The Open Distance Learning (ODL) Method Explained

What is 'Open' about the OUSL?

At the OUSL we believe that anyone who wants to study further should be given the opportunity to do so. We have an 'open admissions policy' supported by a ladder of opportunities from pre-degree to postgraduate qualifications. We also encourage the concept of lifelong learning – that you should be able to pursue education at any point in your life, at your own pace and according to your interests.

If you are 18 years of age, you are eligible to register for a broad mix of courses offered by the OUSL. However, at the moment some programmes have selection tests as the demand for them always exceed our capacity to cater to them.

What is distance learning?

Unlike in the conventional university system where it is compulsory to attend lectures and be physically present in the university, the learning method at the OUSL enables students to study from their homes and workplaces without regularly visiting the university.

The support you receive as a distance learner includes;

- Printed course modules and audio-visual material written by specialised Course Teams,
- Online connectivity, and
- Day Schools and seminars to provide face to face interaction with your lecturers.

When you register with us you are given your course material in printed and/or audio-visual form. Some of the courses are fully online and you are provided with instructions on how to use the online courses.

You are also given a study pack consisting of guidelines and procedures, your assignments and an activity schedule for the relevant academic year. The student guidelines explain all you need to know about particular programmes and the level for which you have registered. The activity schedule gives you all the information regarding your assignment submission dates, Day Schools and examination dates.

What are Day Schools?

Day Schools provide opportunities for you to meet your teachers. An academic member of staff is appointed as a Module Leader for each course. These are academics from the department who are responsible for the development of the course and for ensuring that your learning experience is of high quality. Visiting Academics who work with the Module Leaders support students in all regional and study centres where Day Schools are held. When you attend a Day School, you are able to discuss and solve your learning difficulties by discussing them with your Day School academic. You can also make an appointment and meet the Module Leader during weekdays or get in touch with them online at any time.

What are Course Materials?

The printed course material you receive when you register with us is called the 'Tutor in Print'. Sometimes your course material is provided online. The course materials are a substitute for the lectures conducted in the conventional system. The course materials are specially written for the OUSL by experts in each field. These include academic staff from the OUSL as well as academics from other local and sometimes international universities. They are interactive in style and contain in-text questions, activities, and review questions for students to reflect on the work and for self-assessment.

Sometimes your course materials are in the form of audio and visual material (Interactive Multi Media (IMM) or online material and activities. IMM constitutes a combination of printed material/ CD/DVD/ online materials which include reading material and assignments. Fully online courses are offered as well, where all the teaching and learning takes place through this medium.

The OUSL has developed a network of regional and study centres throughout the island. These centres are used for the distribution of course materials, to provide library facilities, for submission of assignments, and sometime for Registration and Day School sessions. You can check-in at the regional or study centre nearest to you and register for your programmes.

What is a Study Programme?

A study programme is a combination of compulsory and elective courses which leads to a Certificate, Diploma, Degree or Postgraduate degree, on successful completion.

Over 30,000
registered students are studying at the Open University

Many of them pursue tertiary education while being employed

What are Continuing Education Courses?

Continuing Education (CE) courses are offered to students who are registered for regular study programmes. Students can choose to follow these courses if they wish to expand their knowledge in areas that interest them. For instance, the BA in Social Sciences offers a range of CE course for students such as Statistics for Social Sciences, Soft Skills and Social Harmony etc. Some of these CE courses may be compulsory for certain Study Programmes.

What is credit rating?

All Study Programmes and courses are given a specific credit rating. This represents the academic value and work load of a course or a programme. It also reflects the time that should be spent on the course. At the OUSL, one credit is defined as 50 notional learning hours. When a credit rating is allocated to a course, it takes into account the time you need to spend on all the activities that you need to do to successfully complete a course. This includes reading and understanding course materials, face to face sessions, continuous assessments, final examinations, reading reference material etc.

What is a Course Code?

Each course that is offered at the OUSL is assigned a course code. This code gives a unique identity to the course. Course codes consists of 3 letters and 4 digits for example, SSU2207. The first two letters of all the courses offered by the SSD will have the letters 'SS'. The letter 'u' refers to undergraduate level courses. The OUSL which is in the process of implementing the Sri Lanka Qualification Framework (SLQF) is converting its course codes to be compatible with SLQF.

The SLQF Course Codes

The SLQF is a nationally consistent framework for all higher education qualifications offered in Sri Lanka. The Department of Social Studies is also converting its course codes to be compatible with SLQF. The new code for the department will be DS and will come into effect in January 2018 with the implementation of the Sri Lanka Qualification Framework (SLQF).

Certificate in Social Sciences

Diploma in Youth Development

BA in Social Sciences

How do I decide on my workload?

If you register for a regular study programme such as the Certificate course, BA or MA, you may register for a minimum of 9 credits or a maximum of 36 credits per year. Additionally, you may register for up to 9 credits of CE courses.

When you decide on your workload, please consider the number of hours you will have to spend for each course. For example, if you register for a total of 30 credits you will have to allocate at least 28 hours per week for your studies.

You need to assess if you have this kind of time available for studying before you decide on an appropriate workload for yourself. Remember, one of the advantages of studying at the OUSL is that you can study at your own pace.

So adjust your workload according to how much time you can commit for your learning process.

Can I continue my studies while living abroad?

Yes, you can! Students can continue their studies while living abroad. However, you need to maintain close contact with your course leader to make sure you fulfil the assessment requirements of your courses

Final examinations may be organized outside the country through the relevant Sri Lankan Embassies. Students are expected to make contact with the Sri Lankan embassy in those countries and obtain their consent to hold examinations when necessary. This needs to be done well in advance to enable the Examination Division of the OUSL to make arrangements through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Alternatively, the students can contact a nearby university of their choice and get their consent to supervise the examination. The candidate will be expected to meet the costs of these examinations abroad. These costs may vary considerably.

