex, friendship, attention, and food."

Don't wait for him to leave you; tell him in simple but always feminine style that you want to get married, and if he still needs some time to "think" about it, he will have all the time in the world when you are dating someone new. In many cases, this is the fastest way to make him commit because he will realize his loss after all.

You don't know what's in his head, or you can't make him "open up"? In this case, I have to be very honest with you. There is nothing else inside the head of a man that you can't see outside from his behavior. Men are simple creatures. If he sticks with you, treats you fine, and you can rely on him, then he is in love, and that's it. There are no complicated philosophies behind his actions, and his actions tell you everything you need to know regarding your relationship. His actions, not his words.

However, if your relationship is advancing well — which doesn't mean that he fulfills every wish you have, but he respects you, and you share similar values regarding your mutual future, and he also tries to build a kingdom just for you and your future family — then everything is perfect. If you still have the time to ask yourself what's in his head, then you have too much time at your disposal. Read the above advice on how to get yourself busy and become a woman of great value, and this will help you to forget those types of questions.

He hits or beats you? What!? Run, darling, as far as you can from him. A real man would never harm a woman, never. If a woman acts bitchy or hurts him, he will then leave her, but he will never ever hit her. Truth to be told, in my opinion, ladies are to blame for those experiences. A strong-minded, emotionally stable woman would never bond with an aggressive guy, especially one who is aggressive toward women but acts like a coward with men.

These things happen to emotionally weak women who are frequently a good match for tyrants. The first hit will never be the last, no matter what he promises after he knocks you out or breaks your ribs, and you should know that you are responsible for your safety and safety of your children.

Pisces Man Breakup

The Pisces man will leave you only if he has fallen madly in love with someone else, which means he wasn't truly in love with you in the first place. However, those situations are rare, and you can expect these types of experiences to happen when he is in his younger years. In his more mature stages, he will leave if he perceives you as someone who is destructive or you treat him with no respect at all.

If he is the one who is left, he will be very hurt for a long time. However, he will always remember this episode in his life as a great lesson and do everything he can to avoid repeating it. It will take him a substantial time to recover, and he will always carry this painful episode deep in his heart.

Aquarius Woman Breakup

The natural house of love for the Aquarius girl falls in the sign of Gemini. This position creates her need for variety and playfulness. She longs for a partner who can thrill her with his adventurous spirit, wide range of knowledge, great verbal skills, and childlike sense of joy. If this is lacking, she will leave first and fast, but she will always feel like her dreams have been betrayed. If she is the one who is left behind, she will tend to create all sorts of drama or hold on to negative emotions for too long. And until she gets her justice, at least in the form of a public proclamation about the whole issue, she won't be able to move on.

In the case of her marriage, because her spouse is characterized through the sign of Leo, she will feel betrayed and will have no tangible reason to keep her marriage going if her husband fails to be the ultimate ruler or to be devoted to their mutual goals.

Pisces Man and Aquarius Woman Breakup

Their separation can be anything but peaceful. The danger present here is the fact that she will create a great mess, mostly because she will sense that her finances and properties are at great risk, while he will try to keep everything private, fearing for his reputation and his heart the most. Fighting over assets, mostly properties and children, will plague their divorce if they were married. She will tend to engage the public in this process, and he might never fully recover, especially in the financial sense.

A word of advice here: try to be rational and peaceful, and you will end the relationship in the best possible way. If this includes official divorce proceedings, a business-like approach will secure you enough assets.

2021 Astrology Predictions

Pisces Man

The planet Neptune will still reside in Pisces' own sign during this whole year and for some time to come, and this will increase his desire to dream. He will be more susceptible to addictions or delusional thinking.

Although he will have to suddenly wake up and recognize some issues surrounding his home, family life, or career during the whole of January and February, he will try to avoid any type of confrontation or resolution for his urgent problems.

March and April will find him still struggling over those issues, but this will also be the time for an increase in incomes and a new romance, though the relationship is unlikely to be a happy one.

May and June will again unearth previous issues, and he will likely move or start making plans to do so.

June and September will be the best months for love, but due to the presence of the planet Neptune in his own sign, he will be in love with the idea of love more than the person, or he will fall for some unattainable fantasy figure. When it comes to real relationships, he will truly be confused, and in many cases, he will subconsciously ruin any chance of achieving stability and honesty.

The autumn months will be marked by stillness and keeping a low profile, but then he will be challenged in the area of his career during November and December.

An authority figure will force him to reckon with past misdeeds, and the results will most likely be very disappointing.

In general terms, the most changes will take place in his home, regarding his parents or property, and his career. And everything else will simply be too overwhelming for him, so he will try to pull back from all complicated scenarios.

Aquarius Woman

This year will be all about you, whether you want this or not.

The planets Jupiter and Saturn in your own sign will bless you with many glorious ideas, tremendous discipline, and perseverance. You may become more mature in your looks, but also more beautiful.

The very beginning of the year will create all sorts of chaos regarding your home, properties, legal issues, and even some troubles with parents, especially your mother.

In the same time frame, you will fall or be in love with someone totally unusual, and this romance has equal chances of surviving or failing during the storms of yearly planetary dynamism.

A major warning is in order regarding your home or properties or your mother figure, and this is due to negative Uranus's effects. You should thoroughly check the electricity in your home, especially the kitchen, and you should remind your mother or mother figure to seek regular medical check-ups because her heart or neurology could encounter some issues.

Everything will become stable and a bit more peaceful around April, but late May and the upcoming solar eclipse will bring you sudden changes in your love life or something urgent related to your children.

June will find you obsessed with work.

For the whole of July and August, you will be focused on your marriage if you are married, or on some sort of business deal if not. This energy will drain you; you will first feel stimulated, then annoyed, then exhausted.

Many disputes are foreseen between you and your romantic or business partner this summer, and things could be a bit more complicated in August with the same person or people, but over financial issues this time.

October will finally bring you some inspiration and a renewal of energy, and you will seek some type of additional education. You will be determined and reach your goal.

November and December will be marked with some complications regarding your career, and you might find that people don't value your ideas and views as much as you desire. The same energies will project on your love life, too.

Last, but not least, I will share with you most frequent questions my clients asked about Pisces men as well as the specific answers for each of these.

Prepare to unfold the mystery around your Pisces man's world and reveal secrets about him you won't be able to find elsewhere.

Attracting a Pisces Man

I'm sure you've seen plenty of other articles on how to attract a Pisces man. However, there may be a few things that you aren't aware of that may surprise you when it comes to this tender hearted guy. Keep reading on some really helpful thoughts on how to draw in the Pisces man.

Be Loud and Proud

Ok you really don't have to be loud but definitely let the Pisces guy know you like him. How is he ever going to know if you don't speak up? They aren't the type of men that chase women.

There are some few Pisces type guys that may be a little different but most of them tend to only want to be with women who have let them know they are interested in him.

He will be more inclined to look at you and talk to you more if you let him know you would like to get to know him more or find him really appealing. In fact, he may be a bit oblivious until you say something.

There is also a chance that if you've known him for awhile but never actually let him know you have a thing for him but you suddenly do, he may admit that he always thought you were cute but never said anything.

He wants to pursue a woman that he knows will be receptive to him. In this way he's much like a Taurus man. He doesn't want to waste time or energy without knowing for sure that a woman digs him.

Don't be afraid to be bold and hit on him. Tell him you think he's cute, has great style, or that in some way he appeals to you. He'll be really happy you did and if he feels the same about you, he'll certainly let you know

Pisces man isn't one to beat around the bush so if you tell him "I like you", if he feels like you do, he will tell you "I like you too". From there, things should take off quite well.

Although there may still be a shy Pisces man who is afraid to ask you out so go ahead and take some initiative. Ask him to go have a coffee or ice cream with you. Make it something out in public and something that would allow you two to talk.

I will warn you that if you suggest "Netflix and Chill", he may take that to mean that you're into being friends with benefits and probably isn't the best thing to suggest if you want more. Be very clear!

Appeal to His Ability to Dream

When you get to sit down and talk to a Pisces, ask him what his dreams and goals are in life. He'll be all too happy to tell you and it's likely he'll ask you about your own.

The Pisces man likely has lots of dreams and life desires to talk about with you but he will want a woman who has some of her own and some that can be shared together as a couple for the future.

When you talk about things you fantasize doing in the future, he'll love it! Talk about your successes with him as he loves a woman who is driven in what she does.

At some point when he's excited enough about you, you'll notice that he starts to include you in future plans. Then you know you've landed this guy. Pay attention because it's really important to notice when he starts integrating you into his life.

It will be even better if you're the type to actually take steps toward your goal and inspire him to do the same. Hearing a woman talk about her dreams versus a woman who goes after hers will impress him.

He wants a partner that will inspire him to live his dreams and make it a reality. He has the ability to do it but he lacks grounding and fortitude. The right woman will help push him in the right direction.

Independently Romantic

I know it sounds like a weird combination but stick with me for a minute. Pisces men are incredibly romantic and will respond well to a woman who is also this way.

Try to sweep him off his feet with poems, songs, or saying romantic things to him. Sending him text messages or messages via social media that are sweet, thoughtful, and considerate will get his attention.

