HIGHLIGHTS OF WASHINGTON, DC

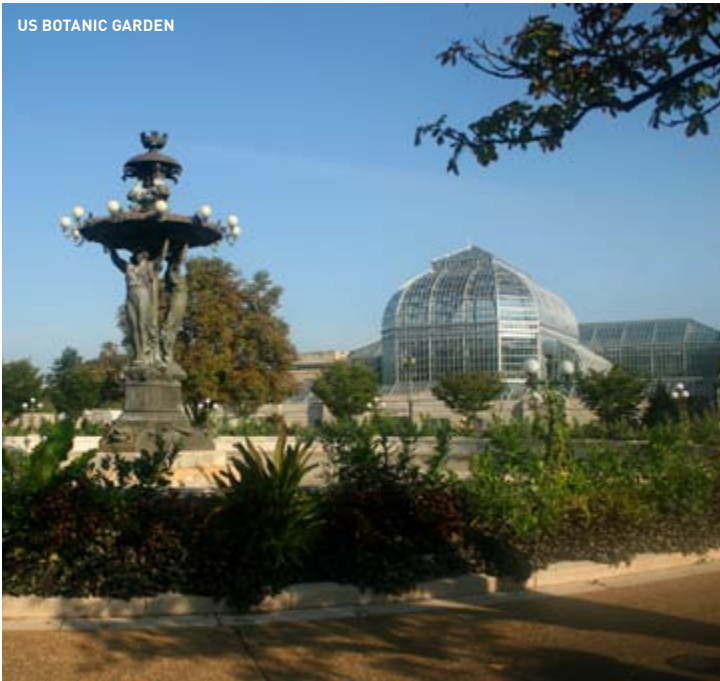

Don't miss out on DC's wealth of cultural attractions and experiences

As the capital of the United States and one of the largest metropolises in the nation, Washington, DC is not only a living embodiment of American history, but a quintessential representation of city life. Since its discovery in the 17th century and its official establishment as the District of Columbia in 1790, the capital has played host to countless social protests, survived a series of domestic and international attacks, and launched the careers of thousands of respected politicians and statesmen. Year after year, DC maintains a strong tourist industry and enjoys a respectable international reputation thanks to its incredible array of world-famous monuments, landmarks and museums, including the White House, the Washington Monument and the Smithsonian Institution. While the city is steadily progressive in its social and political spheres, DC still manages to preserve a rich sense of history and traditional values – one that lingers noticeably in everything from its fiercely protected heritage sites to its charming historical restaurants and inns. With luxurious accommodation and exquisite entertainment options at every turn, a visit to Washington, DC proves a truly capital experience for the Elite Traveler.

US BOTANIC GARDEN

US BOTANIC GARDEN

The USBG (US Botanic Garden) is a beautiful collection of public gardens and exhibits dedicated to showcasing the value of plants to humanity. With three areas open to the public – the Conservatory, the National Garden and the Bartholdi Park – the USBG maintains more than 60,000 plants for exhibition, study, conservation and exchange with other institutions. Recently accredited by the American Association of Museums, the USBG is both stunning and educational – a real treat for any visiting nature lover.

A perfect day in the capital starts with breakfast at Patisserie Poupon in Georgetown, which serves terrific coffee and some of the most outstanding French pastries available locally. Next, take a tour of the Diplomatic Rooms at the State Department, considered by those in the know as one of Washington's little gems. These beautiful rooms are brimming with American antiques and beg visitors to imagine the vast array of historical events that once occurred in their very midst. To satisfy an artistic side, head to Dupont Circle to visit the Phillips Collection, America's very first museum of modern art; the collection houses treasures such as Renoir's legendary Luncheon of the Boating Party. Lunch at the W Hotel's rooftop restaurant, POV, offers a chance to relax and take in a million-dollar view of DC before an afternoon of historic sightseeing.

Take a trip to the wonderful Lincoln Cottage to explore the home of the late president's family; or visit Georgetown's Dumbarton Oaks, the historic house where the United Nations was born. Muster up the last of your energy to check out the Hillwood Museum, a magnificent preservation of the Georgian mansion and 13-acre estate that was once home to Marjorie Merriweather Post. Wind down from this exhausting day with dinner at the St. Regis's famed Adour and a private town car or horse-drawn carriage tour of the city by moonlight.

