Li'l Ladybird

The red ladybird is missing something. Can you spot them?

Help your preschooler cut out the ladybird and its eyes; stick the eyes in place; then colour the spots in any manner — using crayon, watercolours, etc. Make the spots colourful. Once done, how about a pretend play?

How this activity helps?

Your preschooler puts together the ladybird — sticks the eyes and colours the spots. Introduce your child to the ladybird through a story — where it lives, how it goes from place to place, etc.

Insect Trails

Look at the spider and the grasshopper. Don't they seem lost?

Help your preschooler draw on the dotted lines and guide the insects to their respective places.

How this activity helps?

Your preschooler patiently traces on the dotted lines. This enhances the grip and visual tracking skill. Encourage your child to describe each insect. Where are each of them headed?

Big & Small Butterflies

There's a BIG butterfly, then a small butterfly. And, their colours are missing.

Help your preschooler colour the scenery. Read each sentence aloud and point at the butterflies.

How this activity helps?

Your preschooler tries to understand proportion through the illustrations. Help your child build a story about a big butterfly and a small one. Where could they be going?

Missing Letters

The first letter of each insect's name is missing. Can you find the missing letter?

Help your preschooler fill the first letter to complete the name of each insect. The illustrations are the clues. Introduce the insect name. Eg: B for butterfly.

_utterfly

_nail

_pider

_osquito

_adybug

How this activity helps?

Your preschooler tries to find and write the missing letters. This is about learning how each letter looks. Let your child pick out an insect and then build a simple story about it.