When I bring up independent, I mean that you have to play the game. Romance the heck out of him but also make sure you're not always available for him. Pisces men can be rather strange at times.

He loves spending time with the woman he's into but he also likes to have solitude time as well. That being said, it's a great idea to romance him and get him into you but make sure you have other things going on too.

I don't mean date around. What I mean by not being available is by making some plans with him but also making plans of your own that do not involve him. You can do this with friends, co-workers, or even family.

Even if you want to spend time totally alone then do that. Schedule it. When he wants to have all your time, be sure you don't allow him to. This IS the part where he will chase.

If he suggests going out in the upcoming weekend tell him yes. The next weekend, be sure you have plans with other friends or whomever you want to spend time with. This way he knows you have a life outside of him.

This independence will turn him on and make him want to hound you to spend more time with him. Keep this up for as long as you can until the two of you are deeply in love and in a relationship.

When A Pisces Man Is Into You

Are you just drooling over a Pisces man who you cannot stop thinking about? He's always nice to you but is that just who he is or is he actually into you? Keep reading for some easy things to look for to determine signs a Pisces man is into you.

Bubbly and Attentive

Whether it's in person or on the phone; if the Pisces man likes you; he'll likely be very flirty and bubbly. He'll want to ask you a lot of questions about yourself and attempt to make you feel comfortable with him.

He'll likely throw you lots of compliments and try to make you blush. This is his way of letting you know that he perhaps wants to be more than just friends. When it's just the friend zone; you'll find him a little more reserved.

Pisces man is a flirt but he won't let it go too far with someone he's not actually interested in being something more with. Of course if he's trying to have sex with you without strings attached, he'll probably try to go for that.

That being the case; he'll probably let you know upfront what he's after. However; when he likes you authentically; he'll make it very well known and will make sure you feel the connection with him.

This isn't the type of guy that will play hard to get. So if you find you've hit a brick wall, he's only into friendship. If he lets you in and wants to get closer; he wants more than friendship.

Very Youthful When Around You

This guy gets so excited to see you that he can rather come off as a teenage boy who has butterflies in his stomach. It's actually very endearing when you see it because you probably haven't seen this since high school.

I mentioned before that he's bubbly and hyper when he's around you if he likes you. Again, if he only wants to be friends; he will be low key and not all that jazzed. He'll be just like he is with any other friend really.

He may make silly jokes, poke at your ribs, or pull on your hair a little. Not to hurt you but to act like that boy who likes you type of thing. It's like a trip through memory lane of when boys didn't properly know how to express their like.

He can but he just get so giddy that it's hard for him to compose himself and act like a regular man who has an interest in a beautiful woman. He'll get past the nervousness though and will start being more flirty in an adult way.

When you see him make a goof of himself; know that it's because he's nervous out of the like he feels for you. This is a good thing. It's an indicator that he isn't leaving you in the friend zone.

Talks About His Dreams and Desires

While Pisces men may talk to their friends about the type of future they want; they will not be as descriptive as they can be. With friends he only lets them in so much then figures they don't need to know more.

If he is into you; he's going to start opening up to you and talking about what he wants out of life with greater detail. He basically wants to tell you what he wants so that you can chime in with what you want.

He also wants you to know what you're in for if you keep going forward with him. Dreaming is VERY important to the Pisces man and he'd like a woman that will dream and grow with him in life.

So when he starts talking about what all he wants to do in his life; you should probably go ahead and share some of what you want with yours. This will help a bond start to form between you.

As a friend, he will limit the conversation if he brings it up at all really. If he's opening up to you, he's definitely feeling things for you and you should totally go for it!

Aggressive Flirts

When a Pisces man really wants to be with you, his flirting will come across a bit more sexual but somehow instead of finding it dirty; you'll find him irresistible and this is how he's able to ensure that you understand what he wants.

When he does this; you'll need to let him know that you're not into just sleeping around. That way he doesn't get the impression you're alright with "friends with benefits" as that typically goes nowhere.

If you're still into him after that conversation; flirt back with him. If he only wants to be friends with you; he will let you know. He isn't going to play games or mislead you.

In the case that he hasn't been really clear; simply ask him what he's after and he'll likely be very honest. If he tells you that he likes you and wants to get to know you better; go with that.

Clearly if he tells you he only wants to get to know you and occasionally have sex then he's not after a relationship. You will need to decide what you want with him. Do you want a friends with benefit situation or do you want more?

Don't settle for what he's offering if it isn't a relationship that you want. If you do settle; you'll end up hurt later on when he has sex with you and then finds someone else to move on with. Be very careful!

Pisces is pretty clear on whether he wants to be friends or if he's really into. He will take the time and show you that he's interested in who you are and what type of situation you two could work for.

Understanding a Pisces Man

What is it about that Pisces man that has so many women confused? He reads so hot and then sometimes very cold. Why does he act the way he does? Keep reading for some help to understanding a Pisces man.

Head in The Clouds

The Pisces man is known for being quite a proficient dreamer. This means he spends a great deal of time spacing off and day dreaming about what he wants, what he thinks he can get, and where he wants to be.

This can cause conflict in a relationship because he'll seem cold, distant, callous, or uncaring when he's like this. He doesn't mean to be this way but he has to have time and space to do this otherwise he won't feel normal.

He may space off texts or phone calls because his head is somewhere else. He may not be trying to ignore you but it sure seems that way when you know he's at home on a Friday night not doing much yet doesn't respond.

This is what makes women start to doubt their Pisces man's love for them. It's understandable but if you really get to know him, then you'll understand that he can be a bit of a space case.

If you know he loves you and he otherwise treats you like gold, then try to remember that when you feel he's being distant or not giving you enough attention.

Dreams allow him to toss around great ideas that can become goals. When he makes goals, he'll eventually act on these goals then become successful. There is a process with this guy.

Then again, there are other times where he'll waste all this time fantasizing and never does anything about it. This is often why he needs a partner that will help motivate or inspire him to take some action.

Tug of War with Love

The Pisces man is one that seems rather confusing when he loves you one minute then at other times acts terrified of where things are headed. He may talk about the future with you but then back peddle.

He could be all in and then at some point says that he needs to slow down because he feels overwhelmed with his feelings. This really makes him quite frustrating and yes, hard to understand.

The only thing that gets him over the hurdle is by the right partner showing him that she's there for him and loves him truly over a period time. Each Pisces man will be different as to how long it will take him.

Patience and tender loving care is required. Though he may annoy you or even hurt your feelings when he expresses concerns, all you can really do is reassure him as best as you can and wait for his worries to pass.

If he's truly in love with you and knows that you'll do just about anything for him, he will at some point let go of that fear that paralyzes him when it comes to long lasting love.

His Heart is on his Sleeve

This guy is for the most part very honest with his feelings when he feels something. If he's in love with you, he will make it known that he feels that way. Either he'll say it or he'll show you.

What's frustrating is when he has doubts and tries to talk to you about it. You feel like he's backing out, not interested anymore, or wants to leave. The thing is, he's just talking to you.

Communication is really crucial when it comes to relating to a Pisces man. He wants to be able to tell his partner everything. That includes when he feels doubt or anxiety. If he cannot talk to you, who can he talk to?

You've got to be really careful because if he ever feels he cannot talk to you and be honest, he'll move on. You want him to feel totally comfortable with talking to you openly.

It may be hard to hear when he says he's afraid but it's better than him ghosting you and not telling you anything right? I'd say it's better to hear the truth even if it hurts.

Loner at the Core

This is truly confusing because when a Pisces man is in love, he wants to spend a lot of time with his lady. However, until he gets there, he tends to spend copious amounts of time alone. He's a bit of a loner or hermit.

He prefers not having to talk or explain how he feels or what he thinks to the world. He feels misunderstood by most and is why he keeps to himself. This makes it hard when someone wants to date him.

However, when he feels safe and comfortable with his potential partner, he will start to open up and so once he does that, he's typically a bit more outgoing. He won't be that way with the world but he will be this way with his lady love.

In fact, he may have a hard time with highly social women because he doesn't like going out all that often. He prefers the comfort of his home or his lady's home. That isn't to say he never goes out.

He will but will take convincing him why he should. That in itself can be rather perplexing. If you're a super social lady, you're going to have the Pisces man's feet dragging.

He also may not understand it when you keep taking off to do stuff when he doesn't want to go. He feels like if you still go when he doesn't want to, that you don't respect his feelings.

I'm not saying that's always the case but it often is. You really have to get to know your Pisces man as much as you can and with time, he will become less and less of a mystery. He will not be quite as aggravating by his behaviors once you "get" him.

Does Pisces Man like to Be Chased or Do They Do the Chasing?

You're finding that you're really interested in a Pisces man but aren't sure what to do. Should you chase him or let him come after you? What's the right thing to do? Does Pisces man like to be chased? Keep reading for more information that may help you.

Pisces Man's Preference

To be really honest about this, Pisces man isn't much of a chaser. It's a rare occasion that he will do so. Basically it boils down to the fact that he wants to be sure that someone wants him before he'll bust any moves.

