

IMPORTANCE OF TEACHERS IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF SOCIETY

by:

Belen M. Cheng

Teacher III, Renato L. Cayetano Memorial School

Do we in reality know the significance of teacher in the education region? Most number of parents rely heavily on the teacher at schools for the education of their children. At the same time, academic institutions additionally take satisfaction of their teachers' skills to impart knowledge on their learners. They hire the best teachers to be part of their staff. And these educators play an important role at schools and in the education sector, in general.

Teachers are considered an integral part of a learning institution. You cannot find one school that has no teacher in its staff. Of course, it cannot be called a school if it does not have teachers. Teachers main responsible is to convey knowledge to the students to prepare the latter to become productive and competitive members of the society. A teacher teaches the students on the relevant information, skills and experiences they need in accordance with the established curriculum.

To be taken into consideration as a good teacher, one need to had the excellent and capability of effectively conveying expertise and wisdom to the students. That is vital as the teachers are the trainers of the new generations, who could be the heirs to the society. It is the responsibility of the instructor/teacher to teach nicely and prepare the students to stand up in every challenges they will face after they have graduated from school. Teachers are accountable on passing the information from generations bypass to the destiny caretakers of society. These duties had been made extra by using the improvement of society and the development of generation.

On the other hand, teachers/instructors can take benefit of the technological innovations. They can also use this era to enhance their coaching strategies. The usage of the benefit of the net to communicate with different teachers to percentage studies, strategies and data on effective coaching.

It could be stated, consequently, that teachers/instructors are very important within the improvement of society. Without them, the passing of knowledge, accumulated from the past generations, to the brand-new generation of caretakers of the society will now not be possible. This responsibility bestowed upon their shoulders is a full-size undertaking. The teaching profession is one of the noblest professions in society. And according to a great philosopher, Aristotle once said, there are most effective three authentic experts in society; they're the attorneys, the docs and the academics.