Questions

What is Make Music Day?

Make Music Day is an annual celebration that occurs each June 21, when people in more than 750 cities around the world make music together on the summer solstice.

In 1982, Jack Lang and the staff of France's Ministry of Culture created a new kind of musical holiday they called Fête de la Musique, which means both "festival of music" and "make music!" They imagined a day where free, live music would be everywhere: street corners, parks, rooftops, gardens, storefronts, and mountaintops. Everyone was invited to join and play music, or to host performances, wherever they were. The Fête has turned into a national music-making holiday in France every June 21, on the summer solstice. According to surveys, almost 8% of the country—5 million people—have played an instrument or sung in public for the Fête de la Musique.

Today, Make Music Day has become an international phenomenon, with millions of musicians of all styles, all ages, and all skill levels reimagining their cities as stages, and using music to spread joy to their communities. And Make Music Day is spreading quickly in the United States.

Why join Make Music Day?

Make Music Day brings joy, inspires creativity, and transforms communities. It celebrates and promotes the natural music maker in all of us, regardless of ability. Make Music Day events turn sidewalks and streets into impromptu stages; lets amateur musicians share their passion and gain confidence; and gives established artists in all genres a chance to perform for new audiences. Special Make Music Day initiatives, like free instrument lessons and "Mass Appeal" events, invite everyone to join–even if they've never picked up an instrument before in their lives.

And for those whose life's work is to create more music-makers, it's the perfect opportunity to spread the message of musical participation. Over the years, Make Music Day has earned hundreds of millions of media impressions, including coverage from:

By hosting Make Music Day events, music instrument retailers and manufacturers can capitalize on this opportunity to get everyone talking about the power of music, and the joy of making it yourself.

Who Participates in Make Music Day?

Currently, plans are underway by local organizers in 750 cities in 120 countries to hold official, citywide celebrations of music on June 21 with free, openly accessible concerts, music lessons, and participatory performances. Many others in smaller communities – including music stores – are planning their own events on June 21 and organizing music events for their neighborhood, for their block, or for their parking lot.

In 2017, 50 cities in 31 U.S. states will join the celebration. You can find links to participating cities and ways to get started at makemusicday.org.

Section 2 Ideas to Get Involved

Does Your City Have a Local Music Day Chapter?

Visit makemusicday.org to find a list of official Make Music Day cities

If your answer is...

YES

CONNECT LOCALLY

Introduce yourself to your local organizer.
 They are there to help promote your event, coordinate it with others nearby, and secure permits (if required). Find their website and contact info at makemusicday.org.

Aside from hosting a Make Music Day event of your own, consider:

- Offering to serve on the local Make Music Day organizing committee, and host meetings in your store.
- Providing materials or equipment for Make Music Day events.
- Reviewing options for your company logo to be visible as part of a Make Music Day Event

2. Decide where you want to have your event. Most successful Make Music Day events happen outdoors, where they can be seen (and heard) by all who pass by. If you have a sidewalk in front of your store, or a parking lot, or a front porch, or a nearby park, these can all be great options.

3. Register your location on the local Make Music Day website.

Make Music Day cities use an online registration platform where you can easily sign up and provide the details of your event. Once you register, if a permit is required for what you want to do, the local organizer will secure it for you or tell you what to do next. If you want to use a large public space, check in with the organizer first to see what's available.

If your answer is...

NO

CONNECT NATIONALLY

1. Introduce yourself to the national Make Music Day organization.

If your community does not have a local Make Music Day branch, you can still be included in relevant national promotions. Email Aaron Friedman at the Make Music Alliance (aaron@makemusicday.org) with a few sentences about what you're interested in doing for Make Music Day.

2. Decide where you want to have your event. Most successful Make Music Day events happen outdoors, where they can be seen (and heard) by all who pass by. We suggest choosing a location on private property where permits are not a concern. You can also think about partnering with a local school, community center, library, park, or church and using their space.

Register your location on the national Make Music Day website.

Visit makemusicday.org/cities, select "Other Cities" at the bottom of the page, create an account, and fill in your event information. Don't worry if you don't have all the details confirmed yet – you can always log back in and make changes.