In reality, he'd prefer the woman to initiate contact or conversation. He doesn't even mind her asking him out. By doing this, he's sure that she's actually into him so he's not wasting his energy.

Pisces man is a dreamer as I've mentioned in other articles. He isn't one to give up his time or efforts unless he knows that the woman he digs is also digging on him. He's much like some of the other signs that won't bother.

Pisces man is a lover and romancer. That is true. However, he isn't going to throw this at someone whom he thinks may not be into what he's trying to do. He doesn't like rejection.

To avoid rejection, he will avoid chasing women. I'm not saying he won't flirt but I am saying, he won't go after someone unless they show signs that he's actually going to be successful in his pursuit.

The Twist

So now that you understand why he doesn't tend to chase after someone, let me now look at the other side of this. Does he want to be chased then? The answer is surprisingly no.

While he wants woman to be forward with what she wants with him, that's where she should leave it. He wants to be able to decide what he wants and he wants the woman that digs him to allow him to do so.

I know he sounds incredibly picky right? The thing is, he's a free spirit and so he wants things to develop at a natural pace. Where he doesn't want to chase anyone, he doesn't want anyone chasing after him either.

The way he sees it, if he chases, it means that she is playing hard to get or that she's just not really interested. The reason he doesn't want anyone chasing him is because then it makes him feel like he's being stalked.

What he wants is a healthy union that is brought about by both he and his lady that will make it very clear that they are a good match and should work on building something special.

Yes, he will absolutely be thrilled if a woman tells him "hey, I think you're really neat and I'd like to get to know you better". He will respond and he will agree that's a great idea.

Texting, What's Right and Wrong?

If you're someone who enjoys texting or have met a Pisces man through a social media site/dating site, you may only have access to this form of communication until he gives you his number or calls you.

When this is the case, you'll want to be nice and easy. Don't pressure him or demand that you two meet. If you do, he'll immediately see this as chasing or stalking which will make him stop responding to you.

What you do is flirt with him, slowly share things about yourself that you think he should know and for goodness sake, if he doesn't respond right away, don't shoot him another text immediately.

Give him some time. He may be busy or he may be thinking about what you said and not sure what to respond with yet. Don't panic. Let him figure things out and when he wants to, he'll get back to you.

Pressuring him is just as good as chasing and he won't like that. Be very careful. Remember, he's looking for a woman that will be his best friend and partner all rolled into one.

How do you do that? Show him why you would be his best friend. Talk to him like you'd talk to any friend that you're trying to get to know better. I'd leave sex talk out of it because if you talk to him about sex, he's going to take advantage.

He loves dirty talk and will probably use it as a masturbatory aid next time he needs a sexual fix. He won't take you seriously though. He'll see you as a toy who is chasing him.

Make your texts light, fun, and draw him in by what your heart has to offer. Don't dive into relationship talk, don't talk about sex, and don't be pushy. Give him time to respond.

How to let him know you are interested

It's very simple actually. Flirt with him but do it in a sweet and kind way. Leave sexuality out of it or he'll only consider you a toy or a friend with benefits. You definitely do not want that when trying to win his heart.

Do not show signs of chasing him or pressuring him. Do not expect him to chase after you either. If you decide to stop texting him because you're not getting what you want, it won't help you.

He won't be the one that comes back after you when you ignore him. He will assume you're not into him anymore and he'll move on. Chasing doesn't work with this guy.

Hopefully this helps you figure out how to best approach getting to know a Pisces man better and letting him know you like him without any pressure or stress. Realize that a natural old school way is actually better.

What I mean by that is let him know you like him but then allow the courting process happen. Let it be a very natural experience for you both. He'll love it!

How to Tell If a Pisces Man Is Falling in Love with You

Are you smitten with a certain Pisces guy but not sure if he's into you or if he's just being a nice guy? Could he be falling in love with you? Keep reading for information on what you can expect getting involved with a Pisces man.

Stops the World for You

If you've ever heard the song "I'll stop the world and melt with you" then you get the gist of what I'm about to tell you. This song IS the Pisces man in love.

When he cancels his plans, revolves his new plans around you, and makes sure that he's able to spend plenty of quality time with you; he's stuck to you like glue and likely in love.

He's a very physical type of guy as well so don't be surprised when he whisks you up and takes you into the bedroom to work his magic. He's very gifted and talented in the bedroom.

He will especially be spectacular in that area with age. When he's in his younger 20's he's not as experienced but the older he gets, the more amazing he becomes and takes more aim to please; especially for the woman he loves.

The Pisces man in love will want to spend all his free time with the woman he's in love with. When you see this or feel this then you know he's in love with you.

If he isn't acting quite like this or is just really nice when he's around you; he may not be in love with you or may even just want to remain friends. Time sacrifice is the dead giveaway.

In the event he's not making time for you or making you a priority then he may not be in love with you. With time that could change but typically this guy is pretty intuitive with who he finds interest in.

It will become clear relatively quickly if he's only into you for sex or friendship. Yes, Pisces men can and do have casual sex when or if the opportunity presents itself.

Not all Pisces men are loose though. Some actually want to preserve their talents in the bedroom and with their heart for the RIGHT woman. It all depends on their rising or moon sign as to which way they swing.

In Over His Head

There are cases where Pisces man thinks he's in love only to realize months later that he's made a mistake at which time he'll either end it or he'll start cheating with someone else.

Whether or not he cheats will rely heavily on which type of Pisces he is. Is he the promiscuous type or the type that wants to wait for the right one.

Sometimes it takes for him to meet someone else better suited for him to realize the one he's with isn't the right one.

This is an unfortunate thing but it can happen with Pisces. He really is dreamy and loves to love therefore it's quite simple for him to fall hard for someone before he actually should.

In some cases; it ends up working out and the couple live happily ever after. With that said, just keep your eyes open for red flags if you think that maybe he's not being loyal to you.

When he's having indecision or issues going on; you'll be able to tell by his actions. He'll pull back, maybe get cold, or he may just tell you that he has things going on and isn't ready to talk about it.

Again, I'm not saying that you're out of luck if this is going on. It just depends on what specifically he has going on in his head. When he's in love though; you won't have these types of things to worry about.

Any time deviated away from you will be a red flag. If he spends more time with you then away from you; he's in love with you.

Dependable and Loyal

I mentioned before about the different types of Pisces men. The Pisces man that is 100% certain he's in love will always be around when you need him, will be there for you, and will not flake out.

If he tells you he's going to help you; he will. If he makes plans with you; he will be there unless he gets ill or some other problem arises otherwise you should expect him to do what he said or be where he said he would be.

The Pisces man in love will typically be loyal. Afterall; the woman he's in love with is the greatest woman alive. This is literally what he thinks when he's in love. If you find yourself being treated like a princess; he's in love.

He will do anything he can for you as long as it makes you happy or helps make your life easier. Just as he'll be there for you; he'll also depend on you to help lift him up.

He will open up to you and ask for your advice. He really actually cares about what you think, what you feel, and what your opinion is on whatever problem it is he's trying to solve.

Many men don't pull that off easily but Pisces man is not afraid to make his woman his best friend. This is when you know he's yours and that you have him for the long haul.

Everything To You

Since you are everything to the Pisces man; he'll always make sure to show you that you're everything to him if he's in love with you. He'll be whatever you need him to be.

He'll be the shoulder for you to cry on, the man that makes you feel like a queen, the man that is always there when you need him, and the man you can call when problems arise.

He'll also be very protective over you. Your safety and security is something that he's always going to be concerned with. If you find him obsessing or insisting about it; he's smitten with you.

What He Is Really like in Bed

Is the Pisces man a real treat in the bedroom or is he a deflated air mattress that leaves something to be desired? If you're dating a Pisces man or are considering having sex with a Pisces man, you might want to keep reading for some useful knowledge on what he's really like.

At The Start He's Shy and Reserved

If you haven't had sex with the Pisces man yet but plan to, you'll notice that he starts out rather like an inexperienced teenager. He doesn't mean to but he's nervous at the beginning because he wants everything to be right.

He will be sensual, soft, and gentle typically. He doesn't want to scare you off or make you think he's a sexual deviant. This makes him take it easy and wants to show you a very pleasurable time.

However, he does get nervous and can fumble a little bit in the beginning. This also means he prefers to have a lover who is already sexually experienced so that he doesn't have to work so hard to impress.

In other words, if he's working with an inexperienced woman, he will be even more nervous as to not mess things up. He wants it to be a magical experience for his partner as well as for himself.

Even if you've been dating him for awhile and have been putting off the sex part of your bonding, he'll be twitchy at the beginning. He's likely to be and fantastic kisser and snuggler though. He loves affection and loves giving it as well.

He loves holding hands and showing displays of affection. So this part is likely not an issue between you but when you're ready to take the next step, just be aware he'll be nervous and have a tendency to show it.

Bust A Move

When you're with a Pisces man and he hasn't tried to be intimate with you, he may be trying to figure out if you want to or are ready yourself. This means you may have to make the first move.

He does love women who are bold and don't mind going for what they want. It's impressive and inspiring to him. Reach in and kiss him and rub his thigh with your hand. Let him know that you want him.

