

The following list includes four-year colleges and universities as classified by their selectivity according to criteria developed Barron's Profile of American Colleges (2015). The list does not include schools designated as "competitive," "less competitive," "non-competitive," and "special." Please note that "plus" designations have been collapsed (i.e., schools designated as "highly competitive plus" are included with those designated as "highly competitive").

For selectivity categories, 1 indicates "most competitive," 2 is "highly competitive," and 3 is "very competitive."
