THESTREET'S DIVIDED DOZEN:

FOR THE MARKET RIGHT NOW!

When investors turn their attention to the most actively traded and popular stocks, they expect to find the best of the best. Why else would these stocks be considered some of the most popular on the market? And in some cases, they're right. But when it comes to comparing apples to apples for a dozen of the most popular stocks traded on the market right now, nothing could be further from the truth. TheStreet Quant Rating stock algorithm reveals a great divide between 12 of the most actively traded U.S. shares. One group of buy-rated stocks are the kind of highly-caffeinated, high-flying runners around which to build a portfolio. The other half-dozen are lackluster and our ratings algorithm indicates they may be losers over the next year.

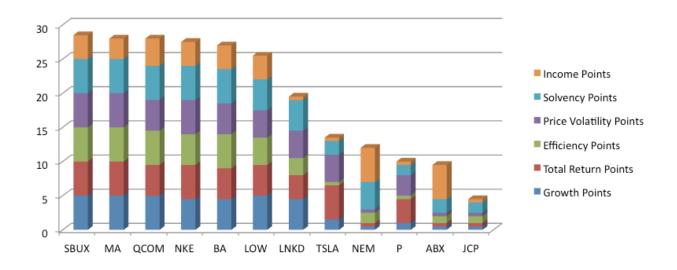

As the old saying goes, "Let your winners run and cut your losers short." If you do not yet own these buy-rated stocks, it is not too late to add them to your portfolio. On the other hand, if you own any of these sell-rated stocks, consider nixing them from your holdings today.

Boeing, the world's leading aerospace company, designs, develops, manufactures, sells, and supports commercial jetliners, military aircraft, satellites, missile defense, human space flight, and launch systems and services worldwide. The Commercial Airplanes segment develops, produces, and markets commercial jet aircraft, and provides related support services to the commercial airline industry and government customers. The Boeing Military Aircraft segment engages in the research, development, production, and modification of military aircraft and precision engagement, and mobility products and services. The Network & Space Systems segment is involved in products and services to assist customers transform their operations through network integration, intelligence and surveillance systems, communications, architectures, and space exploration. Boeing's Space Systems segment acts as the prime contractor for the International Space Station. The company also engages in engineering, operations, and technology activities. Boeing was founded in 1916 and is based in Chicago, Illinois.

Our Quantitative Briefing:

Boeing has improved earnings per share by 11% in the most recent quarter compared to the same quarter a year ago. Though it has reported somewhat volatile earnings recently, we feel Boeing is poised for EPS growth in the coming year. During the past fiscal year, Boeing reported lower earnings of $5.12 vs. $5.32 in the prior year. This year, the market expects an improvement in earnings ($6.52 vs. $5.12).

Net income growth from the same quarter one year ago has exceeded that of the S&P 500, but is less than the Aerospace & Defense industry average. Net income increased 12.5% to $1.09 billion from $967 million in the year-ago quarter. Boeing's revenue growth has slightly outpaced the industry average of 8.6%, up 9% on the year-ago quarter. Growth in the company's revenue appears to have helped boost earnings per share.

Lowe's Companies Incorporated (LOW)

TheStreet Quant Rating Grade:

A+ (BUY)

What They Do:

Lowe's operates as a home improvement retailer in the United States and Canada. The company offers a range of products for home decorating, maintenance, repair, remodeling, and property maintenance. The company also offers installation services through independent contractors in various product categories. Lowe's serves DIY homeowners and renters and commercial business customers, who work in construction, repair/remodel, commercial and residential property management, or business maintenance professions. Lowe's operates more than 1,825 stores in the United States, Canada and Mexico. The company also offers its products online through electronic product catalogs and Lowes.com. Lowe's was founded in 1952 and is based in Mooresville, North Carolina.

Our Quantitative Briefing:

Powered by strong earnings growth of 37.5%, this stock has surged by 57.86% over the past year, outperforming the S&P 500 Index during the same period. Looking ahead, the stock's sharp rise over the last year has already driven it to a level relatively expensive compared to the rest of its industry. We feel, however, that other strengths this company displays justify higher price levels.

Lowe's has improved earnings per share by 37.5% in the most recent quarter compared to the same quarter a year ago. The company has demonstrated a pattern of positive earnings per share growth over the past two years. We feel this trend will continue. During the past fiscal year, Lowe's increased its bottom line, earning $1.68 vs. $1.42 in the prior year. This year, the market expects an improvement in earnings ($2.19 vs. $1.68).

The Sell-Rated Stocks

LinkedIn Corporation (LNKD)

TheStreet Quant Rating Grade:

D+ (SELL)

What They Do:

LinkedIn operates an online professional network, which allows members to create, manage, and share their professional identity online, build and engage with their professional networks, and find business opportunities. In addition, it offers hiring solutions for enterprises and professional organizations to find, contact, and hire qualified candidates. The company also provides marketing solutions, such as LinkedIn Ads, a self-service platform that enable advertisers to build and target their advertisement to its members LinkedIn was founded in 2002 and is headquartered in Mountain View, California.

Our Quantitative Briefing:

LinkedIn has experienced an impressive jump in stock price over the past two years. Despite positive price performance, LinkedIn has demonstrated higher volatility than other stocks in its industry. More importantly, the stock's downside risk is slightly higher than that of the industry. The beta of 1.73 indicates LinkedIn is quite sensitive to the movements of the overall market.

The higher P/E ratio for LinkedIn may signify a more expensive stock or higher growth expectations compared to its peers.

The return on equity has improved slightly compared to the year-ago quarter. This can be construed as a modest strength in the organization. In comparison to other companies in the Internet Software & Services industry and the overall market, LinkedIn's return on equity is significantly below the industry average and S&P 500.