You can even verbally tell him that you want him. In fact, you can do that via text as well ahead of time so that when you two are together again, he knows that you are up for a bit of play time with him.

Give him ideas but let him come up with some himself. He's quite imaginative and you'd be surprised the things he thinks of that end up being quite erotic and sensual for you both to enjoy.

Just be sure that you're not fearful to get in there and get things started. He'll appreciate the fact that he doesn't have to guess anymore what you want or where you are in the grand scheme of things regarding sex with him.

Flirt like crazy with him and he'll surely start getting the message. You can also tell him flat out that you're ready to take the next step in the bedroom with him. That way he'll start planning and trying to organize when this will happen with you two.

He'll go out of his way to be romantic and sensual to impress you and make you feel comfortable with him. He wants it to be a truly memorable experience for you both especially if he's falling in love with you.

Creativity and Imagination Required

To have an amazing rumble between the sheets with a Pisces man, you've got to understand that he's someone who will definitely be more fantasy oriented. Not that you have to do role play but that may be something to think about later on.

He's going to want to try fun and adventurous ways of having sex but he'll only do what you are comfortable with. He also likes to be "the man" in the bedroom. His object is to please you and feel confident in how he's doing it.

Feedback and telling him what he is doing right will make him feel pretty darned manly. It's an excellent way to nudge him in the right direction too. Perhaps if he's doing something you like but could be better, you could push him a little more toward where you like it.

He won't be offended. In fact, he'll be pleased that you're letting him know exactly what feels right and what brings you the most pleasure. He wants to know he's giving you everything you deserve and need.

He will want you to be accepting and understanding of his ideas or desires. I'm not saying you have to try everything he wants to do but at least be open to what he may suggest. You can tell him what you're comfortable with and what you're not into.

That way you two will know where the boundaries are and where you can go wild together. You can also make suggestions of your own as far as your own desires and fantasies. He wants to know and wants to hear them.

That can be part of your foreplay actually. Tell him what you'd like to try or what you're into. He'll get quite turned on thinking about what he can do to make that happen and make you feel he's all you could ever want.

The Closer You Get, The Better The Sex

While Pisces man may be capable of a one night stand or a fling, he mostly wants a sexual relationship with someone he can totally fall in love with. He's emotionally tied to sex most of the time.

That means that he really wants to love or be in love with the person he shares his intimacy with. The closer you become to him, the more likely the spectacular the sex will be with him.

Give him a chance to show you the moon and more with his romantic and sexy ways.

The Right Way to Love a Pisces Man

If you're a woman completely lost in a Pisces man's eyes, you may want to read this. Do you know what you can do to get him to love you? Keep reading for tips on how to love a Pisces man so that he'll want to be with you for the long haul.

Be Yourself At All Times!

One thing that some women do not realize is that a Pisces man is very empathetic so he can see straight through to your soul. If you are fake or inauthentic, he will see it. He doesn't like plastic women.

If you want him to fall in love with you and make him yours, you're going to have to be yourself. He'd rather fall in love with a unique woman who has a mind of her own than for someone who wants to be like other women.

Rather than trying to be someone you think he wants, be yourself and let him fall in love with the real you. He wants to see your inner beauty and all the love you possess in your heart.

Be your sweet romantic self and he won't be able to help himself. Honestly he wants his soul mate and someone he can spiritually relate to or even dream with about the future.

Naturally if you're not like what I've described, you might have a hard time but all is not lost. Be yourself even if you aren't unique or creative. In some way, he'll appreciate you being YOU.

This also means you need to be honest with him all the time. If you lie, he'll know and he won't take kindly to it. He'd rather take the truth even if it's not pleasant than to be lied to.

Best Friendship Ever!

What this means is that Pisces man wants a woman who will not only be his lady but will also be his very best friend on the planet. He wants to be able to tell you everything and for you to be his rock.

He wants a woman who will always come to him when she wants to discuss what is going on in her daily life as well. Being able to rely on each other is a bond that is unbreakable and that is what Pisces man seeks out in a woman.

This may be difficult for some ladies that cling to their female best friends or have had lifelong best friendships. Just look at it as that they are your best girlfriends and he's your VERY best friend because he's closer to you.

He's going to be the one you want to turn to when everything is crazy or when you have some amazing news to share. Naturally if it's about him then you can by all means, call up your best girlfriend.

Just keep this in mind because the woman that melts the Pisces man's heart is going to be the one that wants to be the closest person to him in his life and be his best friend in life.

Make Your Move

Pisces men can sometimes come across as shy but really they're waiting for you to actually reach out and declare what you want with him. If you're feeling deep things for him, tell him!

I bet he won't be too surprised but even if he is, he'll be thrilled. Unless he's really not into you, you should get a sweet or romantic response from him. He's really a nice guy most of the time.

Let him know what you're feeling for him and tell him what you'd like to come from it. He should tell you right then and there if he wants it too or if he feels it's not the right connection.

You won't know though unless you give it a try. He'll appreciate the risk and the candor that you've approached him with. It saves him the stress of trying to talk to you about it.

Often times, Pisces man is waiting for you to bust the first move. In the bedroom, that's different as he likes to take the lead to give you pleasure. When it comes to love and getting closer though, he'll love you making a move.

Show Him Your Heart

To melt a Pisces man's heart, you've got to show him yours. You can do this via creative means. Try artwork, poetry, songs, paintings, or giving him gifts of the heart. He will think you're the sweetest woman ever.

When a Pisces man feels this way about you, he's going to fall in love with you. He wants a woman who is romantic, passionate, creative, and someone he can day dream with about what the future could bring.

Once he sees your heart, he will not be able to help himself from falling for you. He's a sucker for women who are bleeding hearts, humanitarians, or women who live to love other people.

If you love animals, show him and tell him why you love them so much. His heart will be warmed instantly. Tell him why you're so passionate about helping people with their troubles. He will melt right then and there.

As long as you're showing him who you truly are and being authentic as I mentioned before, you should see some incredible gestures from your Pisces guy. Romance is a trigger for him so go for it!

If you know what types of things he really likes, you can gift him with special surprises. Like if he really digs music, gift him with the latest CD by his favorite group, a t-shirt, or poster. He'll be floored by your sweet gesture.

You can also cook him his favorite meal or dessert. If you're not gifted in the kitchen, it's not an end all be all. You can still order out or pick something up that will make him feel special. That's all that matters is making him feel special.

If you follow these tips, he'll be putty in your hands!

5 "Unwritten Rules" of How To Treat a Pisces Man

Are you totally crazy about a sensual Pisces man? Is he just too delicious for you to pass over? What can you do to get him and keep him? Keep reading to get some useful tips on how to treat a Pisces man so that he's fulfilled with you.

Comfort Zone Is A Must

The Pisces man needs a relationship that he feels comfortable and this may take some time to cultivate. Have patience with him and understand that until he feels ready, don't try to push him to open up and rush the relationship.

While he may seem like he's up for diving in because you initiated it, it still doesn't mean that you two shouldn't take it nice and easy. If you hurry things, he'll at some point realize it's too fast and he'll back peddle

Unless you're willing to deal with the consequences of what happens if you move too fast then you probably should calm down. He's not going to go anywhere if he's into you.

He'll still be with just you unless he says he wants to keep an "open" relationship. Usually Pisces man is looking for his one and only soul mate so he's not that interested in juggling women.

However, when he's young, he may still want to play until he's ready to get serious. Either way, if you express you want a relationship and he's feeling you, he will be with just you even if things move slowly.

In fact, it would be to your benefit to make sure that you two don't move too fast. Take your time, enjoy the time you spend together, and let love develop naturally. This will make him feel VERY comfortable with you.

Be Supportive and Optimistic

The Pisces man is a dreamer and one of the things he needs is a support system. He wants you to be his best friend and lover. This means being there for him and being his own personal cheerleader in life.

He may not have all the willpower it takes to actually make his dreams come true but if you're someone who can inspire him to, he needs your help. He may not admit it but truly, you could make his life so much better.

Give him all the support he needs to chase after his dreams and start taking steps to bring them into reality. They may be dreams that you two share together and are able to build a beautiful future together.

Show him by example how it's done if you can. Take your own career or desires into grips and make them become something of a successful track. He'll really be inspired by what you can do.

This will make him also want to take the action that is necessary to jump on the train and head in the right direction that makes his life truly fulfilling. It's even possible for you two to go into business together and be successful as well.

Give Him Breathing Room

Pisces guy may not always tell you when he needs some space. Just remember, he's highly empathetic and sometimes very psychic. This means that he picks up on other people's energy which can mess with his own.

He needs a bit of space and alone time to recharge and renew himself as a person. He has to ground himself and let go of what the day brought his way. This may mean spending some time without you.

If you get to know him, you'll get to know his moods and you'll pretty much know when you need to back off and give him some space. His moods do tend to flip flop and some Pisces men have a tendency to deal with bi-polar situations or depression.

This is why as a partner, it's important you pay attention to his needs. While you may provide him great comfort and support, you still need to allow him to mull things over and decompress alone. A little time goes a long way.

Initiate When It's Needed

Sometimes Pisces men can be rather indecisive or just are so oblivious they just don't realize what is going on. This may mean you need to take charge and make sure things get into motion.

