Douglas High School's accreditation upheld

DOUGLAS — Officials of Douglas High School were notified earlier this week that the Commission on Public Schools of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges has voted to continue Douglas High School's Accreditation in the Association.

The Commission's decision was based upon review of an evaluation report prepared by a visiting team in October of 2018.

Josh Romano, Principal of Douglas High School, stated "We feel that the Commission's decision confirms the results of the extensive self-study which our faculty and administrators conducted for 12 months. We are convinced that the findings of our self-study, coupled with the recommendations of the Committee on Public Secondary Schools visiting team, will assist us in developing priorities for further improvements in the school. The Committee on Public Secondary Schools requires that accredited schools submit progress reports following the evaluation to indicate the changes we've made to improve our school. In anticipation of these progress reports, the professional staff and administrators will immediately begin a follow-up program to review the self-study findings and the visiting team report to establish the order in which recommendations will be carried out."

The New England Association of School and Colleges is a voluntary membership organization of more than 2,000 public and independent schools, colleges and universities, and vocational, technical, and career institutions. Of these, approximately 630 schools have been accredited through the Association's Commission on Public Schools. The Association works with individual schools to improve the quality of education through a continuous process of evaluation and Accreditation.

Always Find The Art opens in Blackstone

BLACKSTONE — When Rachel Gorman and Rebekah Cartier met as co-workers at the T.G.I. Friday's in Framingham, they immediately bonded over a passion of crafts, art, and creating. Now, the pair have teamed up as business partners in their newest venture, and their new business Always Find The Art has recently opened its doors on Main Street in Blackstone.

"We've named our art studio 'Always Find The Art' and we are very eclectic and abstract. We have many different materials and projects for people of all ages and skill sets," the pair said. "We like to tell people, 'it's okay to color outside the lines.' It's about having fun, being expressive, and creating something special to you."

The new art studio offers courses, walk-ins, and crafts for all ages.

Gorman and Cartier said the dream was born after several get-togethers with Gorman, her children, and Cartier, trying out different crafts. The duo got to talking about how passionate they are about art and creating, and said, "what if we did this every day?"

"It all sort of happened from there," they added. "We are very excited to have started this business in Blackstone; everyone from the community has been super supportive and welcoming and we are beyond grateful."

The studio's mission, according to its website, lies in a commitment to providing an engaging, respectful, and rewarding learning environment.

"21st century education carries with it a mix of new challenges and promising tools. At Always Find The Art, we are filled with an inspiration and passion that we hope to share with all."

The studio is located at 43 Main St. in Blackstone; upcoming events include a fluid paint night, a girls' night, and more. More information can be found online. The studio has a Facebook page, Always Find The Art, and a Web site: www.alwaysfindtheart.com.

MassWildlife to begin spring salamander study

BY KIMBERLY PALMUCCI
TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENT

REGION — After 14 years, the Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Wildlife is reassessing a previously rare salamander in the state and is seeking contribution from the public. If you have experience with stream salamanders, or come across one while venturing into a forested stream, your input is considered important.

Spring salamanders were once considered rare in Massachusetts, according to a recent news release from MassWildlife. Until 2006, they were listed as a species of special concern under the Massachusetts Endangered Species Act. But after nearly 14 years, MassWildlife's Natural Heritage and Endangered Species Program is spearheading a formal assessment of the species this summer.

This new assessment is warranted by the growing concerns over potential impacts of climate change to cold-water resources in higher-elevation habitats of southern New England, areas where spring salamanders live, according to the release. This updated information about the species can disclose a potentially important piece of that puzzle.

A network of volunteers will assist staff in visiting a number of historically known spring salamander sites in 2019 and 2020. Surveys aim not only to confirm continued presence of the species at a given site, but also to compile baseline information of relative abundance among sites. MassWildlife staff will also be exploring areas not previously known to host spring salamanders to add understanding of the current distribution and overall abundance of local populations.

Spring salamanders are the largest and most elusive of the state's stream-dwelling salamanders, growing to eight inches long, the release states.

Juveniles and young adults are pinkish-orange, with faint, black spots or streaks that form a net-like pattern over the body. Larvae are fully aquatic and have external gills, squared snouts, small eyes, and are a yellowish-brown to grayish-lavender with fine markings. Larvae take several years to mature and metamorphose into air-breathing salamanders, reaching several inches in total length before doing so.

One of the challenges in understanding the conservation status of spring salamanders is their secretive behavior and preference for streams associated with rough terrain in remote areas. Spring salamanders spend most of their time hidden beneath large, flat stones and among cobbles in or along streambeds, making them difficult to monitor.

