PROEM Fragment 1 (verses 1-32)

Translation

The mares that carry me until where my mind desires to go transported me after leaving and brought me toward the way with many voices, that belongs to the deity, that leads to all the places the man who knows; I was carried there; there in fact the wise mares brought me pulling the chariot, and maidens showed the way. 5 The axis in the hubs emitted a squeal of the concave part, inflaming (in fact it was pressed on both sides by two well-worked circles), whenever the maidens, daughters of the Sun, accelerated the race, after leaving the houses of the Night, towards the light, removing with the hand the veils from their heads. 10 There is the gate that divides the paths of Night and Day, and a lintel and a threshold of stone delimit it from above and below: it, erected in the ether, is closed by large shutters: of it Justice, which punishes severely, holds the keys that open and close. The maidens then persuading her with sweet words 15 convinced her to carefully remove for them the bar of the bolt quickly from the gate: this, opening, produced a wide gap between the shutters, by turning - in mutual relationship in the concave parts of the hinges - the bronze axes fastened with nails and clasps: beyond so directly 20 through the gate the maidens drove chariot and mares across the great road. And the benevolent goddess welcomed me, and took with her hand my right hand, and so she spoke to me: Oh young man, fellow-traveler of immortal drivers, who come to our house with the mares that take you, 25 rejoice, because not a bad fate has sent you to follow this way (in fact it is out of the path of men), but divine will and justice. It is necessary that you learn both the solid hearth of well-rounded Truth and the opinions of mortals, in which there is no real certainty. 30 But you will learn these things also, how should be really the appearances that pass all continuously.

Paraphrase of fragment 1

My philosophical and poetic inspiration, my imagination and my intelligence, which are able to bring, as fast mares, my mind until where my heart desires, led me to the way, which belongs to the deity, which leads the man who knows and who researches knowledge to know everything.

My inspiration took me, and the maidens, daughters of the Sun, illuminated my path of rational search for Truth. They took me from the houses of the Night and of human ignorance into the light of the Day and of divine knowledge. They guided me to the giant gate that divides the paths of Night and Day; Divine Law that governs the world holds the keys of the gate. The maidens, daughters of the Sun, convinced that divine guardian of the gate to open it for us: so I could access the divine knowledge. The Queen of the Gods greeted me kindly and so told me: Oh young man, who - led by inspiration and by the light of knowledge reach our house, rejoice, because not a bad fate has sent you to follow this path (it is in fact out of the path of men), but divine will and justice. It is necessary that you learn all things, both the Truth known only by the Gods and the opinions of mortals, always deceptive; you also need how to interpret the appearances

THE SPEECH ON TRUTH

Fragment 2 (verses 1-8)

If much I talk, you listen and accept my speech, which only ways of inquiry are thinkable: the first: that [Being] is and that it is not not-being,

that continuously pass before the eyes of mortals.

is the way of Persuasion (in fact it accompanies the Truth), the second: that [Being] is not and that is necessary it is not, I teach you that this is an entirely unknown way; neither in fact you could know the Non-Being (in fact it is impossible) nor you could express it.

3... τὸ γὰρ αὐτὸ νοεῖν ἐστίν τε καὶ εἶναι.

Fragment 3

... in fact it is the same to think and to be.

4

λεῦσσε δ' ὅμως ἀπεόντα νόωι παρεόντα βεβαίως·
οὐ γὰρ ἀποτμήξει τὸ ἐὸν τοῦ ἐόντος ἔχεσθαι
οὕτε σκιδνάμενον πάντηι πάντως κατὰ κόσμον οὕτε συνιστάμενον.

Fragment 4 (verses 1-4)

Consider how far things have a strong presence to mind: in fact [the mind] will not separate the being which holds narrow to the being either [when it appears] fully scattered everywhere in the cosmos or [when it appears] joined together.

5 ξυνὸν δέ μοί ἐστιν ὁππόθεν ἄρξωμαι τόθι γὰρ πάλιν ἵξομαι αὖθις.