This includes when you want to date him. You've got to go ahead and tell him as much otherwise he may not act on it or will not notice you've got a thing for him. Even if he's attracted to you, he often doesn't say anything until you do.

Also valid, is when a decision needs to be made as far as where you two will eat for dinner, where you will go on vacation, or what to do on your date. You may need to plan it out and then tell him that you two are going.

I wouldn't do this too often though as he would see you as pushy. Just do it when you know something needs to happen and he hasn't made a move yet. Go ahead and make that move. He's worth the risk!

Soft, Romantic, and Loving

When you love a Pisces man or are at least like him, you need to show him as much. Compliment him, touch him, and make him feel what you're feeling for him. He can since he's an empath.

The thing is; he can ignore it if he isn't sure how you feel about him. I mentioned initiating in the last step but to further it, you've got to show him lots of tender loving care.

He wants a woman who will give him lots of affection and understanding for whatever he may be going through at the time. He needs someone he can rely on. Always be yourself and truthful.

Loving a Pisces man isn't for the weak. You've got to be strong and yet very compassionate, loving, and willing to show him how much you deeply care for him for always.

When a Pisces Man Ignores You This Is What You Can Do

When a Pisces man ignores you, it can feel like a tiny dagger has thrust through your heart. You know he must be pretty upset if he's not talking to you. What can you do? Keep reading to learn what you can do when a Pisces man ignores you.

Be More Positive

Pisces men are super sensitive and don't like negative energy of any kind. They don't like it when women gossip, talk badly about others, and they sure don't like being nagged.

If you've done something that falls into this category, you're going to have to do some work for him to see that you're trying to be more positive. Try catching yourself when you're about to say something negative and reverse it.

Try to be upbeat and optimistic around him or through your text messages even. However you normally communicate with him, say inspiring and positive things. He's more likely to respond to you.

Pisces men are dreamers which mean they don't like anything that would crush his dreams or his hopes about life. Being negative around him makes him feel like you don't take his passion and love seriously.

If your Pisces guy is upset with you and is the reason he's ignoring you, you'll need to flip around and be super sweet to him. Compliment him, say nice things about other people, and just generally be really optimistic.

Really this is good for your life anyway and sometimes it takes a sensitive Pisces man to put you on hold to make you think about your own actions that needs to be remedied.

When He's Hurt or Angry

If your Pisces man is either very angry with you or hurt, it's going to require a bit of work. First, he's going to want some time and space to sort his heart out. He may want to think about why he's with you.

What you'll need to do is let him know that you are sorry if you hurt him without thinking or made him angry when it wasn't right. You apologize and tell him you won't do it again.

Then you tell him that when he's ready to talk to you, that you're there for him. Give him some time. I'd say that the time frame you have to wait will rely on how bad it really was.

It may be days then again it may be weeks. Sometimes Pisces men break up with women due to being so overwhelmed but then a year or two later, he's ready to give it another shot.

You never can tell which direction he's going to swing because it's all based on what he feels. However, if you apologize for what happened and tell him you're working on it and won't do it again, he may come around sooner.

If you do not apologize, he will hold it against you and it may be a good long while before he talks to you again. Then when you do reach out to him, he may tell you off or just not ever reply again.

It all depends on how bad it was and how much time he feels he needs. Just be sure to admit your fault (if it was your fault) and let him know that you're there for him.

When he is ignoring Communication

This is where things take a turn that you probably will not appreciate. Pisces men do tend to ghost people if they decide that their partner isn't the right one. This would mean he ignores your texts or doesn't call you back.

I wouldn't wait for too long while this is going on. If you gone a week or two without him responding to you, he may not be into you anymore or thinks that he's done.

What you'll do is test him to see what the deal is. Text him and tell him "I really deserve to know what is going on between us, can you please give me clarity?" and see if he responds.

If he doesn't respond then you're going to have to consider that he may not be into the relationship anymore. If he does reply, you'll quickly see which way he is swinging.

He may tell you he's been busy, been thinking about things, or that he thinks that it's just not what he wants at the time. Either way, you're going to get some sort of answer whether he texts back or ignores it.

I hate to say it but once Pisces man decides to move on, he does so. He may move on with someone else or he may just move on from the woman he feels it's not working with.

There isn't much you can do when he acts this way other than ask him why he isn't speaking with you. Be forward with it and see if he answers or if he continues to be quiet.

Possibly Dealing With Personal Stuff

There is also the possibility that the Pisces man is going through some things that he doesn't really feel ready to open up to you about thus he pulls a disappearing act or ignores you for short intervals.

He doesn't always know the right thing to say when he feels uncomfortable or uncertain. If something is happening in his family or he has extra work. Perhaps his job is giving him trouble.

He won't open up until he feels he can trust his partner 100%. Sometimes he doesn't want to burden his partner with his problems either so he'll hold back by being very quiet.

He may not even be upset with you at all. If he suddenly started this ignoring you thing out of absolutely nowhere then something is going on with him so you shouldn't assume it's about your relationship.

Give him some time and let him know you're there for him when or if he wants to discuss things. If it IS outer circumstances, he'll thank you and will open up when he's ready.

Is Your Pisces Man Using You? Signs to Look for If He's Playing You

So you've gotten involved with a Pisces man but something doesn't feel right. You aren't sure what it is but you wonder if he's playing you or if there is something else you need to know about. Here are some things you can look for in order to determine what may be going on.

Illusive Answers

If your Pisces guy tends to leave out details when you've asked him what he's been up to; he is either feeling he doesn't have to answer to you or he knows he's being dishonest.

Pisces men have the ability to tell white lies and omit information like no one's business. They especially do this when they're seeing someone that they're not that serious about.

If he tells you he went to hang out with a friend but leaves out certain aspects of what he was going; he may have been meeting a female friend who is actually a bit more than a friend.

Do you see how this works? "I went to see my friend and we hung out playing video games" but what he isn't saying is "I went to hang out with my female friend and we started with video games but ended up having sex".

I'm not saying all Pisces men are liars and cheaters. What I am saying though is that if he's not that serious about you; he feels he doesn't have to answer to you therefore he'll omit the truth of the situation as to not rock the boat.

Why do that if he isn't into you? That's the real question that I'm not sure I have the answer for. If he's still "playing" with you then he may not yet be ready to give that up while he's playing with others.

He should just let you go if that's what his intention is but Pisces is always looking for his true soul mate and until he finds her; he'll keep looking elsewhere in order to make sure he's not missing anything.

Very Convincing

If you've been around your Pisces man enough; you know he has a way with words that can convince anyone of anything. This includes making you think he's telling you the truth when he's actually being deceptive.

Start looking for the things that give him away. Use the Scorpio tactic of looking him in the eye. If he isn't being honest; he won't be able to keep his gaze on your eyes; he'll look away.

Body movement is a good indicator also. If he shifts uncomfortably then you know he's probably not being forthcoming or truthful in whatever it is that he's telling you.

He's so good at telling lies or bending the truth that he's become very comfortable with himself. However; there is always a way to catch someone in a lie and he's no different.

Eye and body shifts while he's telling you what he was doing or what he's going to do will reveal to you if he's being honest or if he's playing you. While he is an expert at convincing people of anything; he is flawed.

Now that you know; start asking him questions and see how he physically responds. You'll get right to the truth and he won't be able to hide as easily. Naturally he's likely to deny it if you call him out so don't be surprised if he does.

Flaky Behavior

When a Pisces man isn't committed and is using you; he'll flake out quite often. If he has plans with you and calls you to tell you he cannot make it or wants to change the dates; he's up to something.

Sometimes he may legitimately have something come up and needs to change but when you see he's doing it often; you know something is going on and it's time to perhaps put your foot down.

Ask him why he keeps flaking out on you. He'll probably try to give you a story but again; watch his behavior as he talks. You'll be able to tell if he's being honest or is giving you total crap.

A flaky man is a man that isn't invested. He could be seeing other people and breaking plans with you to go see them. If not then he's being selfish and taking time to himself after he promised it to you.

Time to himself is important but he should never cancel plans in order to do this. He should take the time he needs or wants on days he hasn't already promised to get together with you.

Constant pulling out on plans is something that indicates that he's not serious about you and you may want to consider moving on to find someone who won't flak out on you.

Head Games

Pisces is an expert game player. He knows all the right things to say to get into your life or into your pants. Be very careful. All his other actions need to line up with what he says otherwise you have no reason to believe him.

When a Pisces man is in love; he'll want to be with you as often as possible. If you've met a Pisces man who says all the right things but doesn't put the action behind it; you've got yourself a player who doesn't care about your feelings.

Look at the overall picture and start piecing together those red flags. When you do; you'll realize that though he's a smooth talker; he's fallible and you can calculate if he's playing you or not.

Watch for everything I've mentioned here and you should be able to tell rather quickly whether your Pisces man is actually into you and trying to commit or if he's talking himself up for something he won't ever deliver.

Most Pisces men are looking for their one and only so they don't do a whole lot of playing. However; some of them are out there and are looking to have "fun" until they find the one.