Ideas to Get Involved

- Invite your customers or community groups to participate in a public, hands-on, music-making event at your business or at a local park.
  - Host a drum circle
  - Teach first-time musicians how to play the ukulele or harmonica
  - Host a guitar strum-along for customers and community members
- · Host a day of outdoor concerts for the lesson-taking students in your community.
  - If you're in an area with a local Make Music Day organizer, reach out to them for help promoting your event to musicians all over the city
  - Host a jam session: Invite customers, their friends, your employees, and the community as a whole to bring their musical instruments to your business for a Make Music Day jam session.
- · Create an instrument-making percussion event for young children.
  - Ask children to bring a coffee can and provide construction paper for decoration
  - Partner with a local hardware store for a hands-on percussion fun day
  - Create frame drums easily with packing tape and picture frames
- · Host a concert or a battle of the bands.
  - Invite a school chorus, church group, or other community band to perform at your business. If you register with your local Make Music Day website, you can find local musicians on the "matchmaking" site and invite them to perform at your location.

For advice and more information on getting involved, contact Aaron Friedman at aaron@makemusicday.org.

Section 3 Ideas for a Public Relations Timeline

Hosting a Make Music Day event is a wonderful way to make music in your community and to raise awareness that music making is for everyone. For tips, media contact details, and more information, contact Samantha Prince at samanthap@namm.org.

Sample Make Music Day Project Timelines – jump in at any time!

- a) Create a Save the Date message and start thinking about the type of event you'll hold and who will manage it.
- b) Decide on the resources needed to have a successful event: Most Make Music Day events have a homegrown, grassroots feeling – don't feel that you need to rent a huge stage in order to have a successful event.
- c) Make contact with a nearby Make Music Day city organizer, if available in your area.
- d) Download Make Music Day logos available on makemusicday.org/media to promote June 21 activities.
- Post! Begin using social media channels, newsletters, your website, etc., to publicize your event participation to your customers, clients, and social media followers.

- a) Create marketing collateral to promote your event. Post fliers in your business windows and promote the event(s) on your website. If you are registered on a local Make Music Day city website, download the customized PDF posters for your event.
- b) Customize the press release templates (see Section 5) for your event and email it to local TV, radio, blogs, newspapers, entertainment weeklies, local business and trade publications. Follow up with the key publications/writers by telephone in order to make sure it was received, and to answer any questions.

- a) If you have not already, customize the press release that works best for your store or event and send it to your local newspaper, radio and TV stations editor or photo editor by email.
- b) Call local media to make sure they received your release and invite them to come to your business or event on June 21 to take a photo of your customers making music. Emphasize that the event is part of an international celebration of music making for both amateur and professional musicians, and how playing music benefits people of all ages.
- c) Agree on a specific time that the photographer or reporter will come to your store or event on June 21 to cover your event. Make sure that the editor is aware of all the event details (date, time, location).
- d) Designate a spokesperson to answer questions from the media.

Section 4 Ideas to Engage the Media

Maximize your social media outreach

Social media is a wonderful way to share your Make Music Day event with your local area community, media outlets, and beyond. Consider the following:

 Announce the event: A simple announcement on a social media platform, featuring the event logo and why you participate in Make Music Day has the opportunity to be seen by thousands of people. Download all assets here.

• Share photos of your event: Share photos, including attendees of all ages participating in your Make Music Day event, and encourage participants to do the same. Pass around a sign-in sheet to capture names and email addresses of participants, and share photos you captured with them after the event. These photos have the chance to create excitement for community members – the more photos the better!

Video: Video is a powerful medium to story tell and only takes a smartphone with camera.
 Consider talking to employees, music school students, and other participants about the event, what participation in Make Music Day means to them, and/or what they like most about Make Music Day in a series of short videos on your social media platforms.

 Ask your employees to participate! See what creative, musical ideas can be shared through social media posts, videos, and images.

With all social media posts, please use the hashtag #MakeMusic.

Share resulting media coverage with the community

Share media coverage via newsletters, affiliated websites, and social media.

Frame news articles and display them prominently throughout your business.

• Post the Make Music Day logo (found here) on all websites and in email signatures.

 Continue to share news about your Make Music Day event with your local area media through social media, email updates, a letter to the editor of your local paper, or similar.

Conduct Follow-Up Publicity

 Send a few of your best event photos via email to the local media. Include the name of your business and the event, the date and occasion, a short description of the action in the photos, and any identifying information for those featured in the photos.

Share images and press coverage with the participants who gave their email addresses.
 Thank them for coming, and invite them to come back again next year!

For any questions or tips on engaging the media, please contact Samantha Prince at samanthap@namm.org.
