Wildlife Safari began as the dream and vision of one man – Frank Hart. His goal was to create a unique park in the Pacific Northwest that would help save rare and endangered species from around the world. Over 40 years later, Wildlife Safari has grown into a premier park, accredited by the Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA) dedicated to education, conservation and research. As a non-profit organization, Wildlife Safari receives no tax support and

Welcome to Wildlife Safari

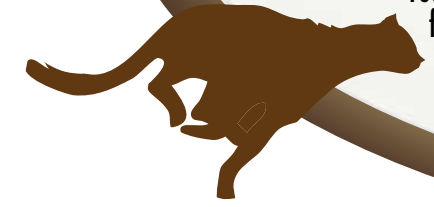

You are about to drive among hundreds of animals from around the world, living and interacting much as they would in the wild. As you drive through the Africa, Asia and the Americas sections, you see conservation in action. Zoos throughout the world are attempting to save endangered and threatened wildlife through education and captive breeding programs.

Your drive-through admission supports the care and feeding of over 500 exotic animals.

Enjoy the park and thank you for your support!

SPECIAL NOTES

- The animals population at Wildlife Safari is ever changing, just as it would be in the wild. As a result, there may be differences between the species exhibited and those listed in the guide.
- Because the weather and other conditions affect the movements and actions of the wildlife, you may not be able to see them all in one trip, so we invite you to take a second safari the same day you make the first trek.
- Take your time. Stop along the way, but please pull over to the right so others can pass.
- Many animals have natural camouflaging and blend into their surroundings. Make sure to look on top of the hills, under trees, down in the gullies, and in the tall grass.
- Photographs or videos taken within Wildlife Safari may not be used for commercial purposes without specific written permission from the management.