Frequently Asked Question for Pisces Man

1.His behavior is so confusing. He keeps sending me mixed signals. Should I give him more time or move on?

Question: He is giving me mixed signals and his behavior is confusing for years now. My question is should I continue to be with him or walk away? Do I need to give him more time to get it together and acknowledge me or just move on? Why is that so hard to attain with him now that he finally has me?

Anna Kovach: You have to understand that Pisces man is all about duality. And this duality shows in any aspect in his life. Yes, he can be awoken at night and focus on his work in that time frame, and behave sleepy and disinterested during the day time.

Also, this sign is notoriously known for their total focus on the things they love and the total lack of interest of anything else. They can become famous for some scientific or artistic accomplishments, and yet unable to safely cross the street, simply because daily obligations don't hold their attention.

If this man is in a relationship with you for so many years, as you say he is, then this means only one thing – he truly loves you. Now, you can accept him for what he is, with all of his little flaws and also, accept the fact that his mood is changeable. He might forget some important dates, to introduce you to his family or close friends, or any other thing. But at the same time, you have to understand that his mind is free-flowing and some things which mean a lot to you, don't bother him at all.

You should think seriously what is more important to you personally, his established habits or your desires of how you want your ideal relationship to look like. Some women don't have any issue at all when a man behaves confusing because they value his devotion and faithfulness more. And there are some women who would give up on a good man, just to have socially accepted type of relationship.

You have to make the decision what is more important for you, because he will always behave like a real Pisces and the main Piscean theme is getting lost in a deep and very personal space, where social norms don't play any role at all.

2. Suddenly he doesn't seem as interested as he was before. What does he actually want?

Question: The first months we met he seemed interested and I wanted to take it slow... Now seems like tables are turned. He's taking it slow... If I text him he responds after a while.

Shall I ask him if he'd like me as girlfriend or remain as a friend?

Anna Kovach: Yes indeed, Pisces can be moody and give confronting and confusing signals. And they do it all the time. But let's be honest. If a Pisces man is strongly attracted he will still give confusing signals, but he will surely be around and he will make himself noticeable.

In this case, no, this didn't happen. And so many times I had to convince my dear ladies that those things are usual between people. Many men get interested and soon after lose their interest. This is nothing new under heavens.

Your only task as a woman in those initial stages is to slow him down and test him will he stay. If he doesn't – fine, you haven't wasted your precious time and now you will be free to finally meet the man who is destined for you. If he does – it's fine again, because he is the one.

Don't take romances so personally and more importantly, don't give your body and heart too fast before any man deserved it.

As far as texting goes and the whole communication with men, I have to tell you one utmost important fact – do not initiate romantic conversation, don't text first, do not answer right away, except in the case of high emergency, but what can be so urgent if you are not a doctor or a policeman, and don't explain your feelings (based on your own illusions and projections) to any man before you have established and truly committed relationship.

This rule has just one exception and this is when a man has his natal Venus placed in the sign of Aries. And this shows that he will be conquered by a woman. In any other situation, you are the woman, he has to fight for your time and attention, and your goal is to fulfill your life with many activities which are creating the joy and passion, so you can show as the high-value woman and awaken the urge in men to chase you.

And not the other way around.

3. We have been texting each other for four months now. How do I know if he's serious about this?

Question: We have not met in person yet and as a matter of fact we just started getting to know one another back in March of this year and have been pretty inseparable since then with the occasional ups and downs (the downs being quite extreme on his part as he is extremely sensitive and emotional).

We spend all day and night talking and it would be hard for anyone on the outside looking in to even think there is a 5 hour time difference because we just make it work for one another. He has trouble saying what level he is committed to me but does tell me he loves me and shows me by small and big acts of affection.

When I have brought up where do we stand it has resulted in arguments over him feeling I don't understand his actions show how serious he is vs. a title or him saying he is committed to me and only me. I do have my doubts.

I would like to know if he is really serious about this connection, meeting me when the travel ban is over and potentially having a future with me here in the States.

Anna Kovach: I have to tell you some things very seriously and I hope you won't get me wrong, but it happened to you, and it happens to so many women, and sometimes I just sit and ask myself how do we get so easily trapped, not by men, but our own ideas?

He belongs to the sign of Pisces and I could write you my answer in the form of a lengthy essay how Pisces in general don't know where they stand and what they think. However, right now, I don't think this is the case at all.

Please, look at this from a different perspective. You don't have a committed relationship, and for that sake, you don't have a "real" relationship at all. You and this man are just communicating through social media or video chats. And as far as things are going everything seems fine. But I also must point at one huge mistake you could be creating with him.

Yes, on one side you have to maintain consistent contacts with him, but on the other side, you must keep the time you spend together limited. This shouldn't be done just because I am cruel and want to keep you away from your pleasure, but because men are like children. They want everything and right away. Your task as a woman is to slow him down, and to give him the "teaspoon amounts" of yourself, so he could build up the desire to need more and more of you.

The thing you are doing, women do all the time, and this causes that famous hot and then cold reaction in males. Too much of the good thing, is simply not good, and it leads to his pulling back. So, my first advice for you will be to limit your online meetings for two hours the most and leave him wanting you more. Don't be rude to him or strict right away, just excuse yourself with some urgent tasks and that will do the trick.

And now, to give you the answer, but looking back at my words above – you need to occupy yourself throughout the day with some other tasks so that 1. you start growing and developing in many ways, and 2. you don't become too focused just on one man or on solely your happy or unhappy romantic life. So, find some new things to study, to make profit from, or new people to widen your social or friendly circles.

As far as this "relationship" goes, you are two people who can become a devoted couple and I sincerely hope this will happen, but... There is always that but, isn't it? You have to become more realistic. You are the two lonely people who are just talking and yes, understanding each other nicely... for now. You haven't actually started the relationship, you haven't been physically close, and I don't mean sex, but the real physical presence, you don't know how he smells, how he moves, how he flows. And yet, you are building some castles in the air, questioning yourself will he cross the ocean to live with me, perhaps we will have two children, no three, and a dog, golden retriever, well maybe a hamster, and then we will get that loan for the house and then...

No, please. I hate to say this, but "your" Pisces man is way more realistic than you are. Right now, this is not a romantic relationship. It could become one, and I hope it will be very soon, but don't try to grab him before the time is proper, because he will run away. Relax until the actual meeting happens at last.

4. My Pisces man started flirting with other women, but says it's just for fun. Will things go back to normal?

Question: Hi Anna, My guy is a Pisces, and I'm a libra women..we met five years ago through a online matrimonial site. He was the most romantic man I ever met. He was so into me.. he loved me like crazy. We got married one year after we met and we also have 2 kids.

However, things started getting worse, we fight often and have many misunderstandings. He thinks I don't understand him or his needs hence started flirting with other ladies. The intimate relationship between us is reducing. He seems to have lost the love and trust in me.

His flirting with other women get on my nerve and im very possessive about him. I cought him many times flirting with other ladies and when I ask him he says it's just for fun or just for massage sake. He is not serious or into others. He hates it when I check his personal email or message which leads to fight most of the time. His addiction to pub G game and giving lesser attention to me make me feel bad.

He feels I don't understand him or his needs or what he communicates.

He has this neutral expression all the time, that I can't guess what mood he is in ... I am not able to fully understand him.

Anna Kovach: I have to tell you that those things happen all the time, and girls should be raised with the knowledge that getting married doesn't mean that "they lived happily ever after", but that the real life started, meaning lots of financial issues to solve, children and parents to take care of and huge amounts of daily obligations.

However, I completely understand what you are talking about, and the recent and the current planetary transits (July 2020) had caused you many troubles, simultaneously for both of your Sun signs. Let me assure you that things will radically change around the beginning of the next year and you should start the way more harmonious phase in your marriage.

On the other side, planets will echo good and bad ideas, thoughts and events all the time, and you should try to talk to your spouse and get some serious agreements about your future actions. If you can achieve this, then the next "bad" planetary aspect won't affect your family so hard and you will know what to do exactly.

5. My Pisces Crush admitted he had feelings for me too. However, now he is going through a heartbreak and isn't expressing anything to me. I would really wait for him, but should I do that?

Question: Hi Anna, I don't know why it's happening like whoever I love they eventually leave me. Currently I'm single and not able to find one. If you can help will be great.

I met my special man during my first job. We were in the same training class back. Soon we became friends. I started liking him and he liked me back. But nothing happened.

Later on when he shifted to USA I confessed my feelings and he said he too had feelings but now he is already in relationship and going through a heartbreak.

I said I will wait for him until he feels the same. He always said that he liked me but due to long distance he couldn't commit. And still the same is going on.

I really love him but he seems to like me as well but he is not doing anything about it.

Anna Kovach: You simply can't say "I will wait for you until you feel so". This is not allowed to you, and please carve it into your mind.

The only two situations you are allowed to say this sentence is when you are married, and your husband has to go, either to fight during the war, or to go to work somewhere far away and you both are not capable to move together at once. There is no other situation which will ever let those words cross over your lips.

And I will tell you why straight away. Your husband is someone who has all the legal and financial obligations around you, and your future children, and by becoming your husband, he has to prove to you first that you are so valuable to be his wife.

