SEASON PREVIEW

Expectations are high in Champaign heading into the 2019-20 college basketball season. After two seasons establishing the culture and identity of his program, head coach Brad Underwood is looking for his third Illini squad to take the next step forward on the hardwood.

Illinois was a young team last year and faced one of the most difficult schedules in the country. The Illini saw 58 percent of its scoring come from newcomers as seven players in the rotation were new to the lineup. The growing pains early in the season paid dividends later, when the Illini defeated a pair of top-15 ranked teams and went on to double their win total against Big Ten opponents from the previous season.

Illinois now has continuity for the first time during Underwood's tenure. The Fighting Illini welcome back eight of their top nine leading scorers from last season, returning a robust 85 percent of the points, 82 percent of the minutes, and 79 percent of the rebounds from a year ago.

Leading a talented backcourt is sophomore point guard Ayo Dosunmu. A heralded recruit a year ago, Dosunmu burst on to the scene and recorded one of the best rookie seasons in program history. He became the first true-freshman ever to lead the Illini in scoring on the season, averaging 13.8 points to earn Big Ten All-Freshman Team honors. Electric in the open court, Dosunmu also showed an improved outside shooting stroke, knocking down 35.2 percent from 3-point range. He impacted every area of the game, also leading the team in assists (3.3 apg) while averaging 4.0 rebounds and 1.3 steals.

Dosunmu elected not to test the NBA Draft waters, returning for a sophomore season and "unfinished business" as announced on his social media accounts. A tireless worker, Dosunmu has had another strong offseason in the weight room and on the court. He was dominant during the team's August trip to Italy, averaging 24 points. Dosunmu is a preseason All-Big Ten honoree and preseason All-American by Athlon Sports.

Dynamic scoring guard Trent Frazier returns for his junior season. Frazier was edged out by a total of just three points for the team scoring lead last year, averaging 13.7 points. He did much of his damage from long distance once again, draining 80 threes while shooting 40.6 percent from behind the arc. In addition to his scoring, Frazier excels with the principles of the Illini defensive system, affecting the game on both ends of the court.

Strengthening the backcourt is senior Andres Feliz. The former junior college All-American made great strides last season after adjusting to the Division I game. The team's sixth-man award winner started just four games but was always on the court during crunch time, ranking fourth on the team in scoring at 8.3 ppg. He came up big in a number of critical moments last year and also stood out in summer practices. Feliz has a determined attitude and is a rugged, physical competitor.

One of the most exciting stories in the Big Ten last season was the emergence of Giorgi Bezhaniashvili. A virtually unknown recruit as a prep school senior, he had no high-major scholarship offers until Underwood saw him for the first time in February 2018. Bezhaniashvili jumped at the opportunity to join the Illini, and became an instant fan favorite with students and the community. His enthusiasm and passion ignited the State Farm Center, and his play backed it up. He averaged 12.5 points and led the Illini in rebounding with 5.2 boards per game.

Efficient in the post with the ability to use either hand, Bezhaniashvili had a number of great offensive performances. There was none bigger, however, than on Feb. 9 when he broke the Illinois single-game scoring record by a freshman, exploding for 35 points on 14-of-18 shooting in a victory over Rutgers. Bezhaniashvili is a good passer and solid ball handler, and will have the opportunity to show those abilities this season as he expands his game by playing the four in addition to the five.

The lone four-year scholarship senior in the Illini program is Kipper Nichols. He averaged 5.7 points last year and had strong performances in spurts, highlighted by a season-high 18 points on 7-of-8 shooting in the Feb. 2 win over Nebraska. Nichols made 54.4 percent of his two-pointers but struggled from three after shooting it well as an underclassman. Illinois is looking for consistency from Nichols during his final campaign.

One of the most dependable players night-in and night-out is junior Da'Monte Williams. He started 18 games last season, including each of the last 17, and averaged 3.4 points and 3.5 rebounds. Always in the right spot offensively and defensively, Williams is a lengthy defender who can disrupt opponents and plays exceptionally hard every time out.

A pair of intriguing sophomore wings will have the opportunity to expand their role this season after showing bright spots as rookies. Alan Griffin has worked relentlessly in the weight room to add strength and gain weight. Already a great 3-point shooter, Griffin improved his game during the offseason and it showed during the team's Italy trip, where he averaged 16.8 points and was relentless on the offensive glass.

Tevian Jones had a breakout performance last year at Madison Square Garden, pouring in 18 points with four treys to lead the Illini to an upset win over Maryland. The versatile Jones can shoot it and soar in transition, and is continuing to make strides at both ends in the halfcourt.

Illinois inked a top-50 player for the second consecutive recruiting class with the addition of four-star center Kofi Cockburn. The Kingston, Jamaica native has only played organized basketball for four years, but he has the opportunity to make a big impact in the paint. One of the largest players ever to suit up for the Orange and Blue, Cockburn measures 7-feet, 290 pounds with a 7-6 wingspan. He is a tenacious rebounder who can score in the post and alter shots. The former track and soccer athlete has great balance and feet with his frame.

Bolstering the frontcourt are two additional freshmen. Benjamin Bosmans-Verdonk is a skilled forward from Belgium. He has impressive size for a newcomer at 6-8, 235-pounds. Bosmans-Verdonk was limited during the summer and preseason while recovering from a leg injury.

Illinois added Jermaine Hamlin to the roster prior to the start of fall semester classes. A 6-10, 235-pound center from Lincoln, Illinois, he originally planned to go the prep school route before changing course and signing with the Illini. Hamlin has talent and potential and will focus on skill development during his freshman campaign while battling with the bigs.

Illinois has two transfers who are sitting out this season and will increase the competition in practice. Junior Jacob Grandison is a versatile 6-6 player who can play on the win or at the four. He led Holy Cross in scoring (13.9 ppg) and 3-pointers while ranking second on the Crusaders in rebounding (5.0 rpg). Junior Austin Hutcherson is a 6-6 guard who was a dynamic scorer at Division III Wesleyan in Connecticut, averaging 20.0 points while shooting nearly 40 percent from 3-point land.

Providing depth and helping create a competitive environment to push the team every day in practice are three veteran walk-ons: Tyler Underwood, Samson Oladimeji and Zach Griffith.