If you have experience with stream salamanders of Massachusetts, including the northern dusky salamander, northern two-lined salamander, and spring salamander, and would like to be an active contributor to the assessment effort, MassWildlife is asking that you contact Conservation Scientist Jacob Kubel at jacob.kubel@mass.gov. If you happen to encounter a spring salamander incidentally during a venture into a forested stream, please note your precise location, photograph the animal, and contact Kubel for details on how to report the observation for inclusion in the database as an official state record of the species.

Fear of missing out

Vacation photos...birthday party pics...cute selfies at a concert...the evidence is everywhere, on Facebook and other social connection platforms, and certainly in the pages of your community newspaper: lots of people are doing a ton of fun things. And some of those fun things are better than the fun things you're doing. OUCH.

While social media certainly has provided an excellent way to connect people, it is safe to say it has also been one of the unique causes of a specific type of anxiety: that everyone else is doing something great and you aren't. To put it succinctly, it's the fear of missing out. And summer is a prime breeding ground for this worry, because there is something going on somewhere, all the time.

There are the fairs and festivals, which seem to occur every weekend of every month in summer and well into fall. There's the Oyster Festival; the Sailfest; the Jazz Festival: the Craft Expo. There are festivals to celebrate blueberries, garlic, smoked meats, Irish heritage and butterflies. It's safe to say there's truly something for everyone.

There are countless "Bring a Friend" days at the local farmers market; the zoo; mini golf courses; aquariums. (These events can be twice as stressful, as it will lead to a person thinking that they are not only missing out, but are also lacking friends. Not true! Be the person who does the inviting and make someone else's day.)

One cannot overlook the special stress-inducing "Once a Year" events that speak for themselves in terms of missing out: who really wants to admit they didn't watch the Fourth of July fireworks? Or the summer solstice moon viewing? How about the first sweet corn harvest? (The stress level is multiplied by the number of children in a household who will also obsess over missing out on any yearly event.)

As we reach the mid-point of summer and all it has to offer, the fear of missing out increases with each Facebook post of That Other Family's vacation, or their perfect picnic, or their berry-picking excursion. Every edition of your community newspaper features pics of people enjoying local events. The good news is that there are tons of local events that will appeal to people of all ages, life stages and areas of interest. And the better news is that all it takes to prevent the fear of missing out is to get out the door and enjoy them!

Unconventional Cooking Fixes

Clever kitchen strategies are nothing new. Generations of cooks have devised creative ways to get a job done quicker and easier. Born of necessity, many familiar kitchen tactics have served both novice and veteran cooks well. While popular prep and cooking techniques are common knowledge, a revolution of "fearless cooking" has spawned new and unconventional ideas. From separating eggs with a water bottle to using a chopstick to gauge frying temperatures, the following kitchen maneuvers bring a fresh new approach to tackling age old culinary challenges.

TAKE THE HINT

temperature Solution: Chinese take-out tool.

Take a tip from Asian cooks: A chopstick makes a quick and easy gauge to check the temp of oil to ensure fool proof frying!

To do: Dipping an unvarnished wood or bamboo chopstick into frying oil works to monitor the cooking temperature. If oil is hot enough to fry, a stream of bubbles (created by trace moisture trapped in the wood) will appear from the submerged end of the stick. Saveur Magazine reported the following temperature gauge: 320 degrees: a frail line of bubbles; 350 degrees: a swirl of bubbles all over; 375 degrees: the swirl was fast and furious. While the chopstick trick isn't an exact science, the technique can be used as a rough estimate of temperature when a thermometer is not available.

Culinary Problem Solvers

Problem: Separating eggs
Solution: Suck it up.

First introduced via an internet clip from China, this unconventional method offers a clean separation of yolk from the white. It's quick, easy and entertaining. Best of all, it eliminates any mess.

To do: Break an egg into a plate. Using a clean empty water bottle (standard 16 oz works well); squeeze to expel a little air from the bottle. Place neck of bottle on top of yolk and release bottle pressure. Voila! The yolk is "sucked" up into the bottle.

Problem: Cooking corn for a crowd
Solution: Cool it.

This effortless cooking trick employs an ice cooler and a little patience. Perfect for camping trips as kettles of hot water are readily available, the method works just as well for large cookout crowds.

To do: Shuck corn and place into a clean cooler. Pour in enough boiling water to cover corn. Cover cooler (make sure it has a tight fitting lid). Keep lid on for 30 minutes (don't peek)! When lid is opened, corn should be cooked to perfection.

Problem: Chill wine quickly
Solution: Salty Solution.

When pressed for time, this common sense method does the trick. The secret is salt, which lowers the freezing temperature of the ice water, escalating the chill factor (same principle as ice cream).