As far as this particular young man goes now, be grateful because he didn't cross, fraud or lie to you and he simply disappeared from your life. Now, you are in love with a dream, simply observing his life while losing your own. And as soon as possible you realize you are just wasting your time and the best years of your life on the plain waiting, the better it will be.

Also, I will reveal one very important secret. You are being left and hurt, not just because you are unlucky, under the bad spell or something similar, but because you are a low-value woman. And men are notorious sensing those types of women straight away, and they generally tend to avoid or use them for a short time.

Have in mind that the quality men love, adore and marry high-quality women, so your job now is to become one. Learn how to love and protect your interests first, invest your time and incomes in your own education, fun and improvements, and after you do that, you will become irresistible for men, because they will have to fight for the portion of your time and attention just to get closer to you. And this strategy will surely lead you toward success.

6. I met this career-oriented Pisces man and went crazy for him. He doesn't want affairs or love to distract his mind, how can I stay with him?

Question: Hi, Me and my man met in a hospital. He's a doctor that was treating my mom when she had a surgery. After that we stayed in touch and we met twice.

We became close, but after that he just went completely cold.

He was not contacting me, unless I text him or call him. He is a career oriented guy. He don't want to distract his mind with love and affairs.

He wants everything but he has his huge control on himself. I want him to be with me for a life-long without distracting or spoiling his career.

Anna Kovach: You have to understand that we are not talking about “your man”, “your relationship”, or your projections regarding the future of this relationship, because there is no relationship to start with.

You have met someone, dated him for a few times and you became “close” twice. This term “close” can be translated as we kissed, or we hugged, or we had sexual experience. This last option is the worst of them all because in that case, you have lost the battle for this “relationship” fast by giving him your body too soon.

However, he pulled back, he doesn’t show any interest, and he doesn’t pursue you and what do you expect to happen next to realize he is not interested at all?

The only advice I can give you is to let go and see will he reach out for you. If he doesn’t, then move on. Live your own life the fullest and the man who is destined for you appear eventually.

7. My Pisces man is very busy with his job. He never calls first, or gives me his time, but says he loves me. I can’t argue with him and don’t want to pressure him. What should I do?

Question: How can a Pisces man tell me that he loves me but can’t give his time? He’s always busy with work but anytime I put status, he will be among the first people to view it. I’m always the first person to communicate in the morning and if I don’t, no chat for the day. We barely communicate in the evening...

No calls, everything, I ask for something, I always get a negative response ‘Baby, I’m at work, maybe later’ and that’s the end. He said he likes selfies, sexy ones. Whenever I sent any, we end up having a good conversation that day.

What kind of love is that?

Anytime I ask for us to improve in the communication, he begs and tells me that his work is so demanding and that's why he's not always available even in the weekends, even on a Sunday.... What kind of job is that?

It's getting to the second month in this relationship.

Even though he tells that he loves me, I have considered myself to be alone in that relationship.

Have been pissed off ever since but just keeping calm and praying.

I can't pressure him, I can't talk back at him, I can't shout at him.

Anna Kovach: You can leave him, though.

No one and nothing is preventing you from leaving, but it seems to me that you are deliberately doing anything else than to face the truth. And what's worse, you will spend the best years of your life in frustration leading you toward illness, but you won't change your response?

I don't understand why do you keep calm? There is nothing to be calm about, and there are so many annoying things that are pointing right in the direction that he doesn't appreciate or respect you. And this is beside the fact that you don't have the actual "relationship".

You have, as I call it, fantasy “relationship” with Santa Claus. You text some letters to some imaginary figure somewhere out there, and sometimes you get a nice response, but many times you get nothing, including the fact that you don’t get any real date or anything REAL.

Why bother typing all day every day to him, because your chances will be way higher with Santa Claus.

And have in mind, if someone is “working” during weekends, then there are some serious and very high chances that this person is married or not available.

So, this leaves you with yourself now, because your prays have been heard and received, and here is the answer. Leave the phone or the computer, go to the bathroom, look at yourself in the mirror, smile, fix up your makeup, and go outside to meet the real man.

8. I can’t stop thinking about him and really want to see him, but currently, it’s not possible. How do I control myself?

Question: Our biggest obstacle right now is that we can't see each other because of the pandemic situation. We met online in February and we had a few dates, and we were intimate a few times and now, we still talk most every day and sometimes multiple times a day or for long periods, but I feel like I may be overwhelming lately.

I've tried backing off some. We are both intuitively in tune with the other person and I feel like there is some pulling away. Also, I've let him know he has an open invitation to visit me, but he has some serious health problems, and he doesn't want to put himself in any possible risky situation of infecting himself with the virus.

I told him I totally agree, yet twice I've asked him to come (I just can't help myself). I can't visit him because his apartment complex isn't allowing any outsiders.

How can I stop being so obsessed with wanting to see him? I'm afraid of offending him or scaring him off. Can you help me with this situation? How are other people coping with this? And sometimes we even have a high energy or vibrational connection when we talk on the phone, but not over the last few days.

Anna Kovach: Before I answer your question, I have to give the short as possible overview of the current planetary transits happening during summer of 2020, so that the other readers could get the clear image what is going on in the sky and possibly recognize their own situations through the mirror of astrology.

You have to understand that 2019 and the current, 2020, are coupled with concentrated and exceptionally negative planetary energies. The whole of this year (2020) we have the gathering of Saturn, Jupiter and Pluto, all placed in the sign of Pisces.

This aspect is being activated and shortly deactivated by the transits of the faster moving planets, but in general terms, it indicated some sort of a war, many economical and governmental crisis, and the total "explosion" of something very small (like virus, for instance) due to the repeating conjunctions of Jupiter and Pluto, which produced our COVID-19 "pandemic".

On the other side, we have transiting planet Uranus placed in Taurus, which shows great financial and legal changes which have just started to affect the global market, and it will continue to do so, especially during the next whole year.

And we also have Neptune placed in the sign of Pisces, which, when activated, shows numerous types of viruses and bacteria, as well as an inclination toward illegal chemical substances and misuse or over-use of legal drugs.

Having in mind that, all of those celestial aspects were activated periodically by the faster moving planets, and we had two retrograde Mercury and one retrograde Venus period until now, including the significant total solar eclipse by the end of June, it's no wonder how everything was working against us.

And, I understand completely how this situation is annoying your love life, but you really need to feel grateful and protected regarding your job or income, and your health, of course.

However, the general story doesn't end up here because we will have two long and exhausting months of Mars retrograde starting from the beginning of September and lasting until the middle of November. And as this won't be enough for us in terms of tension and even aggression, we will have retrograde Mercury in October again.

This autumn will look way more dynamic, but I'm afraid that we will have to deal with many misunderstandings and yes, perhaps even military clashes or social disturbances all over the world. And if this can sound comfortable in the end, everything will start to clear out slowly and improve around the very end of this year.

Regarding your personal story, I really can't find any supporting aspect and I'm not so irresponsible to tell you that things will improve soon related to your connection to this particular man. Right now, be grateful for what you have and when you feel frustrated put your focus on some healthy habits, exercising or studying many new things you have always wanted to learn and do, but you didn't have enough time until now.

9. My Pisces guy seems to really like me, but he is still quite passive when it comes to pursuing me. I'm really patient, but I would like to know if he actually likes me.

Question: My question is if I can get some kind of clarity because I am just so confused. He seems to really like me, but seems too shy to talk on the phone, he is procrastinating meeting me, and he texts less and less in time, and he now goes days without talking to me... But, he always keeps my audios when I send them, because they say "kept".

I've told him I am a very patient person, and that I have no problem moving at his pace, and love the fact he wants to take things slow. I don't mind that.

I just want to know if he is just stringing me along or not and if he actually does like me. I know I may not be the only girl he is talking to.

Anna Kovach: Thank you for this question, because many of my dear ladies get confused with the same type of behavior men frequently practice on them. And the main question is always revolving about the "is he afraid" or "what can I do not to scare him" themes. And without any hesitation, I have to give you the answer - no, he is not afraid, and no, there is nothing you can do to scare him, except for a few almost "never going to happen" situations, for instance, if you would point the weapon at him or the dental drill.

He is acting politely and this is a good thing, but this doesn't mean that he is "into you" because his ACTUAL actions are speaking opposite things. Please, become aware of the fact that he is avoiding you and he is strategically "downsizing" all of his communication with you.

This doesn't mean that anything is wrong with you or you should change your main traits. Simply let go of your attachment and live your life fully. In the case, he is destined to become your "man" he will then start fighting for you and you won't have to move your little finger to attract his attention. In all other cases, you are a free woman, there is no need to be "patient" for anyone, and since you are available, you should go out and start dating the other men.

Conclusion

I hope you had the chance to learn something new when it comes to your relationship with your Pisces man, and I sincerely hope that this book will help you see many things from a new perspective.

BONUS : Language of Desire

The chance is, you were raised to be an educated, polite and respectful girl.

Aaaaand... don't get me wrong, but that might be a massive problem for your relationship.

Have you ever watched "Analyze This," the 1999 comedy movie?

