Vehicle Description

First registered in October 2006 finished in stunning Onyx Black, Obsidian Black leather, contrast stitching and piano black fascia trim.

The DB9 was originally designed by Ian Callum and finished by Henrik Fisker, has an aluminium construction. The chassis is the Ford developed VH platform whilst the engine is the 5.9-litre V12 from the Vanquish. The letters "DB" are the initials of David Brown, the owner of Aston Martin for a significant part of its history. Although it succeeded the DB7, Aston Martin did not name the car DB8 due to fears that the name would suggest that the car was equipped with a V8 engine as the DB9 has a V12. It was also reported that Aston Martin believed that naming the car "DB8" would indicate a gradual evolution and misrepresent the car.