However, please note that the possibility of holding examinations in a foreign country depends on the willingness of an institution (university/embassy) agreeing to hold them. We cannot guarantee that these institutions will agree.

Student Life

One of the advantages of the OUSL is that you will be part of an extremely diverse student population. We have students from all over the country, employed students, and students from different age groups and ethnic backgrounds. This will give you the opportunity to interact with different types of people and to share experiences with them.

“ While studying at the department of Social Studies we have broadened our horizons through a global perspective and developed a lasting passion for learning. ”

“ My situation is a good example of how the OUSL is flexible, open and willing to give a chance for anybody to become one of their students. I lived in Italy since I was 1-year-old and after completing a Diploma in Hospitality Management and a Degree in Economics, I decided that it was time for me to come back to my motherland. After coming here, I started to work in my family business and at the same time I wanted to continue my studies. I knew this course was going to give me a chance to study in-depth according to my interests.

I will never forget my first Day School; higher education wasn't something new for me, but it was my very first Sri Lankan educational experience. It was very interesting to see such a diversity of students, from different ethnicities, different ages, some that have just completed A' levels and others who were working, married and have kids. Study material is excellently written in a simple way with a clear focus about the topics. My first year is almost over; I can't deny that it was a hard learning experience. We have to make our studies fit like pieces of a puzzle with the rest of our life commitments. But this allowed me not only to learn so much and fulfil my academic goals, but also I learned what is time management, which is something essential for a successful life. This was my first year in this country and I don't exaggerate when I say that OUSL helped me to integrate in this society. What I learned at the University helped me to understand why things are the way they are, it makes me hunger for knowledge and I'm looking forward to learning more in the coming years. I'm very proud to study in an institute where, as I said before, your age, the place you live and your occupation don't matter. If you are keen to study, OUSL will give you the best chance ”

“ Students who have studied at the Department of Social Studies have an insightful understanding of the subject matter. ”

Anushke Bandara, Assistant Director,
OUSL Kandy Regional Centre

You might think that being a distance mode student, you will not be able to experience a ‘batch’ like your peers in the conventional system. That is not true, as we encourage you to take an active part in the student life of the university, to engage with other students and to make the fullest use of the extremely unique opportunities presented through the diversity of students of the OUSL.

The university regularly hosts activities. The SSD for example hosts various seminars, talks and film shows.

These are often open to students as well. These are advertised within the department and on the website.

“ The propitious experience at OUSL!

I am a practicing psychological counsellor. I found my way to the Open University for few reasons. The main one being the distance learning mechanism available at the university. Next is the uncomplicated entry path for different fields of studies. I enrolled myself to study Politics & International Relations which was an entirely new field of study for me. I came across friendly, young lecturers who were very talented and supportive while some were senior lecturers who are inspirational personnel in their respective fields. Altogether they made the learning experience challenging to meet high standards of education and to produce a good group of practitioners to the field of Social Sciences: not to become some graduate. The other reason that made me interested about OUSL is the availability of a continuous learning pathway. The assessment methods were also very effective given the variety of methods they used including Take-Home Assignments, Closed Book Tests, Open Book Tests, MCQ Tests, Structured Essay Type Tests, Essay Type Tests, Oral Presentations, Project or Internship and most interestingly the Online Assignments. There were also enough opportunities for the participants of the course to hang around and network: near the milk bar, canteen is some places I used to hangout. The library facility is also an invaluable facility that helped me so much not only for the relevant subjects of the course but to explore many other fields of interest.”

Does the Open University have student unions?

Yes. OUSL has its own student union. We encourage you to find out about the student union and to get involved. Our faculty believes in student rights and two students are elected from the HSS Faculty to represent student issues to the Faculty Board. Student representation at the Faculty Board is a medium through which you can ensure that your interests are represented to the faculty and get heard.

The effectiveness of this opportunity that is presented to you depends on the level of interest you take in making sure your views are represented among the student body.

Using these student unions, you can establish a relationship with the University in order to have access to university facilities and services easily.

So we encourage you to network and get to know your fellow students and to organise yourself!

“The change in our attitudes and approaches to learning is remarkable.”

“ Having received my results for the GCE Advanced Level Examinations in 2015, I had to make the hard choice of what degree to follow and most importantly which university to choose. Considering the pros and cons of many universities I wished to enrol, I am glad to have chosen the Open University of Sri Lanka. The main advantage of the distance learning methods facilitated by the OUSL is that it allows you to fit your learning around your work and home life. The idea of having to spend considerable amount of time travelling and attend long hours of lectures everyday wasn't something that sounded pleasing to me.

Distant learning, though may be a new concept here in Sri Lanka, is something that is getting popular world-wide due to its high level of flexibility and ability to study while working. The high quality and self-study facilitating course materials, lecturers who can be contacted anytime via email and the well-equipped and resourceful library added to the benefits I personally experienced. The calm environment and the green surroundings within the university also makes the learning process more interesting.

Being a part of a class with a mix of students from different ethnicities and cultures has broadened our ways of thinking. We are encouraged to think in different ways and break stereotypes. The fruitful discussions in day schools help in the expression of various ideas and we are always taught to respect differences in thinking and in opinions.

All in all, choosing to do my BA in Social Sciences at OUSL is one of the most significant decisions I will never regret having taken! ”

Your progress in a course that you are registered for is assessed periodically through continuous assessment tests. There can be several CAs per course.

There are different types of CAs such as Open Book Tests (OBTs), Multiple Choice Questions (MCQs), Close Book Tests (CBTs), Oral Presentations and Learning Journals. You may also be assessed on your participation in online forums. Oral presentations can be conducted in three methods such as group presentations, poster presentations and in oral form.