To do: Fill a large bucket, sink, or metal pan with cold water. Add a bowl of ice cubes and a palmful of table salt to the water. Place bottle of wine in the ice water and swish around. Leave for about 12-15 minutes and the wine should be well chilled in record time!

Problem: Husking Corn
Solution: Pop corn out.

Super smooth, silk free corn on the cob is the result of this innovative procedure that uses the microwave to tame the task of husking corn!

To do: With husks intact, Cook an untrimmed ear of corn in the microwave on high setting for about four minutes (or eight minutes for two). Remove from microwave and with a serrated knife, slice the husk off the end (into the first few rows of the kernels). Using a silicone glove or potholder, grasp corn from the silky top end and give it a few hard shakes. The cob will literally slide out of the husk, leaving the silk behind!

Problem: Peeling several heads of garlic is a hassle
Solution: Shake it up!

This ingenious trick results in clean, separated garlic cloves. As an added bonus, the required shaking helps relieve kitchen tension!

To do: You'll need two large stainless steel mixing bowls. To peel several garlic heads at a time, smash each with the heel of your hand. Toss all into a large stainless steel mixing bowl. Top with another bowl and shake vigorously for about ten seconds. You'll find all the cloves clean, peeled and ready to use!

Problem: No thermometer to check oil

Welcoming a new child? Consider these financial moves

FINANCIAL FOCUS

DENNIS ANTONOPOULOS

If a new child has entered your life, you are no doubt full of joy today and hopes for the future. And you can help make that future a brighter one for your child and your family by taking some important steps in these areas:

College – Given the consistently rising costs of higher education, the earlier you start your savings and investment plans, the better off you will likely be. While it may be difficult to set aside money for education when you're still a young family, planning to cram at the last minute is not a good idea. Time is one of your biggest assets, and delaying even a few years can have a big effect on your portfolio's value.

In addition, just like regular attendance is crucial for success in school, setting aside money every month can help make a difference in reaching your family's education savings goals. Developing a strategy for achieving your education savings goal can help you stay on track. And if you have other goals, such as saving for retirement, it's important to address how they fit into your overall financial strategy.

Insurance – If you did not have life insurance before, you may want to consider it now. Ask yourself: If something happened to me, would my child be able to stay in the same house? Receive an education? Enjoy a comfortable lifestyle? Even if you have an actively involved co-parent with a steady income, it still might not be enough to take care of your child in the way you would have wanted. Consequently, you may need life insurance – and you might need other types of protection, too, such as disability insurance.

Estate plans – With luck, you will live to see your children as adults who have found their way in the world. Still, it's best to be prepared for anything – which means you should draw up your estate plans well before they are likely to be needed. Among other things, you may want to name someone to serve as your child's guardian if you – and your co-parent, if one is involved – are not around. And because a minor generally cannot inherit money or property, you may also want to appoint a conservator to act as a guardian over whatever financial assets your child might inherit until the child is of age, which will be 18 or 21, depending on where you live. Your legal professional can help you determine whether you should write a will and possibly create other estate planning documents, such as a living trust.

Even when you devote the time and money necessary to your new child, you can't forget about yourself and your own needs – in particular, you must save and invest for retirement. Contribute as much as you can afford to the retirement accounts available to you, such as your 401(k) and IRA. After all, the more you put away, the less likely the need for your child to help support you later in life.

You'll have much to think about when you welcome a new child to your family but by taking the time to make the appropriate financial moves, you can help make the transition a positive one.

This article was written by Edward Jones for use by your local Edward Jones Financial Advisor. Please contact Dennis Antonopoulos, your local Edward Jones Advisor at 5 Albert St., Auburn, MA 01501 Tel: 508-832-5385 or dennis.antonopoulos@edwardjones.com.

Here are a few more unconventional kitchen ideas:

*Want to keep your frozen fish ocean fresh? The secret is in the preparation for storage. Rinse fresh fillets in salted ice water. Fill up a ziplock freezer bag with regular water. Submerge the fillets in the water. Expel air from the bag and seal. The water keeps away freezer burn and keeps fish "just caught fresh!"

*Tame the mess of chopping herbs by spreading table salt on the cutting board. The grains help keep herbs in place.

*For perfectly clean-cut slices of cheesecake, briefly run a thin-bladed slicing knife through an open flame, then cut. Wipe the blade and reheat between cuts.

*To quickly create dried citrus zest: Grate a lemon and allow to dry on a sheet of wax paper. The next day, fold over the wax paper, press down and there you have it – lemon zest powder!

