"Cheap" Tricks Ways to find great items for little or no money

Freecycle or similar; Facebook online garage sales/barter; thrift stores; Local donations from area businesses.

Create a separate email and register online or with local stores: A.C. Moore, Michaels, Hobby Lobby, JoAnn Fabrics, Home Depot, Target and Lowes.

We all subscribe to these for craft and activity ideas. I suggest you use the same email address for your shopping pass subscriptions, then you will have easy access to search for ideas.

It is a live "filing cabinet of activities and crafts at your fingertips".

OPENING GAMES TORCH RELAY

addition to opening games party; p.37 of manual

- Form two teams.
- Create two torches.
- Create several Olympic questions.
- Create a podium for the torch and the winning team.
- Ask questions to both teams. The first team to answer correctly and raise their torch takes a step closer to the winning podium.
- The first team to get to the podium wins.
- Change it up by creating different types of steps forward. Ex: grapevine three steps, hop two times, etc.

Book cart relay

Stacking books

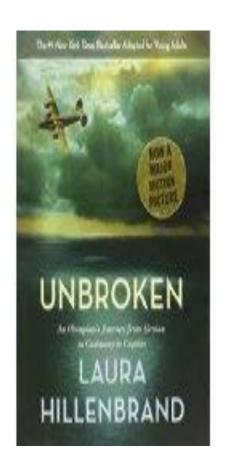

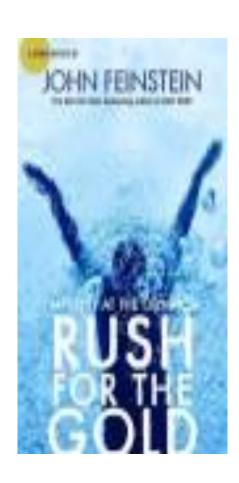

Book Crawl: Two or three people race to balance a short stack of books on their back and crawl from start to finish lines; if books fall, team mates can restack and continue. The first one to finish wins, play music.

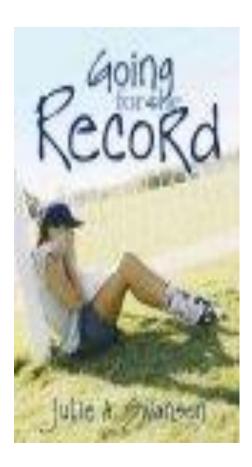

Slinky Stairs: pick teams to stack books like a staircase; give each team a slinky. The first team's slinky that successfully crawls down the stairs, wins.

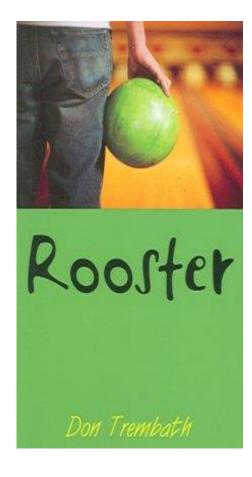

Favorite Olympic YA Books: don't forget to check out biographies for your favorite Olympians.

Origami Towel Folding Relay

infographicjournal.com/the-ultimate-towel-folding-guide

The infographic is made available to the public by Terry's Fabrics.

Using the available instructions for different origami towel figures.

Have two participants race to see who can create an origami towel masterpiece the fastest.

Use as part of a spa day or self care program.

Jobs/Finances

- Have a resume writing class.
- Invite local companies looking for summer teen employees and have a mini job fair
- Go over interview and work attire.
- Have a tie race, use old ties and have and see who can make the best knot first.
- Have an interview attire relay: have two interview outfits ready and two teams of four or five starting at the beginning. Each team pass the outfit down the line. Each member must wear all the pieces. The first team to complete wins.
- Invite consumer services or a volunteer financial advisor to go over budgeting and saving.
- Bring small business association or volunteers to come in and talk about starting your own business.
- Display career books, teen and juvenile business books, teen entrepreneur biographies.