There's a scene when Billy Crystal (Dr. Ben Sobel, psychotherapist) talks with Robert De Niro (Boss Paul Vitti, his patient):

Dr. Ben Sobel:

What happened with your wife last night?

Boss Paul Vitti:

I wasn't with my wife, I was with my girlfriend.

Dr. Ben Sobel:

Are you having marriage problems?

Boss Paul Vitti:

No.

Dr. Ben Sobel:

Then why do you have a girlfriend?

Boss Paul Vitti:

What, are you gonna start moralizing on me?

Dr. Ben Sobel:

No, I'm not, I'm just trying to understand, why do you have a girlfriend?

Boss Paul Vitti:

I do things with her I can't do with my wife.

Dr. Ben Sobel:

Why can't you do them with your wife?

Boss Paul Vitti:

Hey, that's the mouth she kisses my kids goodnight with! What are you, crazy?

Now, this is just a funny scene from a comedy movie, but...

... if you watched it with your man, I can bet my reputation that he burst out laughing because he saw some level of truth in that joke!

And you would be amazed by how many relationships are in the same situation.

And the odds are — yours is, too!

No, I'm not saying that your man has a girlfriend, but he at least fantasizes about being "wild" with some other, less "nice" woman, exploring his sexuality.

How can I be so sure about this?

Because, right now you are failing to properly communicate with your man (I'm talking about sexual communication).

That is a fact.

And it's NOT your fault.

Years of programming are standing in your way, preventing you from really expressing yourself and helping your man to express himself too.

You are a "good girl," and your man knows that.

Heck, he wanted a "good girl" to settle down with.

However, when it comes to sex life, he's becoming restless.

He wants to try some new things, spice things up a bit.

He wants to feel like a teenage boy again, discovering new things, experiencing all the excitement all over again.

And he would like to go on that journey with you, but he knows for sure that "you are not that kind of a girl."

The truth is, it's easier for him to go and cheat than to awaken his true sexual energy with you.

Why?

Well, that is the place where a well-known social phenomenon kicks in — "the good girl complex."

A study by Stanford University reported that the most desirable adjectives to describe women were compassionate, warm, cheerful, soft-spoken, and loyal — all qualities of a good girl.

And as we know, girls are more emotionally mature and better behaved, and hence they take their parents' "please be good" guidance on board from an earlier age.

This carries on through all life, to the very end.

And there is nothing wrong with that.

The majority of men are looking for that kind of "ideal" woman to have by their side.

The problem is that they are hesitant to show their real sexual side to a "good girl" and get judged or even abandoned.

Nobody wants to be seen as a freak or pervert, especially not by the person they share a bed with!

So, instead of trying to "transform" a "good girl" into a woman who could bring them real joy and pleasure, they decide to search for a "side woman."

Luckily for us, this is something that can't be fixed!

But it requires some action from you.

You must make it your mission to learn how to show your man that even though you are a "good girl," you are still a highly sexual being.

And, by doing this, you will help him reach and demonstrate his full sexual potential.

Because at this very moment, the chances are that both of you would like to change or try the same things in the bedroom, except he imagines it with another woman.

So, what can you do about it?

Frankly, it's quite simple, really.

There is a proven, developed system in place that will take you and your sexual communication to a whole new level almost overnight.

And the best part — it's a lot of fun!

Do you have any idea what it could be?

I will show it to you right now.

SEXUAL COMMUNICATION - TIP:

Never underestimate the power of physical sensation!

Yes, sexual communication is essential, but once you get the right insight, you need to be ready to take action. To take the initiative.

Everything will fall apart if you leave it only at words.

Did you have a chance to think about the most natural, direct, and fun way to bring healthy sexual communication to your relationship?

No?

Don't worry, you will understand everything in the next couple of minutes.

For me, everything started with a simple text message:

"I need to meet you for coffee."

It was for my old high school friend, Emma.

Back then, that was a secret code for my close friends that actually meant they needed some urgent advice about a relationship and love life.

So, not knowing how significant of an impact it would have on my future work and my personal love life, I sat down with Emma for a cup of strong, black coffee.

Anyway, all the fuss was about her fiancée Nathan getting more and more distant every day. And she didn't have a clue what was going on.

We went back and forth for over an hour, trying together to figure out why her relationship was failing.

Naturally, as it's a crucial part of every thriving relationship, we touched on the subject of their sex life and how often they are intimate.

"Well, maybe once a month, twice if it's some special occasion," Emma confessed to me with a nervous smile.

"But that is ok," she continued, "you know, Nathan has had a low sex-drive for the past few months, with all the work and stress that he's going through right now, you know..."

I suggested to Emma that the root cause of the problem and the actual reason why Nathan was drifting away might lay right there — in suppressed sexual energy, that is explained to her as "low libido."

"Sorry, but I have to disagree with you," Emma was persistent, "my Nathan is not like that."

Then she went on and on, reassuring me that they are a perfect match in bed, how great the chemistry has been since the beginning and how well they know each other.

So, I didn't force it any further.

Unfortunately, as you already know, I wasn't convinced by her arguments.

As it turned out, Nathan had been suppressing his sexual energy, dreaming about having an adventure with another woman, while his frustration grew until the day he left Emma for good.

It's no secret that I felt partially responsible for Emma's break up.

So, I decided to investigate what was really going on in the man's mind.

Why is it so hard for them to communicate their wishes and fantasies to their girlfriends and wives!?

Then, after countless hours of research, besides discovering the complexity of "the good girl complex" and "the Madonna-Whore complex," I stumbled upon the solution!

And it was there all the time.

What is more, you've already heard about it by its popular name many times before — just didn't know its power!

So here it is:

The most powerful way to sexually communicate, build long-lasting connections and increase intimacy to a sky-high level with your partner is Dirty Talk.

Yes — Dirty Talk.

Simple as that.

No joke.

Countless studies have confirmed the benefits of dirty talk in relationships.

Go ahead, if you don't believe me, go and Google it.

However, before you go wild and start memorizing all kinds of stupid phrases and text messages, I must warn you.

It doesn't work like that.

Dirty Talk is a process that consists of:

1. Discovering and learning about your sexuality, wishes and fantasies
2. Finding "the line" or, in other words, testing the boundaries - yours and his
3. Developing a Dirty Talk style that is unique to you — it's actually a buried part of your identity.
4. Exploiting Dirty Talk techniques to their maximum and seeing with your own eyes how your sexual communication explodes!
5. And, get your well-deserved reward — enjoy and live in a relationship that is hard to imagine at this point.

Now, there is a much more to it, and these five steps are just a simplified version for you to get a picture of how complex Dirty Talk is.

Luckily for us, there is a proven shortcut, and it's called the "Language of Desire" by Felicity Keith.

You see, Felicity had a similar experience, having problems with expressing herself sexually and finally catching her husband watching porn AFTER having unfulfilling sex with her.

Anyway, she went a step further, creating the ultimate guide. "Language of Desire" which will clear all doubts and fears while giving straight, down to earth instruction at the same time.

Now, I feel obligated to tell you that this is NOT a free program, and it's NOT for everyone.

However, keeping in mind all the benefits I got from it, I personally found its price tag a reasonable investment.

It's one of those things that you invest in once in a lifetime, so the price shouldn't be the problem.

So, I invite you to go ahead and try it for yourself. Here's the link to her full story: "Language of Desire" by Felicity Keith

I still remember the day when I bought the "Language of Desire" for myself, all that excitement and anticipation.

Anyway, the moment I got my hands on this program, I literally ran through it all in one breath.

I would NOT recommend doing that.

The better approach is to digest it chapter by chapter. That is the only way to really absorb all the goodies that this program can offer you.

As you probably noticed by now, this program comes in two variations - PDF format and Online Course format.

My personal favorite and my honest recommendation is to take the Online Course format.

It's designed to take you through the complete course step-by-step, giving you enough time to digest everything.

And you will be more willing to apply yourself to worksheets if you take it piece by piece — which is crucial for real success.

For instance, I almost skipped this part when I ran through the PDF for the first time (let me show screenshot of the part of the first chapter...):

- Become A Sexual Superwoman!
 - Being Dirty with Dignity
 - The Madonna Moan
 - Fear of the Slut Label
 - Worksheets

... and yet, it is crucial, especially if you are a newbie to sexual communication.

However, I immediately fell in love with the "Sexploration Quiz":

- Become A Sexual Superwoman!
 - Being Dirty with Dignity
 - The Madonna Moan
 - Fear of the Slut Label
 - Worksheets

You see, I truly believe that for something to be substantial it needs to have a strong foundation.

And there is no better way to build a rock-solid foundation than by learning the truth about yourself.

And it's a lot of fun.

Anyway, I don't want to ruin your exploration with any more spoilers — discovery is the part of this experience.

And if you, by some chance, didn't get access to "Language of Desire" yet, now is the right moment to do it.

I can't stress enough how beneficial this program will be for you and your relationship.

The only way to understand its real power is to try it for yourself.

No way around that.

If you wait too long, the moment will pass.

You will get caught in everyday routines, and this unique opportunity will be missed.

Don't let that happen.

Sexual communication is an essential part of any healthy, successful relationship.

Without it, your relationship future is uncertain.