Local anglers are having a great summer season

“Whew!” What a hot spell last week. The air conditioners were running full speed, at least at my house. Now that we have seen some cooler temperatures, fishing and other outdoor activities have resumed. This week’s picture shows Sam Bloniasz with a nice three-pound smallmouth bass he caught while fishing in Maine with his dad Keith. They consistently caught smallmouth bass at the Down River Camps area in Princeton Maine, with most fish in the two-to-three-pound size. They sure had a blast catching smallmouths. Locally, bass anglers are catching some impressive large-mouth and smallmouth bass, with many coming from Webster Lake in Webster and Wallum Lake in Douglas.

Wallum Lake has seen a surge in smallmouth bass populations at the popular fishing spot which normally produced nice size trout, but over the past ten or 15 years, it is well known that smallmouth bass were transported to Wallum by local bass anglers in their live wells. It is illegal to transport live fish from one body of water to another, but fortunately, it worked out well. Wallum Lake has some great structure to sustain the bass population, as well as crawfish and schools of baitfish for them to feed on. Four and five pound smallmouth bass are caught annually at the lake.

With August only a couple of weeks away, fly fishing anglers are eager to enjoy some great fishing for Bonito and False Albacore in Rhode Island waters. The hard fighting fish do not provide very good table fare, but they sure can give the anglers that fish for them some great fishing opportunities. The fast moving schools of fish need to be constantly chased with a boat, but provide an angler with a lot of fun when one is hooked.

The absence of weakfish, also known as sea trout, are a very rare fish to catch in Mass. and Rhode Island waters these days. At one time, they were a great game fish that provided anglers with some exciting fishing opportunities, using fresh water rods with a bucktail lead head jig. Fly fishermen also had a lot of fun catching this hard fighting fish. Some also prepared the fish for the table, although this writer found it to be a very soft and tasteless eating fish.

They had extremely soft mouths, being the reason for their name, but landing one provided some great fishing excitement. An area like Sally’s Rock in Apponaug was a favorite spot for catching numerous weakfish back in the day. Some blame the rise in water temperatures over the years for their absence today, and they could be right.

The Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club will hold another archery shoot at the club off of West Street on July 28, starting at 8 a.m. The 3-D shoot is open to the public. The kitchen will be open for breakfast. Noel Rabidor is archery chairman, and he and his committee has done a great job setting up the archery course. Numerous life size 3-D targets will test everyone’s skills. Bring out the family and enjoy the grounds. The club will also host a chicken BBQ and 3D shoot on Aug. 11. Tickets are now available at the club.

The Blackstone Valley Beagle Club will hold a Pig roast on Aug. 24, which is open to the public. Tickets are $20 each. The club is located off of Walnut Street in Douglas! Get out and enjoy some of there great cooking and take a walk with the family on their 100 acre piece of property.

Post 109 posts walk-off win, ending Northbridge's season

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — Sean Clark's bases-loaded walk in the bottom of the ninth inning brought Pat Wilbur home with the winning run and delivered Sturbridge Post 109 a 5-4 victory over Northbridge Post 343 in the second round of the American Legion Zone 4 playoffs on Friday, July 19 at Tantasqua Regional's William R. Emrich Field.

With the win Sturbridge advanced in the loser's bracket of the double-elimination tournament to face Cherry Valley — a team that had beaten them a day prior in the tournament — in a win-or-go-home game. Because of the loss Northbridge (who lost to Milford Post 59 a day earlier, 8-0) was eliminated from the Zone 4 playoffs.

Wilbur, who started on the mound for Sturbridge, walked to begin the bottom of the ninth. He advanced to second on a balk and to third on a bunt single by Niko Gidopoulos. Gidopoulos then stole second to remove the possibility of the Northbridge defense turning a double play.

Nolan Kingman (two hits) then loaded the bases by reaching on a bunt single, setting the stage for the always-patient-at-the-plate Clark (two hits, RBI).

There were no outs when the winning run scored.

"It came down to executing the bunts and they were good bunts," said Sturbridge manager Jim Rosseel, who, with the win, picked up his first American Legion coaching victory. "I give all the credit to Ray Sullivan, my assistant coach. He's the one that wanted to put in Niko, he said Niko would get the bunt down and he did.

"And then Nolan Kingman laid down the bunt, too," Rosseel continued. "We had been trying for two nights to do that and we couldn't do it, we did when it counted."

The drama of Sturbridge's game-winning rally in the ninth inning was only surpassed — maybe — by the team's seventh-inning comeback. Post 109 sent the game into extra innings by erasing a 4-1 Northbridge lead in the bottom of the seventh inning.

With one out Jared Langevin reached on an infield single to short, stole second and scored to make it 4-2 when Avery Wetherbee singled to center field. Up next was Wilbur, who reached on a Northbridge error.

