*BlackRock CollegeAdvantage has been awarded the Bronze medal rating as of October 26, 2021. The Morningstar Analyst Rating™ for 529 plans is expressed on a five-tier scale running from Gold to Negative. The top three ratings of Gold, Silver, and Bronze all indicate that Morningstar analysts think highly of a 529 plan. The difference between them corresponds to differences in the level of analyst conviction in a plan's ability to continue following best practices and offer investments that will collectively outperform peers on a risk-adjusted basis over a holding period of at least five years. Morningstar analysts look for plans that follow several best practices across key pillars of evaluation, including but not limited to: ensuring the age-based or target-enrollment options utilize a well-researched asset-allocation approach and a robust process for selecting underlying investments; offering an appropriate set of options to meet investor needs; hiring a skilled investment management team to oversee the lineup; utilizing talented investment managers that underpin the investment options; tapping investment managers with exemplary stewardship practices; strong oversight from the state; keeping fees low relative to peers. For more detailed information about Morningstar's Analyst Rating for 529 Plans please go to <https://www.morningstar.com/content/dam/marketing/shared/pdfs/Research/962834.pdf>. The Morningstar Analyst Rating for 529 Plans should not be used as the sole basis for evaluating a 529 plan. [†] Expenses for room and board and computer equipment and technology are subject to certain eligibility requirements. [‡] Amounts paid as principal or interest on a qualified education loan. Amount that may be treated as qualified expense shall not exceed $10,000 as a lifetime cap per beneficiary. [§] Expenses for books, supplies, and equipment required for a program registered with the U.S. Department of Labor. [¶] Considered a qualified expense for U.S. tax purposes. For state tax treatment, check your individual state guidelines. Not all states consider this a qualified expense.

529 plans: The #1 misconception

Myth: Investing in a 529 plan inhibits financial aid eligibility.

Reality: 529 plan assets have a relatively small effect on federal financial aid eligibility because they are considered assets of the 529 plan account owner. Assuming the owner is the parent, the 529 assets are factored into the expected family contribution at a rate of 5.64%, just like any other parental asset. In comparison, any investment assets in the student's name (e.g., UTMA/UGMA accounts) are assessed at 20%.

* Withdrawals from a 529 plan are tax-free when used for qualified higher education expenses, which include tuition, mandatory fees, books, supplies, and for certain computer technology and equipment, room, board and off-campus housing expenses (as long as the cost does not exceed the cost of on-campus housing). Beginning in 2018, 529 plans can potentially be used to pay up to $10,000 in tuition expenses at elementary or secondary public, private or parochial schools. Non-qualified withdrawals are subject to a 10% federal penalty as well as federal, state and local income tax. † Inclusive of all gifts to the beneficiary, not just contributions to a 529 plan. An accelerated gifting tax provision, unique to 529 plan contributions, allows you to apply up to 5 years of gifts in a single year ($80,000/$160,000 maximum limits). Considered a completed gift, assets are thereby removed from your taxable estate. Consult your tax advisor for any limitations. ‡ Contributions can be made until the account value of all CollegeAdvantage accounts for the beneficiary reaches $517,000. However the assets in the account are free to grow without limit.

Find a solution that works for you

Your investment strategy should match your college savings goals. BlackRock CollegeAdvantage offers three distinct investment approaches, allowing you and your financial advisor to choose the option that best fits your needs.

	How it works	May be a good option if...
Target date investment options	Choose a portfolio based on intended enrollment date and the target date in the portfolio name is the approximate date when an investor plans to start withdrawing money.	You want an approach that will go to work for you, since it automatically adjusts to a more conservative allocation over time.
Target risk investment options	Based on your preferred risk exposure, select a portfolio that aims to deliver this consistent risk level over time.	You want a certain level of risk and the flexibility to adjust in the future.
Single strategy investment options*	Pick from our menu of 17 investments to build a customized portfolio.	You want complete control over your investment selections.

The Target Date and Target Risk investment options invest in underlying funds that are managed by BlackRock, including BlackRock mutual funds and iShares funds.

The principal value of the funds is not guaranteed at any time including at the target date.

* Not all investment options are available at all firms. Investment options are subject to change.

Target date investment options

Let BlackRock do the work for you. BlackRock CollegeAdvantage target date options automatically reallocate to become more conservative as the anticipated college enrollment date grows closer.