Fragment 5 (verses 1-2)

To me it does not matter

χρὴ τὸ λέγειν τε νοεῖν τ' ἐὸν ἔμμεναι ἔστι γὰρ εἶναι, μηδὲν δ' οὐκ ἔστιν τά σ' ἐγὼ φράζεσθαι ἄνωγα. πρώτης γάρ σ' ἀφ' όδοῦ ταύτης διζήσιος αρξει, αὐτὰρ ἔπειτ' ἀπὸ τῆς, ἣν δὴ βροτοὶ εἰδότες οὐδὲν πλάττονται, δίκρανοι ἀμηχανίη γὰρ ἐν αὐτῶν στήθεσιν ἰθύνει πλακτὸν νόον οἱ δὲ φοροῦνται κωφοὶ ὁμῶς τυφλοί τε, τεθηπότες, ἄκριτα φῦλα, οἶς τὸ πέλειν τε καὶ οὐκ εἶναι ταὐτὸν νενόμισται κοὐ ταὐτόν, πάντων δὲ παλίντροπός ἐστι κέλευθος.

Fragment 6 (verses 1-9)

It is necessary to say and think that Being is; nothingness is not: I order you to declare these things. In fact you'll begin from this first way of inquiry, but then from that invented by mortals who know nothing, men with two heads: the uncertainty in fact guides in their hearts the wandering mind: and they are dragged, stupid and also obtuse, astonished, confused races, for which Being and Non-Being are regarded as the same thing and not the same thing, and the walk of all things is reversible.

Fragment 7 (verses 1-6)

Certainly this thing can never be imposed, that there are things that are not:

but you remove your thought from this way of inquiry nor long habit push you along this way, to direct the eye that does not look and the resounding ear and the tongue, but judge by reasoning the hard-fought proof exhibited by me.

Fragment 8 (verses 1-61)

Remains still an only speech of the way [what says] It is: on this [way] there are many signs, that Being is not-generated and undying,
entire and motionless and endless;
not sometimes it was nor sometimes it will be, because it is now, whole together, one, continuous: which origin in fact will you search of it?
How and whence would it grow? From Non-Being I will not allow you to say or to think: in fact What Is Not is absolutely unutterable and unthinkable. What necessity would push it, if it originated from nothing, to be born after or before?
So it is necessary or that it is entirely or that it is not at all.

Never force of certainty will concede that from Being something arises next to it: because of this the Justice did not allow it to be born or to die loosening it from the chains, but she holds it still; choice about these things is this: is or is not; it was therefore decided, as is necessary, to abandon an unthinkable and unutterable way (in fact it is not the way of Truth), and that the other really exists.

15

	πῶς δ' ἂν ἔπειτα πέλοι τὸ ἐόν; πῶς δ' ἄν κε γένοιτο;
20	εὶ γὰρ ἔγεντ', οὺκ ἔστ', οὺδ' εἴ ποτε μέλλει ἔσεσθαι
	τως γένεσις μεν ἀπέσβεσται καὶ ἄπυστος ὅλεθρος.
	οὐδὲ διαιρετόν ἐστιν, ἐπεὶ πᾶν ἐστιν όμοῖον:
	οὐδέ τι τῆι μάλλον, τό κεν εἴργοι μιν συνέχεσθαι.
	οὐδέ τι χειρότερον, παν δ' ἔμπλεόν ἐστιν ἐόντος.
25	τωι ξυνεχές παν έστιν έδν γάρ έδντι πελάζει.
	αὐτὰρ ἀκίνητον μεγάλων ἐν πείρασι δεσμών
	ἔστιν ἄναρχον ἄπαυστον, επεὶ γένεσις καὶ ὅλεθρος τῆλε μάλ' ἐπλάχθησαν, ἀπῶσε δὲ πίστις ἀληθής.
	ταὐτόν τ' ἐν ταὐτωι τε μένον καθ' ἐαυτό τε κείται
30	χοῦτως ἔμπεδον αὖθι μένει κρατερὴ γὰρ ἀνάγκη
	πείρατος έν δεσμοίσιν έχει, τό μιν άμφις έέργει, οὕνεκεν οὐκ ἀτελεύτητον τὸ ἐὸν θέμις εἶναι·
	έστι γὰρ οὐκ ἐπιδευές: ἐὸν δ' ἄν παντὸς ἐδεῖτο.