The next batter, Colin Eliason (two hits, RBI) followed with an RBI single to center that scored Wetherbee to cut the Northbridge lead to 4-3. Post 109 tied the game, 4-4, when Wilbur scored on a botched Northbridge pickoff attempt during the at-bat of Kingman.

Sturbridge had a chance to win the game in the seventh, loading the bases with two out, but Deven Kingman (two hits) popped out to end the rally and send the game to the eighth inning.

"The key was the kids' attitude. It was good coming into the dugout in the seventh inning after Northbridge went ahead, 4-1," Rosseel said. "They showed me we had a backbone. I didn't really know if they did or not at that point, but I saw that we did."

Northbridge had a rally of its own in the top of the seventh inning, scoring three times to take the aforementioned 4-1 lead.

With one out Matt Ceruti reached on a Sturbridge error. He went to second on a sacrifice bunt by Connor Gniadek and then, after an intentional walk to Dave Meech (single, double), advanced to third when Derek Angell was hit by a pitch, which loaded the bases. Ceruti put Post 343 ahead, 2-1, when Northbridge's next batter (after Angell) Zack Roberts, was also hit by a pitch.

Jon "Buck" Cray increased Northbridge's lead to 4-1, Meech and Angell scoring when Cray's soft line drive to center field was just out of the leaping reach of Langevin, Sturbridge's second baseman.

Sturbridge grabbed a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning. Clark led off with a single to center field, went to second when a balk was called on Meech, Northbridge's starting pitcher, and took third on an infield single by Deven Kingman. He scored when Langevin was issued a bases-loaded walk.

Northbridge tied the game, 1-1 in the top of the fifth. With two out Meech doubled to right field and then scored on an RBI single to center by Angell.

"I'm frustrated. We had so many chances. I thought at 4-1 we had them," Northbridge manager John Demagian said. "We just couldn't get it done. I'm just so frustrated right now. It just doesn't seem to happen for us. Even when we do something good it doesn't seem to carry over for us. We got the lead and we couldn't close it out. We even got [Roger Leland, Sturbridge's first hitter in the seventh] out, but we still couldn't close it out."

Caleb Visbeek of Northbridge begins his swing as the pitch comes down the chute.

HOW THEY GOT THERE

Consigli completes shutout to boost Northbridge Post 343 past Main South

Northbridge's Mason Consigli unleashes a pitch to the plate.

Demagian said. "He did a good job when he had to; he made some big pitches when he needed to."

Main South had runners on second base in the first, third and fourth innings, and runners on second and third in the fifth inning. Consigli flirted with danger in each of those situations, but the defense behind him came up with big plays to help him wriggle out of trouble.

"It was a great team win all around. My teammates played great defense behind me and we hit the ball really well," said Consigli, who kept his game plan for each Post 341 batter simple. "My approach was just to throw first pitch strikes. I had been thinking about the game all day. I knew I had to go in the game ready to pitch. I felt good warming up and it carried over into the game."

Consigli's go-to pitch was the fastball, although he did mix in a healthy amount of changeups and then added a dash of the curveball in order to keep the Main South batters off balance.

Demagian was not surprised by the performance Consigli gave him on the bump against Post 341.

"Mason's capable of doing that on a regular basis," Demagian said. "His problem this year has been his command and the fact he got a little walk happy. He had four walks tonight, if he can cut those down and make us field the ball, we'll be OK."

Northbridge sent 11 batters to the plate in the bottom of the fifth inning. Matt Ceruti got the game winning rally started by reaching on a Main South throwing error, which allowed him to advance to second base on the same play. Dave Meech was Post 343's next hitter and he hit a ground ball to Post 341's shortstop (Ryan Prosser) who alertly threw to third base to cut down Ceruti, who was running on the play. The Main South third baseman (Mike Sheeran) however, dropped the ball while applying the tag and Ceruti was safe at third.

"They made an error to start the fifth inning and that got us going," Demagian said, "and then we got some hits."

When the dust finally settled Northbridge's Derek Angell had driven in two runs with a double to right field, Jon "Buck" Cray had smacked an RBI single to right field, Jake Stuczynski had added an RBI single to left field, Matt Landry had belted an RBI double to right field, and Ceruti capped the six-run inning with a two-run double to center field.

Four of Post 343's six hits in the fifth came in a row in the middle of the inning.

"In this game you've got to get hits when they count. You've got to get them with guys in scoring position. It's about when you get them, not how many you get," Demagian said. "Our pitcher was great, our defense was good and we got some clutch hits. That's how you win at this time of the year."

In the bottom of the sixth inning a rare occur-

Up against striking out, Northbridge's Zack Roberts fouls off a low offering to keep his at-bat alive.

