

Results and Conclusion Sentence Starters

Results:

(In this section you will build your table, charts, and graphs. Make sure to label everything! Each table, chart, and graph should have a description. Also, a short write-up should be included, below are some sentence starters that can be used.)

In my experiment, I found that...

The more/less..(variable), the more/less it ..(result)..

The ...that grew more had.....

In my experiment, I was....that....

I noticed (or observed)...

In my experiment, I expected that the...

These test (test # & #), produced similar results, while the # test produced, a much larger result.

Conclusion:

(In the conclusion, this is where the most explanation should be shown, based off of your observations and how the data relates to your problem. Explain what you did and what you discovered. Discuss any errors or patterns that you see. This is where you show how much you worked on this project and learned.)

This experiment was to...

In order to study this problem I...

My hypothesis was...

My results showed...

This proves my hypothesis was...

The results of this experiment are important because...

This is important because...

Based off of my findings, another experiment I could test is....