Bio Poems Made Easy

By Laura Candler

What are Bio Poems?

A bio poem is a simple poem written about a person, and it follows a predictable pattern. Bio poems generally don't rhyme, and they can be autobiographical or biographical. Begin by having your students write bio poems about themselves, and later they can write about other people or characters. In this packet you'll find two ready-to-use graphic organizers, a sample poem, a planning page, and decorative writing paper.

Bio Poem Topic Ideas

- Back to School - Write and share autobiographical poems
- Holiday-Themed - Mother's Day, Father's Day, President's Day
- Book or Movie Characters
- Historical Figures - Scientists, Inventors, Explorers, Politicians

Suggested Lesson Sequence

1. Before the lesson, write your own bio poem following the example on the next page. You'll need this to share with your students when you start the lesson.
2. Begin by telling your students that they are going to create simple poems about themselves called "bio poems." Display and read your example to the class.
3. Distribute copies of the brainstorming boxes graphic organizer on page 4. As a class, brainstorm a list of positive character traits that could be written in the first box. Then ask your students to record ideas for each topic in the other 7 boxes.
4. After students have spent 10 to 15 minutes brainstorming ideas on their own, encourage them to pair up with a partner and discuss their ideas.
5. Next display your example again and show students how to use the ideas from the brainstorming boxes graphic organizer to create a bio poem. Younger students may need the planning page template (page 6), but older students can usually do this on lined paper if you display the template in front of the class. Let them arrange the lines in any order they wish.