Jake Stuczynski of Northbridge records an out by catching a pop-up at third base.

Northbridge's Matt Ceruti has the unfortunate situation of a groundball bouncing up into his chest at shortstop.

rence happened when Landry came up to bat for the fourth time in the game. Standing on the mound trying to get him out was his older brother Ben, who plays for Main South.

"This was the first time in a real game we faced each other," Matt Landry said. "I was nervous up there, but it was a special moment. He's going to college next year, so I'm not going to get to see him as much. I don't know if I'll get a chance to face him in a game situation ever again, so getting to face my brother was a nice way to finish of this game."

Ben and Matt's mother and father were at the game sitting in the stands behind the backstop.

"I'm sure it was tough on our parents," Matt

After catching a fly ball in right field, Tyler King of Northbridge comes up firing to get the ball back toward the infield.

Landry said. "It's a situation where you don't root for one kid over the other, you can't. All you can do is sit and watch."

By the way, Ben Landry won the duel, throwing a 3-and-2 pitch that Matt Landry took for strike three.

NORTHBIDGE — After scratching for just one hit and zero runs in the first four innings of its American Legion baseball Zone 4 First Round Play-In Game with Main South Post 341, Northbridge Post 343 exploded for six hits and six runs in the bottom of the fifth inning and went on to defeat Main South, 7-0, on Tuesday, July 16 at Northbridge Middle School.

With the win Post 343, the No. 8 seed, improved to 10-13 and advanced to Bracket A of the Second Round where it played top-seeded Milford (19-3) first in the double elimination tournament. Main South, the No. 9 seed, finished its season 8-15.

While the Northbridge bats came alive late, Post 343 pitcher Mason Consigli was on his game from the first pitch to the last, throwing a complete-game five-hit shutout. The rising Northbridge High junior threw 96 pitches with one strikeout and four walks.

"Mason pitched out of quite a few jams," Post 343 manager John

PETS

Things to look for in a boarding facility

Pet ownership involves making careful decisions with the well-being of pets in mind. When pet owners need to go out of town, bringing the pet along can be a smart move. But in other instances, it may be preferable to leave pets behind. In such instances, it becomes essential to find a place that can accommodate the animal in a safe and humane fashion.

Pet owners who do not have the luxury of asking family or friends to watch their animals can enlist the services of a boarding kennel. Touring some facilities and asking the right questions can help people find the best options.

Care.com, the company that provides companionship and care for seniors, children and pets, advises first speaking with your veterinarian about the best kennels nearby. Some vet offices also have boarding facilities on premises. This can be a great option, as the vet and staff will already be familiar with your animal and be able to provide medical care if an emergency arises. Also, vet boarders are great for pets with special needs or those that are on medication.

Pet parents can ask for recommendations from friends or neighbors as well. Before visiting a kennel, recognize that signs of a poorly run facility include dirty pens, housing areas in disrepair, smelly premises, and dogs or cats that seem anxious.

When going with a third-party boarder, look for one that is licensed, insured and bonded. Different areas require various regulations regarding boarding certifications, so do your homework. If the pet should be injured or injures another dog or person during its stay, or damages property while at a bonded and insured boarding facility, the pet owner will be covered for costs.

Look at various facilities and what they offer before making a final decision. Many boarding facilities now offer luxury spaces, complete with couches and televisions. The staff may pamper the pet, and packages also may include grooming or pet playdates. Visiting the facility in advance also affords owners the chance to see if it looks and smells clean and has proper ventilation. Pet owners also will want to ensure that all pets that are boarding there are required to be current on vaccinations and healthy.

The pet adoption company Petfinder suggests gradually introducing a pet to boarding. Try a short overnight or weekend trip before booking a week-long excursion. When dropping off dogs or cats for boarding, avoid long and emotional good-byes, which may upset the pet. With practice, the parting period will be easier for all involved.

Parrot fever and the threat it poses to humans

The bond pet owners have with their pets is strong. Pets bring a lot into a home. The opportunity to care for a pet can provide fulfillment and joy, and the unconditional love pets give to their owners can improve their owners' moods.

Like their owners, pets are not immune to illness, and some of these illnesses can even be passed from pet to owner. Pet owners may assume diseases can only be transmitted via pets with whom they have routine direct physical contact, such as cats and dogs. But other pets, including parrots, can transmit disease.

Parrot fever, sometimes referred to as "psittacosis" or "chlamydia philippsii," is a bacterial disease that can be passed from certain birds, like parrots and parakeets, to humans.

The bacteria behind parrot fever commonly infects birds. While it's unlikely that this bacteria will infect bird owners, it's possible. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, people can become infected with parrot fever as a result of breathing in secretions of psittacine birds, such as parrots and parakeets. Birds may or may not exhibit signs that they've been infected with the bacteria, so bird owners may be vulnerable to the disease without even knowing their birds are sick.

