Hello USF Graduate Students!

As Dean and Associate Dean of the Office of Graduate Studies (OGS), we are very pleased to provide you with this Graduate Student Life Guide. We know that graduate education represents a major transition for many of you, and we hope to facilitate your integration into the University and the Tampa Bay region through the information this Guide contains. We hope you will find it useful not only in navigating the various on-campus elements that comprise your graduate education, but also for the insights it provides about various offices, activities, and assistance that exist throughout the greater Tampa Bay region. This document could not be what it is today without the revisions and updates of Nadege Nau, our Graduate Student Services Coordinator.

We learned a lot about resiliency and possibilities during the 2020-21 academic year. With that knowledge, OGS is committed to further enhancing opportunities to assist you in navigating the ups and downs of graduate study. There are many resources (both face-to-face and virtual) that are offered to support you socially and professionally. We are especially pleased to offer a variety of professional development opportunities designed to hone your job skills, as well as wellness activities to help with work/life balance. Beyond what OGS has to offer, we encourage you to become active with the Graduate and Professional Student Council (www.gpsc.usf.edu) and other student organizations, especially those in your college. As graduate students with interests that differ somewhat from undergraduates, your voices need to be heard and there are many opportunities to do so through your departments, schools, colleges, and, of course, the OGS. The OGS staff and leadership are squarely focused on service, leadership and research, and we are here to partner with you, your departments/schools and colleges to prepare you to be Global Leaders--One Scholar at a Time!

It is our hope that you will continue to find this guide useful as a reference as you proceed in your graduate education and that you take the time to visit OGS often and routinely consult our website at www.grad.usf.edu. As outlined in the guide, this website contains a wealth of detailed information related to many issues critical to student success.

In closing, let us welcome you again to the University of South Florida, the Office of Graduate Studies, as well as to your college and department/school. We are so pleased that you have joined our dynamic community of graduate scholars and wish you much success in all of your endeavors.

Sincerely,

Dwayne Smith

Public Schools

Education in the U.S. is provided primarily by the public sector, and child education is obligatory. Education is divided in three levels:

- Elementary School – Offers primary education and does not always include pre-school education. Typically, students attend elementary school from kindergarten to 5th grade (5-6 years).
- Middle School – It is also known as junior high school, and it was created to bridge the gap between the elementary and the high school. The grades included in middle school are 6th, 7th, and 8th.
- High School – It is also known as secondary education. The grades included in high school are 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th.

Students attend the school that is designated to their place of residence. Below are the links to find the schools that correspond to your area of residence:
