Introduction

2020 brings the start of a brand new decade and we're already immersed in the trends that this year will bring! Now's a great time to get excited about the latest decor and style trends in interior design.

Keep reading to learn more about the emerging trends we plan on seeing more often in homes based on our Fall Market Trends Report.

Integrated living spaces

Open floor plans are ideal when entertaining guests.

Practical for today's modern world (ex. For entertaining, for keeping an eye on children, etc.)

The home should be a place that is livable and comfortable.”

Colors

PANTONE COLOR OF THE YEAR:
CLASSIC BLUE IS TRENDING.

Don't be afraid to use color!

All colors are the friends of their neighbors and lovers of their opposites”

MARC CHAGALL

Pale pink and light green are also trendy.
Great colors as we head into spring!

Accessories

Accessories can make a color statement bolder

Also known as the "jewelry of the home"

Black and white in accessories make the perfect statement without going overboard. This color combination will never go out of style.

Curves

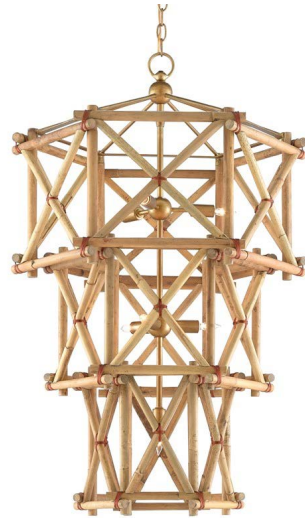

Curvy furniture is a major anticipated trend of 2020, as it's stylish, practical and easy to navigate around.

Curved furniture encourages conversation among family and friends.

Nature's influence

Nature provides us with vivid colors, striking scenery and dramatic textures that look effortlessly beautiful throughout the home.

Macramé, wicker, rattan are rough textures that work well. Rope, natural agate and burl wood are other textures to consider.

On-going trends

On-going or continuing trends are those that have been in the market for some time but show no signs of stopping any time soon.

Attention to detail is one - embroidery and stitching are a few examples.

Open floor plans

Home storage areas

Accent tables that offer conveniences – coffee tables and side tables for beverages, newspapers, etc.

Animal print – mixing animal print with other fabric and design is stylish and works well in many rooms.

Utilizing coffee table vs. ottoman

Slipcover upholstered furniture is back.

Conclusion

Whether a brand new trend caught your eye for the first time or confirmed that it's time to create that living space of your dreams, there's no better time than now to refresh your home for the new year. The market is ever-changing, but there are plenty of personal decorators at Decorating Den Interiors who can guide you in choosing a new design style in your home that can last from one season to the next.