Birds shed the bacteria behind parrot fever in their droppings and respiratory secretions. When these secretions dry, small dust particles, including the bacteria, can get into the air. When humans breathe in these dust particles, they may then become infected with parrot fever. It's possible that birds can spread the infection through biting or beak-to-mouth contact, but the CDC notes that such instances are rare. And while it's possible for the bacteria to be spread from one human to another, that, too, is unlikely.

Signs and symptoms

Parrot fever typically causes only mild illness. The potential indicators of parrot fever are different for birds than they are for humans. The CDC notes that signs of parrot fever in birds are non-specific, and birds infected with the bacteria may exhibit no symptoms at all. If they do exhibit symptoms, they may include poor appetite, inflamed eyes, difficulty breathing, and/or diarrhea.

Humans exposed to the bacteria behind parrot fever may begin developing symptoms within five to 14 days after exposure. The most common symptoms are fever and chills, headache, muscle aches, and dry cough. These symptoms also can be a result of other illnesses unrelated to birds, so bird owners should consult their physicians if any appear and inform their doctors that they have a bird at home. This may lead doctors to conduct tests designed to detect parrot fever.

Antibiotics are an effective and common treatment for birds and bird owners affected by parrot fever. And while infection is often mild and harmless, bird owners should keep an eye out for symptoms to ensure the health of their birds and themselves.

Surprising facts about fleas and ticks

Fleas and ticks rely on blood for food. They are the vampires of the pet realm, silently stalking companion animals wherever they go. Once fleas and ticks find a victim, they are bound to stay around for a while, enjoying the free meal.

Fleas, in particular, can grow quite fond of a cat or dog — reproducing and quickly building an infestation. Few people are enamored with fleas and ticks, but learning a little more about them can help pet owners understand their behaviors and how to best keep their pets safe.

FLEAS

Fleas have four life stages: egg, larva, pupa, and biting adult. Most people are familiar with the adult stage because those are the most noticeable and painful. Fleas can feed on just about any blood host.

Scientists know of more than 2,000 species and subspecies of fleas. However, in North America, the cat flea (Ctenocephalides felis) is responsible for the majority of cat and dog infestations.

Female fleas are typically larger than the males and are responsible for proliferating the flea brood. Females can consume up to 15 times their body weight in blood every day. This helps to fuel egg-laying, which can take place within 36 to 48 hours of the female's first meal. In her lifetime, a female flea can lay roughly 2,000 eggs.

Fleas are wingless parasites that get around by jumping from host to host. If they don't have to expend too much energy (i.e. get comfortable on a host), they can go anywhere from between two months and 100 days without a meal. Fleas can jump up to eight inches high, enabling them to grab onto a passing meal source.

A typical flea can live for a few months, and fleas can carry a number of different diseases. From plague to cat scratch fever to tapeworms, fleas can make pets ill and also affect people who interact with them.

TICKS

Ticks are not insects; they are arachnids. That means they are more closely related to spiders and scorpions. The stages of the tick include the egg, larva, nymph, and adult. Depending on the species, nymph ticks can be quite small to the naked eye. Ticks' small stature can make them difficult to detect until they have become engorged with blood.

The University of Rhode Island's Center for Vector-Borne Disease and its TickEncounter Resource Center says that spring is a prime time for the birth of new ticks. During this time of year, ticks are on the hunt for their next meals.

Ticks can be carriers of a number of diseases, but it's important to note that a tick has to be attached for longer than 24 hours to transmit diseases to a host. That means checking animals (and yourself) for ticks frequently can help avoid the spread of illness. Ticks don't jump or fall from trees. The parasites crawl upward, so start looking from the feet, moving up. In addition, check a dog's face, where a tick may latch on while the dog is sniffing in the grass.

Ticks and fleas are pesky critters that can carry disease. Consult with your veterinarian if you suspect your dog has a tick or flea problem to get the situation under control. Preventative collars and medications can help repel fleas and ticks as well.

PETS

How you can benefit from having a pet

Pets have been kept for centuries. Statistics from various sources indicate North Americans own millions of dogs, cats, birds, small mammals, and reptiles.

Pets' affable nature and loving looks are enough for many people to welcome them into their homes, but the benefits of having a pet extends beyond their appearances and temperaments.

- Pets can help prevent loneliness. Loneliness affects people of all ages, but it is particularly problematic among seniors. Older adults who may be isolated can benefit from having a pet around. According to a study published in Aging & Mental Health, older adults who owned pets were 36 percent less likely to say they were lonely compared to those who didn't have an animal companion.