Tourist Tip: Spread your sightseeing over a few days to make the most of Washington's cultural offerings at a comfortable pace.

Make sure you don't miss:

The National Air and Space Museum: maintains the world's largest collection of historic air and spacecraft

The National Gallery's East and West Buildings: home to over 90,000 pieces of art dating as far back as the third century

The National Museum of Natural History: houses an incredible collection of gems, including the spectacular 46K Hope Diamond.

The perfect way to start an exciting day in Washington, DC is with breakfast at the Old Ebbitt Grill, the oldest restaurant and tavern in the city. Follow your hearty meal with a guided, private tour of the city, which the staff at the Mandarin Oriental can happily arrange. This kind of tour will give you detailed information about the history of our nation's capital and provide the flexibility to choose which attractions you would like to see. Have lunch at one of the many restaurants in Penn Quarter or Georgetown, and then spend the afternoon touring one or more of the Smithsonian museums. A wonderful way to finish off your day is a delicious dinner at Washington's only five-star, five-diamond restaurant, CityZen, conveniently located off the lobby of the Mandarin Oriental.

NEED TO KNOW ► MARINAS

Often called the “nation’s river,” the Potomac River flows freely through the nation’s capital, covering an area of nine million acres and providing fresh drinking water for over four million citizens.

With its basin in Washington, DC, the Potomac regularly buzzes with life thanks to the capital’s residents, who actively engage in a wealth of water-based activities, such as sailing, canoeing and fishing. While most marinas along the river mainly harbor small cruisers, there are several big enough to accommodate the superyachts – and the tastes – of the Elite Traveler.

NATIONAL HARBOR MARINA

Address: National Harbor Marina, 168 National Plaza, National Harbor, MD 20745

Website: www.nationalharbor.com

The National Harbor Marina is the perfect getaway destination for boaters cruising the Mid-Atlantic. Located on the historic Potomac River, minutes from the nation’s capital, this top-rate marina offers concierge services and full length finger piers, as well as 10,000 square feet of space for private events and accommodation for vessels up to 200 feet (61 meters). All facilities are within easy walking distance from a number of lavish sites, including first-class hotels, shopping and dining, as well as entertainment venues and outdoor festivals, making this exciting new waterfront resort a choice destination for Elite Travelers.

CAPITAL YACHT CLUB MARINA

Address: Capital Yacht Club Marina, 1000 Water Street, South West, Washington, DC 20024

Website: www.capitaleyachtclub.com

The Capital Yacht Club Marina, located in the heart of the nation’s capital, combines monumental views with the rich tradition of boating to provide superior services for water enthusiasts. Enjoy a hassle-free day of cruising thanks to the marina’s accommodations, which include arranged pump-outs, complimentary cable and high-speed Wi-Fi access. Or, wind down an exciting day out with the warm hospitality and exclusive, relaxing atmosphere of the marina’s waterside clubhouse, which features a full-service bar, a clubroom, a formal library, shower facilities and a patio area. Superyachts are welcome, with a number of floating and fixed docks able to accommodate vessels up to 220 feet (67 meters).

TIME ZONE

GMT -5 (GMT -4 from March to November)

POPULATION

Washington, DC has an estimated population of 600,000.

RELIGIOUS DEMOGRAPHIC

Like the rest of the United States, the majority of Washington's residents are Christian, although the city has a sizeable number of Jewish, Hindu, Buddhist, Muslim and non-affiliated people.

PUBLIC HOLIDAYS

New Year's Day, Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, George Washington's birthday, Emancipation Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas Day are the main public holidays observed in Washington, DC.

TYPICAL OPENING HOURS

Opening hours may vary, but 8am to 5pm, Monday to Friday are the most common business hours.

LOCAL CUSTOMS

Many laws vary from state to state, including those regarding traffic rules, fines and punishments. The age at which one can legally buy and consume alcohol is 21 years nationwide. Tipping is normal practice in most of the US. Waiters will expect 15 to 20 per cent.

ATTIRE

Business casual dress is usually fine for most restaurants, but pricier establishments will likely insist on a jacket and tie for men. Attendance at cultural events usually requires formal dress, while smart outfits are recommended for the capital's bars and nightclubs.