How might Being arise later? How could it be born? In fact, if it was born, it is not, nor it is if is going to be. 20 Thus the birth is off and the death is unknown. Neither it is divided, because it is all homogeneous: neither there is somewhere a more [of being], which can prevent it from being united, nor a less, but it is all full of being. So it is all continuous: being in fact approaches to being. 25 But motionless within the limits of great bonds, it is without a beginning and without an end, since the birth and death were rejected very far, a real certainty expelled them. And remaining the same in the same place, it lies in itself and so it remains here steady: in fact the hard Necessity 30 holds it in the bonds of the limit, shuts it around, since it is established that Being is complete: in fact it does not need anything; otherwise it would lack everything.

ταὐτὸν δ' ἐστί νοείν τε καὶ οὕνεκεν ἔστι νόημα.

35 οὐ γὰρ ἄνευ τοῦ ἐόντος, ἐν ὧι πεφατισμένον ἐστιν,
εὐρήσεις τὸ νοεῖν οὐδὲν γὰρ <ῆ> ἔστιν ἣ ἔσται
ἄλλο πάρεξ τοῦ ἐόντος, ἐπεὶ τό γε Μοῖρ' ἐπέδησεν

Thinking and that because of there is thinking are the same thing. In fact without Being, in which it is expressed, you will not find thinking: in fact nothing else exists or will exist outside of Being, as the Fate forced it

35

οὖλον ἀκίνητόν τ' ἔμεναι· τῶι πάντ' ὄνομ(α) ἔσται,

ὅσσα βροτοὶ κατέθεντο πεποιθότες εἶναι ἀληθῆ,

γίγνεσθαί τε καὶ ὅλλυσθαι, εἶναί τε καὶ οὐχί,

καὶ τόπον ἀλλάσσειν διά τε χρόα φανὸν ἀμείβειν.

αὐτὰρ ἐπεὶ πεῖρας πύματον, τετελεσμένον ἐστί,

πάντοθεν εὐκύκλου σφαίρης ἐναλέγκιον ὄγκωι,

μεσσόθεν ἰσοπαλὲς πάντηι· τὸ γὰρ οὔτε τι μείζον

όὔτε τι βαιότερον πελέναι χρεόν ἐστι τῆι ἣ τῆι.

to be whole and motionless; to this One so many names will be assigned as many are the things that mortals proposed, believing that they were true, that they were born and perish, that they exist and do not exist, that they changed the place and their bright color.

But since there is an extreme limit, it is limited, on all sides like the mass of well-rounded sphere, from the center equal in every part: in fact it is necessary that it is not larger nor smaller in one part or another.

οὔτε γὰρ οὐκ ἐόν ἔστι, τό κεν παύοι μιν ἱκνεῖσθαι εἰς ὁμόν, οὕτ' ἐὸν ἔστιν ὅπως εἴη κεν ἐόντος τῆι μαλλον τῆι ἦσσον, ἐπεὶ πᾶν ἔστιν ἄσυλοι, οἶ γὰρ πάντοθεν ἶσον, ὁμῶς ἐν πείρασι κύρει.

50 ἐν τῶι σοι παύω πιστὸν λόγον ἦδὲ νόημα ἀμφὶς ἀληθείης δόξας δ' ἀπὸ τοῦδε βροτείας μάνθανε κόσμον ἐμῶν ἐπέων ἀπατηλὸν ἀκούων.

Neither indeed there is a Non-Being, which can make it desist from coming to be the same [across all its surface], nor it is possible that Being belongs to Being more here and less there, since it is all not forced: in fact equal on all sides to itself, equally it touches the borders. Now I interrupt the trustworthy speech and reflection about truth: henceforth learn the opinions of mortals listening to the deceptive construction of my words.