- Pets can save lives. Pets can be trained to perform various tasks around the house and in the community. Rescue animals assist in finding people after natural disasters. Medical alert pets can help people with debilitating illnesses and assist physically impaired people with everyday tasks.

- Pets help lower allergy risks. Keeping pets around can reduce a child's likelihood of developing allergies by as much as 33 percent, according to a study by pediatrician James E. Gern that was published in the Journal of Allergy and Clinical Immunology. People exposed early on to animals tend to develop stronger immune systems overall.

- Pets provide socialization opportunities. A pet can be the common denominator to strike up new friendships and connect with others. Whether walking around the neighborhood or being part of a pet obedience class or interest group, pets can help their owners expand their social circles.

- Pets can help combat stress. Talking to or stroking a pet can make stress easier to handle. A study from researchers at the State University of New York at Buffalo found that, when conducting a stressful task, people experienced less stress when their pets were with them. Various other studies and data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention have found having a pet around can lower blood pressure, ease anxiety and may even help to lessen aches and pains. Pets provide unconditional love, which can be beneficial to someone facing depression or post-traumatic stress disorder.

- Pets help teach responsibility. Taking care of a pet can help children and adults become more responsible. According to the American Pet Product Association's 2011-2012 National Pet Owners Survey, 58 percent of pet owners say their pets help teach their kids to be responsible through routine care, exercise and feeding of the animal.

Pets are more than mere companions. In fact, pets can offer numerous health and well-being benefits to people of all ages.

Get the scoop on pet food safety

Today's consumers are more conscious than ever before regarding the foods and other substances they put in their bodies. It would stand to reason that those same concerned individuals also would extend that caution to the meals they feed their pets, as the basic principles of food safety also apply to pet foods and treats.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says it is key to pick the right foods for pets, and to consider some important information before purchasing anything. The CDC does not recommend feeding raw foods to pets. Salmonella and listeria have been found in raw pet foods, as well as packaged ones sold in stores.

In the United States, the Association of American Feed Control Officials regulates the production, transportation and ingredient suppliers of manufactured pet foods. With the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, these agencies help regulate animal feeds and impart new standards, process controls and other features. Pet owners concerned about their pets' foods should look for approval from AAFCO as well as the FDA before feeding.

Many pet owners prefer to seek locally sourced ingredients in the foods they select. This means protein and carbohydrate sources produced right in North America. Check package labeling to see where ingredients are procured if this is a concern.

The same safe food handling procedures people observe when handling their own foods should be followed when they prepare meals for their pets.

Before or after handling pet foods and treats, wash hands to prevent the spread of foodborne illnesses, states FoodSafety.gov. When possible, store pet food separate from human food, preparing the foods in separate spaces as well. Use a clean, dedicated scoop or cup to create a pet food serving. Follow manufacturer's guidelines for food storage. An airtight container is advisable to keep the food fresh and free from possible contaminants.

Pet owners also should routinely check for pet food recalls to ensure the brand they're using is safe. Every effort pet owners make to keep their pets' foods safe and contaminant-free keeps pets healthy and happy.

Why it pays to use crates when training puppies

Puppies make great additions to a household. Parents often find that dogs can teach youngsters lessons about compassion and responsibility, while moms and dads enjoy the companionship and unconditional love their dogs provide.

As first-time dog owners learn shortly after bringing their puppies home, pets require a lot of work. That's especially true of puppies, which must be housebroken so they can learn to live within the structure of a family. Crate training, which is supported by the American Kennel Club, is a great way to teach puppies proper behaviors and to get them to adjust to their new lives.

Many dog owners, particularly those who have never before had a dog, may hesitate to employ crates to train their puppies. That's understandable, as on the surface it can seem cruel or inhumane to confine a living animal to a cage. However, the AKC notes that dogs are den animals that naturally seek out canine caves for security. That's true whether dog owners provide crates for their puppies or not. So while humans may see crates as cruel, dogs very likely view their crates as secure places where they can go if they get scared or feel skittish. In fact, according to the AKC, dogs' perception of crates is one reason why dog owners typically find it relatively easy to get their dogs to adjust to crates and ultimately enjoy them.

The AKC urges dog owners who plan to crate train their puppies to find appropriately-sized crates before they begin training. Crates should be just large enough for dogs to lie down, stand up and turn around. Dogs won't embrace crates that are too small, and crates that are too big will give dogs the impression that they can use one corner to defecate and use the rest for sleep or play. That's the wrong message to send, as dogs should never be encouraged to relieve themselves in their crates.

Crate training can be invaluable when welcoming puppies into a home. Learn more at www.akc.org.
