Career and Technical Education Industry Certifications

The Industry Certification Guide for 2007 has been prepared by the Career and Technical Education (CTE) staff of the Texas Education Agency (TEA) as a resource for educators, industry partners, and parents.

Earning an industry certification has many benefits. It gives students a sense of accomplishment, a highly valued professional credential, and helps students become more employable with higher starting salaries. Valid reliable certifications are also evidence of technical skill attainment. Industry certifications, therefore, are an important component of a CTE program of study.

Certification opportunities are one avenue through which CTE fulfills its goals under the state law: Section §29.181 Texas Education Code, Each public school student shall master the basic skills and knowledge necessary for: (1) managing the dual roles of family member and wage earner; and (2) gaining entry-level employment in a high-skill, high-wage job or continuing the student's education at the postsecondary level.

TEA does not endorse or recommend any particular certificate or license, but provides as many resources as possible for districts to enhance students' professional growth and development. Before offering certifications, districts should consult with local business and industry partners to determine which certifications or licensures would be most valued by local employers. In some instances, certain certifications may be best accomplished in partnership with postsecondary programs.

Certifications are presented in alphabetical order in the guidebook. The crosswalk document categorizes certifications to one or more of the 16 national career clusters. The framework for the guide is based on a renewed vision for CTE programs for the 21st century. The Carl D. Perkins Career and Technical Education Act of 2006 envisions that all students will achieve challenging academic and technical standards and be prepared for high-skill, high-wage, or high-demand occupations in current or emerging professions.

School districts are required to report the extent of technical skill attainment in their annual Perkins application/evaluation. Students earning industry recognized certifications and licensures is one way to determine the extent of technical skill attainment in Texas.

The TEA staff will endeavor to keep information current with the help of CTE administrators and teachers as well as representatives from business and industry. Suggestions or comments can be submitted to career@tea.state.tx.us.