THE SPEECH ON OPINIONS

Il discorso sull'Opinione

μορφάς γάρ κατέθεντο δύο γνώμας ὀνομάζειν, των μίαν ου χρεών έστιν - έν ωι πεπλανημένοι είσίν τάντία δ' έκρίναντο δέμας καὶ σήματ' ἔθεντο 55 χωρίς ἀπ' άλλήλων, τῆι μεν φλογὸς αἰθέριον πύρ. ήπιον ὄν, μέγ' ἐλαφρόν, ἐωυτῶι πάντοσε τωὐτόν, τῶι δ' ἐτέρωι μὴ τωὐτὸν ἀτὰρ κὰκεῖνο κατ' αὐτὸ τάντία νύκτ' άδαῆ, πυκινὸν δέμας έμβριθές τε. τόν σοι ἐγὼ διάκοσμον εοικότα πάντα φατίζω, 60 ώς οὐ μή ποτέ τίς σε βροτῶν γνώμη παρελάσσηι.

In fact they proposed to call "forms" two opinions, one of which is not necessary - in this they were wrong and they distinguished them as opposite things and assigned names to them 55 separately from each other, on the one hand the celestial fire of the flame [of the sun] which is benign, light, identical to itself in every part, but not identical to the other; but [they suggested] also the other thing on its own as opposite things, the dark night, dense and heavy body. To you I completely expose the likely cosmic order 60 so some opinion of mortals will never surpass you.

αὐτὰρ ἐπειδὴ πάντα φάος καὶ νὺξ ὀνόμασται καὶ τὰ κατὰ σφετέρας δυνάμεις ἐπὶ τοῖσί τε καὶ τοῖς, πᾶν πλέον ἐστὶν ὁμοῦ φάεος καὶ νυκτὸς ἀφάντου ἴσων ἀμφοτέρων, ἐπεὶ οὐδετέρωι μέτα μηδέν.

Fragment 9 (verses 1-4)

But since all entities are named light and night and these two, according to their powers, [are applied] to these or those, everything is full at the same time of light and dark night of both in the right proportions, since, if neither the one nor the other is present, there is nothing.

Paraphrase of difficult verses of fragments 8 and 9

Verses 8,5-15

Being not sometimes in the past was and then it was over, not sometimes in the future will begin to be but now is not, but it exists now, all together, one, continuous.

Being can be born neither from Non-Being, that is, from nothingness, because Non-Being does not exist and is unthinkable and unutterable, nor can be born from Being: if Being beget another being beside itself, there would be a quantity of being greater than before; so this more of being, this part of being born now, would appear "ex novo", so - although deriving from Being - would emerge however from nothingness, from Non-Being. Therefore the divine law did not allow it to be born or to die, but keeps it still tying with chains.

Verse 8,20

In fact, if it was born, it is not existing forever; and it is not existing forever, if it is going to be born.

Verses 8,22-25

In these verses Parmenides affirms the continuity of Being inside itself: it is not internally divided by parts of itself apparently more concentrated (such as a wall or a mountain) or by parts of itself that seem to be less dense (such as air): Being is homogeneous, of the same density everywhere.

Verses 8,42-49

These verses are not a repetition of the previous concept of the verses 8,22-25.

Here Parmenides no longer speaks of the homogeneity and continuity of Being inside itself, but of the uniformity of its outer surface. Its outer surface is not more protruding at one point and less in another, because outside of Being there is no other thing that can "force" it, that is: a) press on its surface, producing projections or recesses on it depending on the lesser or greater pressure exerted on it, or b) despoil it of a part.

Therefore, Being can freely press from the inside to the surface of the sphere and of its own border with equal pressure from all sides: therefore it resembles a sphere.

Verses 8,53-59

In fact, since ancient times men individuated two opinions, two appearances, and mistakenly believed that they were two real entities, whereas it was only one – at that time historically their mistake and their wrong way of interpreting reality began –, regarded them as opposite things and gave them two distinct names, and called the one Light, which is benign and very slight, the other called Darkness, which is dark, dense and heavy.

Fragment 9

But since - according to human opinion - all the entities are made of light and darkness, and these, mixing in various proportions, constitute them, all things are made of light and darkness, because, if both were absent, there would be nothing.
